Angry West Berliners Storm Red Rally

Soviet Nerve War Erupts Into Violence

Police Turn Back Crowd Of 3,000; Windows Smashed

BERLIN (AP)—More than 3,000 angry West Berliners laid siege to a Communist party rally Thursday night shouting: "Get out, Communists."

The demonstrators broke windows and smashed against the doors of the historic Sports Palace in the heart of this occupied city as East German Red leaders echoed Soviet demands for Allied troops to leave West Berlin. Sympathetic police finally channeled the attackers into side streets.

Inside the big building where Josef Goebbels and other Nazi leaders once made rabble-rousing speeches, 6,500 Reds had gathered with police permission for a campaign meeting in West Berlin's parliamentary elections Dec. 7. The Reds never have won a single seat in the 132-member body.

Audience Imported

To insure a so-called successful meeting, the Reds carefully imported most of their audience from East Berlin.

The temper of the normally good - natured West Berliners, worn thin by the nerve war launched by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, exploded when word of the meeting got out.

Hundreds of West Berlin police turned back thousands who tried to reach the sports arena without entry tickets.

But youths and refugees from East Germany, shouting "down with Communists," broke through the police lines repeatedly by the hundreds before the demonstraton dwindled.

U. S. Reminder Sent Soviets

Generally, West Berliners were heartened by the strong stand of the Western powers and had shed some of their fears of another Soviet blockade of Berlin.

In Washington, the State Department sharply reminded the Soviet Union that the Communists failed the last time they tried to blockade Berlin in 1948-49. Furthermore, the United States, Britain and France are in Berlin by right of conquest, Washington emphasized.

Bulganin Is Linked To 'Antiparty Group' By Kremlin's Rulers

LONDON (AP) — The Soviet Communist party Thursday night linked former Premier Nikolai Bulganin with the "antiparty group" of high officials expelled from office last year.

Bulganin was mentioned almost casually in a report on Russia's upcoming seven-year plan for economic development of the Soviet Union.

Moscow radio, quoting the report, said the Communist party "is conducting a determined struggle against those who cling to the old outmoded form and methods of work, were afflicted with conservatism and opposed the implementation of the Leninist general line of the party.

"In this contest the theses (reports) refer to the exposure and routing of the antiparty group of Menkov, Kaganovich, Molotov, Bulganin and Shepilov who joined them, who slid down the road to faction-splitting activity."

It was the first time Russia has leveled serious charges against the bearded ex-Premier who once shared the spotlight of Kremlin power with Nikita Khrushchev.

Bulganin was ousted as premier last March and appointed director of the state bank. Later he was made chairman of a local economic council in the remote Caucusus town of Stavropol.

Last September he was removed from the Presidium of the Soviet Communist party.

Shortlived Revolt

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP)—Authorities in the provincial capital of Beni were taken prisoner in a shortlived revolt last Sunday, belated dispatches from the area said Thursday.

Bolivian federal police restored order. The revolt resulted from disputes between federal officials in Beni and a local citizens committee. The region is in tropical northeast Bolivia.

Israelis Crack Arab Spy Ring; Score Seized

JERUSALEM, Israeli Sector (AP) — An investigation touched off by a box of Syrian-made matches has cracked one of the biggest spy rings ever unearthed in Israel, the government said Thursday.

A communique said 20 Israeli Arabs have been arrested and accused of working for Egyptian-Syrian intelligence. Police said at least 10 of them have confessed. The communique said more arrests are expected.

The ring operated in northern Israel and Jerusalem for more than two years, the communique said, and the spies sold military, economic and political information to the Arab agents.

Most of the 200,000 Arabs living in Israel are concentrated in the mountainous region of Galilee, in the north.

The beginning of the end of the ring came last Aug. 9 when Syrian agents made their last visit to Israel, the communique said.

One agent dropped a box of matches of Syrian make which was found and turned over to police. With that the Israelis opened an investigation and in September began making arrests.

Soviet Again Asked About U.S. Airmen

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States asked Russia once again Thursday: Where are the 11 U.S. airmen who crashed two months ago in Soviet Armenia?

The question was put forcefully to Soviet Ambassador Mikhail Menshikov by Undersecretary Robert Murphy at the State Department.

When Menshikov emerged after a half hour in Murphy's office, he tried to avoid comment. But a cluster of reporters persisted and Menshikov, heading for an elevator to get out of there, finally said:

"We talked about the intrusion of that American plane in Armenia."

The ambassador said he told Murphy he could add nothing to what the Soviet Foreign Ministry already had said.

The U.S. Air Force plane, a C130 transport, disappeared Sept. 2 over Turkey. Ten days later Russia reported it had crashed in Armenia about 20 miles from the Turkish frontier.

The bodies of six crew members were returned to U.S. officials. But, despite persistent U.S. inquiries, Soviet officials insist they know nothing about the 11 other crew members.

Argentine Chief Calls On Gomez To Resign Post

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — President Arturo Frondizi, backed by the armed forces and congressmen, demanded Thursday that Vice President Alejandro Gomez resign for attempting a palace coup.

Leaders of the intransignet radical party—to which both Frondizi and Gomez belong—joined in the clamor for the vice president to quit.

Gomez, in a high-level power play, tried to force Frondizi Wednesday to yield to a coalition government only six months after he took office.

Gomez told Frondizi in a face-to-face meeting the President could not control the military and that urgent measures were needed to meet the situation. But the armed services, party members, congressmen and Cabinet rallied to Frondizi and the Gomez push died before it got off the ground.

Frondizi began vigorously tackling the tumultous labor situation that had provided the atmosphere for Gomez's move.

At the height of the crisis, leaders of the petroleum union postponed a scheduled 48-hour nationwide strike for 96 hours. It had been scheduled to begin at midnight Wednesday.

With this breathing space, Labor Minister Alfredo Allende called in heads of the 62 unions which are regarded as having Peronist leanings and warned them against holding their strike called to protest the rising cost of living.

It appeared unlikely, the unions would obey.

Frondizi has powerful weapons in his hands under the state of siege he proclaimed Tuesday. Workers could be mobilized and put under military orders.

There were strong indications the labor troubles in the petroleum industry could be laid at the door of ex-Dictator Juan D. Peron, now in exile. The petroleum strike ostensibly is to oppose a government plan to get U.S. and other foreign help in developing the nationalized oil industry.

Teacher Answers Phone, Hears Shots Kill Lover

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (AP)—A young woman schoolteacher involved in a love triangle answered a telephone call from her husband early Thursday—and heard the shots that ended her lover's life.

The husband, handsome Cleon Cox, 27, is in jail here, charged with kidnaping and murder. His onetime best friend, Iler Molhoof, 27, is dead. And 400 miles away, at her parents house in Stockton, —where she heard the fatal shots —is disconsolate brunette Mrs. Peggy Cox, 21, her marriage and romance shattered.

Cox accused Molhook of stealing his wife's love. Wednesday Cox, police said, kidnaped Molhook, a 6-foot-1, 170-pound man, in Los Angeles where he was a student at UCLA. He was brought to Cox's apartment here, and shot while Mrs. Cox listened on the telephone in Stockton.

Mrs. Cox told newsmen Cox began "playing around" shortly after they were married. Meantime, she said, she had met and fallen in love with Molhook. She said her husband had a violent temper and frequently beat her.

Finally, in Molhook's presence, she told her husband she and Molhook wanted to get married. But Cox, she said, "couldn't take it."

The Cox couple separated last Sept. 22 with the agreement, Mrs. Cox said, he was to get a divorce.

At 4:30 a.m. Thursday Cox telephoned her from Bakersfield. He asked if she was "good and awake." Assured she was, he asked about the possibility of her coming back to him.

"I guess it's all over," she told him.

He asked her to be more definite. She told him: "Yes it's all over."

Carpenters Delay Vote On Secession

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A showdown ballot investing leaders of the giant Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners with the power to take the union out of the AFL-CIO was postponed until Friday.

A secession resolution remained in committee and other business occupied the 2,000 delegates to the national convention of the world's largest craft union.

If the crucial resolution, already signed by 1,200 delegates, passes in the oral voting, the general executive board receives the right to take the carpenters' membership of 839,000 from the AFL-CIO.

The resolution says the AFL-CIO has "jeopardized and threatened" the best interests of the union and its leaders.

The AFL-CIO Executive Council has told Carpenters President Maurice A. Hutcheson it wants to question him about charges of misconduct brought by the Senate rackets committee.

McElroy Soon To Order Army, Marine Cutback

Pentagon Might Curtail Overseas Missile Program

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy disclosed Thursday that he shortly will order a 55,000-man slash in the size of the Army and Marine Corps.

McElroy conceded that the cuts, which were delayed by the Lebanon and Quemoy crisis, come at a time when the free world now is "being pushed aggressively by the Communist world at a number of points."

But he told a news conference the lessons of Lebanon and Quemoy reinforced the policy of placing chief U.S. emphasis on the Air Force and Navy while this nation's allies build up their ground forces with American help.

McElroy also disclosed that the Pentagon may drastically curtail previous plans for sending intermediate range ballistic missiles abroad and step up development of intercontinental ballistic missiles based in America.

The defense secretary said there would be no cutback in numbers of Air Force Thor or Army Jupiter intermediate 1,500-mile missiles. But he said the Defense Department is "reappraising military requirements for IRBM'."

While McElroy did not mention the fact, the United States has run into considerable difficulty in working out agreements with other free nations for the basing of Thors and Jupiters on their territory.

The question has become a hot political issue in most North Atlantic Treaty countries. Even in the case of Britain and Italy, agreements were made only after long debate. France so far has resisted intermediate missile bases on its soil.

McElroy said that the nearer intercontinental missiles get to operational readiness, "the less interesting it is to deploy IRBM's."

He particularly cited the problem of "joint control" at overseas bases. By contrast, he said, the United States has complete control over ICBM's at American sites. He also said the American sites are somewhat easier to protect because of their distance from Russia.

U.S. Calls For Speedy Accord On Outer Space

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States appealed Thursday for speedy U.N. action in promoting international cooperation on peaceful uses of outer space in order to block suicidal national rivalries.

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge told the 81-nation Political Committee the world faced this choice: either to use outer space as a means for international collaboration or "to destroy ourselves through extension of national rivalries" into man's newest dimension.

He proposed creation of a nine-nation committee. It would make a far-ranging study of peaceful uses of outer space and report back to the next General Assembly.

This was in line with a resolution introduced by the United States and 19 other nations as a rival to a Soviet resolution.

The Russians urged the U.N. to recommend a ban on use of outer space for military purposes, and elimination of overseas military bases such as the United States has in Europe, the Middle East and Africa.

The Russians seek establishment of a U.N. agency for international cooperation in the study of outer space instead of a special committee.

The U.S.-backed resolution proposed no ban on outer space military weapons.

Lodge declared, "Candor compels us to admit that agreement on disarmament aspects of outer space lies in the future."

But he said that is no reason for delaying action on promoting "programs of international cooperation in the peaceful uses of outer space which are truly significant."

There appeared little doubt the U.N. would approve the 20-nation resolution proposing the study committee.

Atom Test Ban Treaty Offered Russia By U.S.

GENEVA (UPI) — The United States Thursday offered Russia a package treaty for an East-West ban on nuclear tests with a built in system of controls to enforce it.

The document was handed to the Soviets by U.S. Ambassador James J. Wadsworth at the eighth formal session of the bogged-dow Geneva nuclear ban talks.

Its purpose was to break, if possible, the deadlock that has hamstrung the U.S.-British-Russian talks from their beginning last Oct. 31.

The U. S. draft treaty, in essence, reaffirmed the consistent Western stand that any East-West nuclear test ban agreement must be equipped with a simultaneous policing system.

Following submission of the draft, the conference recessed for three days to enable the Russians to study it.

Russia had submitted a nuclear ban draft treaty of its own earlier in the talks. The West turned it down because the Soviets demanded an advance unconditional pledge to ban nuclear testing for all time. The West has insisted throughout that a control system be set up first.

Cuban Army Claims Air, Land Victories

HAVANA (UPI) — The Army claimed smashing victories in Oriente Province Thursday in what appeared to be the opening of a land and air offensive designed to annihilate Fidel Castro's rebels or drive them back into their mountain hideouts.

In the first air combat action during nearly two years of civil strife, the army claimed that its air force fighters shot down and destroyed three rebel arms-carrying planes.

The Eastern Command said in a communique that nearly 500 rebels were killed in five days of action over a widespread front in the eastern end of Cuba.

Federal Probe Of Birmingham Police Ordered

WASHINGTON (AP) — Orders went out Thursday for a federal grand jury probe of the Birmingham, Ala., police department to find out whether it has violated the civil rights of three Negro ministers.

Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers said the grand jury will be convened in Birmingham as soon as possible. It will concentrate on the arrest of the ministers on vagrancy charges.

Rogers told a news conference the grand jury investigation was ordered after Eugene Connor, Birmingham's public safety commissioner, refused to discuss the arrests with FBI agents. Connor also instructed Birmingham police officers not to talk, Rogers said.

Connor was not immediately available in Birmingham for comment.

After the Oct. 27 arrest of the ministers, who had come from Montgomery, Ala., Connor proclaimed that "outside agitators" found in Birmingham would see the inside of the city's jail.

Birmingham Negroes have been demonstrating against a law intended to maintain racial segregation on the city's buses.

The attorney general also announced at his news conference that the Justice Department is considering recommending to Congress the enactment of new civil rights legislation to cope with the recent wave of school, church and synagogue bombings.

Rogers expressed concern over the increase in the volume of "hate" mail and what he called the defiance of court decisions in segregation cases. As for the bombings, Rogers said they were cowardly "and any thoughtful, decent American is ashamed of them."

Man Bags Deer But Loses Best Steaks To Thief

Thursday he discovered 20 pounds of the best steaks had been neatly cut from the carcass.

School Closed; Sewage Pumped Into Water

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—All pupils of Center Point Elementary School were ordered Thursday to take typhoid vaccine after sludge from a septic tank was pumped into the drinking water system.

The school was ordered closed Friday and parents were instructed to bring its 480 pupils to the school to receive typhoid immunication.

Wanted: Help In Solving "Impossible" Problems

WASHINGTON (AP) — Uncle Sam is issuing a new appeal to inventors to help the armed forces solve "impossible" problems.

Among the tasks: How to make an artificial electric eel, and how to talk over a broken telephone line.

The National Inventors Council, a clearing house for ideas which might help the military, will publish Friday an expanded list of technical problems which have baffled Pentagon engineers and scientists. The whole country is invited to take a crack at them.

Ever since 1940, the council has been publishing periodic lists of inventions wanted by the armed forces. Thew new list adds 82 problems, revises 49 old ones and eliminates 58 which either have been solved or bypassed.

One new item is a "dumb" satellite—one without instruments to communicate with earthlings — which can be used to reflect radio waves so they'll travel farther.

The new satellite will have to produce the same effect as a meteor plunging through the sky. A meteor often has a tail of starry particles off which radio waves can be reflected. The council suggests the satellite might drag a wire or screen through the heavens.

The military wants a man-made electric eel. This is the fish which can generate electricity in sea water. The armed forces would use such a device to power amplifiers which would be attached to undersea cables in order to strengthen communications signals.

If you're looking for a real challenge, develop a system for communicating over a telephone or telegraph line that has been broken.

Bank Robber Turned Union Leader Slain

Head Of Firm Hit By Wildcat Walkout Shoots Organizer

CHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — The president of a small manufacturing company, embittered by a wildcat walkout against his firm, Thursday shot to death the strike' leader, a bank robber turned union boss.

The executive, Malcolm White, 48, told police he went berserk when the union organizer, Alfred Dugan, 52, rushed toward him after an argument with his hand in his pocket as though holding a gun.

White let go seven shots from a .32-caliber automatic and at least two of them found their mark. Dugan fell mortally wounded. It turned out he was unarmed.

The shooting took place on a road about a mile from the plant.

Set Up Picket Line

Dugan threw a picket line around White's cable company last Monday in a drive to swing its 140 employes away from another union and into his own independent organization.

White regarded Dugan as an interloper from New Jersey, come to this Orange County community to stir up trouble at his Chester Cable Co., an electrical wire manufacturing division of Miami Copper Co.

The executive had compiled a dossier on Dugan's criminal past as a strong-arm thug and bank robber and planned to make it public.

Shortly before the shooting, White told the Newburgh News in nearby Newburgh, N.Y.: "If he wants to start trouble, let him do it. I have nothing against labor and strikes if legitimate. As long as people follow Dugan they can't get anything but trouble from him."

No Witnesses To Shooting

Dugan had left the picket line to follow White when the latter drove away in a car. The shooting on the road was out of sight of the pickets.

The union organizer had a long record with New Jersey state police for bank robbery, armed robbery and mayhem. He was sentenced to 12 to 15 years in prison for the $108,000 robbery of an Asbury Park, N.J., bank in 1940.

A month ago, Dugan was hired as an organizer for the Interstate Industrial Union, an indepenent organization affiliated with the National Independent Union Council. A council official said his criminal record was known, but the council wanted to give him a chance at rehabilitation.

Mediators Call Chrysler Talks

DETROIT (UPI) — The federal and state mediators have called a meeting of negotiators for Chrysler Corp. and the United Auto Workers Union for Friday morning in an attempt to end the strike by 8,000 Chrysler office workers.

A spokesman for the Federal Mediation Service said the meeting was requested by his office and agreed to by both the company and the union.

Negotiations between the company and the union were adjourned indefinitely when officials of both sides failed to reach an agreement on a new contract for the unionized office workers before a strike deadline Tuesday and the strike was started.

The call for new negotiations came as all except three of the company's automotive plants, including all assembly operations, were closed by the strikers.

Noted World War II Artist Found Dead

ROME (AP)—David Fredenthal, an American artist widely known for his sketches of World War II battles and other news events, was found dead Thursday in his Rome apartment.

Italian police said the 44-year-old, Detroit-born artist had taken an overdose of barbiturates. Police quoted friends of Fredenthal as saying he had been ill for some time, perhaps critically ill.

Many of Fredenthal's drawings were carried by Life and Fortune magazines. He often took his sketch pad into places where he could not go to register current events pictorially in drawings that brought him wide acclaim.

A secession resolution remained in committee and other business occupied the 2,000 delegates to the national convention of the world's largest craft union.

If the crucial resolution, already signed by 1,200 delegates, passes in the oral voting, the general executive board receives the right to take the carpenters' membership of 839,000 from the AFL-CIO.

The resolution says the AFL-CIO has "jeopardized and threatened" the best interests of the union and its leaders.

The AFL-CIO Executive Council has told Carpenters President Maurice A. Hutcheson it wants to question him about charges of misconduct brought by the Senate rackets committee.

U.S. Calls For Speedy Accord On Outer Space

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States appealed Thursday for speedy U.N. action in promoting international cooperation on peaceful uses of outer space in order to block suicidal national rivalries.

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge told the 81-nation Political Committee the world faced this choice: either to use outer space as a means for international collaboration or "to destroy ourselves through extension of national rivalries" into man's newest dimension.

He proposed creation of a nine-nation committee. It would make a far-ranging study of peaceful uses of outer space and report back to the next General Assembly.

This was in line with a resolution introduced by the United States and 19 other nations as a rival to a Soviet resolution.

The Russians urged the U.N. to recommend a ban on use of outer space for military purposes, and elimination of overseas military bases such as the United States has in Europe, the Middle East and Africa.

The Russians seek establishment of a U.N. agency for international cooperation in the study of outer space instead of a special committee.

The U.S.-backed resolution proposed no ban on outer space military weapons.

Lodge declared, "Candor compels us to admit that agreement on disarmament aspects of outer space lies in the future."

But he said that is no reason for delaying action on promoting "programs of international cooperation in the peaceful uses of outer space which are truly significant."

There appeared little doubt the U.N. would approve the 20-nation resolution proposing the study committee.

Atom Test Ban Treaty Offered Russia By U.S.

GENEVA (UPI) — The United States Thursday offered Russia a package treaty for an East-West ban on nuclear tests with a built in system of controls to enforce it.

The document was handed to the Soviets by U.S. Ambassador James J. Wadsworth at the eighth formal session of the bogged-dow Geneva nuclear ban talks.

Its purpose was to break, if possible, the deadlock that has hamstrung the U.S.-British-Russian talks from their beginning last Oct. 31.

The U. S. draft treaty, in essence, reaffirmed the consistent Western stand that any East-West nuclear test ban agreement must be equipped with a simultaneous policing system.

Following submission of the draft, the conference recessed for three days to enable the Russians to study it.

Russia had submitted a nuclear ban draft treaty of its own earlier in the talks. The West turned it down because the Soviets demanded an advance unconditional pledge to ban nuclear testing for all time. The West has insisted throughout that a control system be set up first.

Cuban Army Claims Air, Land Victories

HAVANA (UPI) — The Army claimed smashing victories in Oriente Province Thursday in what appeared to be the opening of a land and air offensive designed to annihilate Fidel Castro's rebels or drive them back into their mountain hideouts.

In the first air combat action during nearly two years of civil strife, the army claimed that its air force fighters shot down and destroyed three rebel arms-carrying planes.

The Eastern Command said in a communique that nearly 500 rebels were killed in five days of action over a widespread front in the eastern end of Cuba.

Federal Probe Of Birmingham Police Ordered

WASHINGTON (AP) — Orders went out Thursday for a federal grand jury probe of the Birmingham, Ala., police department to find out whether it has violated the civil rights of three Negro ministers.

Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers said the grand jury will be convened in Birmingham as soon as possible. It will concentrate on the arrest of the ministers on vagrancy charges.

Rogers told a news conference the grand jury investigation was ordered after Eugene Connor, Birmingham's public safety commissioner, refused to discuss the arrests with FBI agents. Connor also instructed Birmingham police officers not to talk, Rogers said.

Connor was not immediately available in Birmingham for comment.

After the Oct. 27 arrest of the ministers, who had come from Montgomery, Ala., Connor proclaimed that "outside agitators" found in Birmingham would see the inside of the city's jail.

Birmingham Negroes have been demonstrating against a law intended to maintain racial segregation on the city's buses.

The attorney general also announced at his news conference that the Justice Department is considering recommending to Congress the enactment of new civil rights legislation to cope with the recent wave of school, church and synagogue bombings.

Rogers expressed concern over the increase in the volume of "hate" mail and what he called the defiance of court decisions in segregation cases. As for the bombings, Rogers said they were cowardly "and any thoughtful, decent American is ashamed of them."

Pentagon Might Curtail Overseas Missile Program

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy disclosed Thursday that he shortly will order a 55,000-man slash in the size of the Army and Marine Corps.

McElroy conceded that the cuts, which were delayed by the Lebanon and Quemoy crisis, come at a time when the free world now is "being pushed aggressively by the Communist world at a number of points."

But he told a news conference the lessons of Lebanon and Quemoy reinforced the policy of placing chief U.S. emphasis on the Air Force and Navy while this nation's allies build up their ground forces with American help.

McElroy also disclosed that the Pentagon may drastically curtail previous plans for sending intermediate range ballistic missiles abroad and step up development of intercontinental ballistic missiles based in America.

The defense secretary said there would be no cutback in numbers of Air Force Thor or Army Jupiter intermediate 1,500-mile missiles. But he said the Defense Department is "reappraising military requirements for IRBM'."

While McElroy did not mention the fact, the United States has run into considerable difficulty in working out agreements with other free nations for the basing of Thors and Jupiters on their territory.

The question has become a hot political issue in most North Atlantic Treaty countries. Even in the case of Britain and Italy, agreements were made only after long debate. France so far has resisted intermediate missile bases on its soil.

McElroy said that the nearer intercontinental missiles get to operational readiness, "the less interesting it is to deploy IRBM's."

He particularly cited the problem of "joint control" at overseas bases. By contrast, he said, the United States has complete control over ICBM's at American sites. He also said the American sites are somewhat easier to protect because of their distance from Russia.

Man Bags Deer But Loses Best Steaks To Thief

METHUEN, Mass. (AP)—A connoisseur thief is going to have several tasty meals.

Albert Dubois shot a deer in Ossipee, N.H., Tuesday.

He hung the 160-pound buck on his back porch.

Thursday he discovered 20 pounds of the best steaks had been neatly cut from the carcass.

School Closed; Sewage Pumped Into Water

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—All pupils of Center Point Elementary School were ordered Thursday to take typhoid vaccine after sludge from a septic tank was pumped into the drinking water system.

The school was ordered closed Friday and parents were instructed to bring its 480 pupils to the school to receive typhoid immunication.

Wanted: Help In Solving "Impossible" Problems

WASHINGTON (AP) — Uncle Sam is issuing a new appeal to inventors to help the armed forces solve "impossible" problems.

Among the tasks: How to make an artificial electric eel, and how to talk over a broken telephone line.

The National Inventors Council, a clearing house for ideas which might help the military, will publish Friday an expanded list of technical problems which have baffled Pentagon engineers and scientists. The whole country is invited to take a crack at them.

Ever since 1940, the council has been publishing periodic lists of inventions wanted by the armed forces. Thew new list adds 82 problems, revises 49 old ones and eliminates 58 which either have been solved or bypassed.

One new item is a "dumb" satellite—one without instruments to communicate with earthlings — which can be used to reflect radio waves so they'll travel farther.

The new satellite will have to produce the same effect as a meteor plunging through the sky. A meteor often has a tail of starry particles off which radio waves can be reflected. The council suggests the satellite might drag a wire or screen through the heavens.

The military wants a man-made electric eel. This is the fish which can generate electricity in sea water. The armed forces would use such a device to power amplifiers which would be attached to undersea cables in order to strengthen communications signals.

If you're looking for a real challenge, develop a system for communicating over a telephone or telegraph line that has been broken.

Bank Robber Turned Union Leader Slain

Head Of Firm Hit By Wildcat Walkout Shoots Organizer

CHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — The president of a small manufacturing company, embittered by a wildcat walkout against his firm, Thursday shot to death the strike' leader, a bank robber turned union boss.

The executive, Malcolm White, 48, told police he went berserk when the union organizer, Alfred Dugan, 52, rushed toward him after an argument with his hand in his pocket as though holding a gun.

White let go seven shots from a .32-caliber automatic and at least two of them found their mark. Dugan fell mortally wounded. It turned out he was unarmed.

The shooting took place on a road about a mile from the plant.

Set Up Picket Line

Dugan threw a picket line around White's cable company last Monday in a drive to swing its 140 employes away from another union and into his own independent organization.

White regarded Dugan as an interloper from New Jersey, come to this Orange County community to stir up trouble at his Chester Cable Co., an electrical wire manufacturing division of Miami Copper Co.

The executive had compiled a dossier on Dugan's criminal past as a strong-arm thug and bank robber and planned to make it public.

Shortly before the shooting, White told the Newburgh News in nearby Newburgh, N.Y.: "If he wants to start trouble, let him do it. I have nothing against labor and strikes if legitimate. As long as people follow Dugan they can't get anything but trouble from him."

No Witnesses To Shooting

Dugan had left the picket line to follow White when the latter drove away in a car. The shooting on the road was out of sight of the pickets.

The union organizer had a long record with New Jersey state police for bank robbery, armed robbery and mayhem. He was sentenced to 12 to 15 years in prison for the $108,000 robbery of an Asbury Park, N.J., bank in 1940.

A month ago, Dugan was hired as an organizer for the Interstate Industrial Union, an indepenent organization affiliated with the National Independent Union Council. A council official said his criminal record was known, but the council wanted to give him a chance at rehabilitation.

Mediators Call Chrysler Talks

DETROIT (UPI) — The federal and state mediators have called a meeting of negotiators for Chrysler Corp. and the United Auto Workers Union for Friday morning in an attempt to end the strike by 8,000 Chrysler office workers.

A spokesman for the Federal Mediation Service said the meeting was requested by his office and agreed to by both the company and the union.

Negotiations between the company and the union were adjourned indefinitely when officials of both sides failed to reach an agreement on a new contract for the unionized office workers before a strike deadline Tuesday and the strike was started.

The call for new negotiations came as all except three of the company's automotive plants, including all assembly operations, were closed by the strikers.

Noted World War II Artist Found Dead

ROME (AP)—David Fredenthal, an American artist widely known for his sketches of World War II battles and other news events, was found dead Thursday in his Rome apartment.

Italian police said the 44-year-old, Detroit-born artist had taken an overdose of barbiturates. Police quoted friends of Fredenthal as saying he had been ill for some time, perhaps critically ill.

Many of Fredenthal's drawings were carried by Life and Fortune magazines. He often took his sketch pad into places where he could not go to register current events pictorially in drawings that brought him wide acclaim.

St. Marys County's Integration System Dealt Blow By Court

High School Must Admit Negro Girl

BALTIMORE (AP)—The U. S. Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals Thursday upheld a lower court order directing the admission of a Negro girl to a St. Marys County high school as an exception to the Maryland county's plan of integration.

Attorneys for the county had argued that the presence of the girl, 16 - year - old Joan Elaine Groves, would interfere with the orderly process of integration at Great Mills High School.

In upholding Federal District Judge Roszel C. Thomsen, the appellate court ruled that the girl would suffer "unusual hardship" under the plan. She is a senior, and the county desegregation plan calls for removing racial barriers from the 12th grade in the future.

The girl's brother, 14-year-old Conrad Groves, enrolled in the ninth grade this year after when that grade was absorbed into the desegregation plan.

The court said a judge "may not disregard his own responsibility to determine not only whether a plan is offered in good faith but whether it is reasonable in all its aspects."

This, it added, "includes the duty to determine whether an exception to the plan in a given case snould be made."

"Not infrequently such a decision must be made in every field of human activity whenever a reasoned plan bears with unusual hardship on a particular individual," said the opinion.

The court stressed that Thomsen's opinion expressed "no disapproval of the general plan" for desegregating St. Marys County schools and reserved to the county school board the right to cite the plan in its defense in any future cases.

But it said it could not find anything "arbitrary or unreasonable" in the order directing the board to admit Miss Groves to Great Mills High. She was enrolled at the start of the current semester without incident.

In arguments before the three-judge court Oct. 6 an attorney for the girl said that if her right to a desegregated education were not upheld she would never enjoy that right because she was due to graduate next June.

"It is a private, personal, immediate constitutional right," said Mrs. Juanita Jackson Mitchell, attorney for the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People.

Board attorneys had argued that the county's plan fulfilled the criteria set by the Supreme Court in its desegregation decision—good faith, deliberate speed, a prompt start. H. Vernon Eney, attorney for the board, said the county was anxious to avoid any incidents in connection with the desegregation program.

Tunisia To Ask Reds For Arms, Bourguiba Says

TUNIS (UPI) — Tunisian President Habib Bourguiba, a long-time friend of the West, said Thursday he had decided to seek arms from Communist and neutral countries because of conditions imposed by the United States and Britain.

Bourguiba, in a radio speech, scored the west for its stand on proposed Anglo-American arms deliveries to Tunisia.

The Tunisian leader said, however, that his action did not mean that Tunisia was switching to "positive neutrality," presumably a reference to the United Arab Republic, with which Tunisia recently severed relations. He added that it was not too late for the West "to revise its attitude."

Bourguiba said his government had sent requests to Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia and Finland "to buy the arms we need." Although he specifically mentioned Finland in his speech, an official government spokesman said later that the president had meant to say Sweden.

Veto Power Denied

Bourguiba apparently was referring to reports that the United States and Britain had agreed to send arms to Tunisia only on condition that such shipments have the prior approval of the French government.

Both the United States and Britain have denied the existence of any such Paris veto condition.

Arkansas Court Blocks Payment To School Head

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — A state judge Thursday blocked payment of $19,741 to School Supt. Virgil T. Blossom, whose contract was terminated Wednesday night prior to a mass resignation of five school board members.

Chancellor Murray P. Reed signed a temporary restraining order asked in a suit filed by John B. King, a fruit company employe with two teen-aged daughters.

Meanwhile, the city searched frantically for six responsible candidates willing to assume the task of administering the city's schools in the face of federal court integration orders.

All six board positions will be open in the Dec. 6 school election. The term of the sixth member, Dr. Dale Alford, is expiring and as a congressman-elect he is not seeking another term.

Alford raised a lone dissenting voice when the five resigning members — President Wayne Upton, R. A. Lile, Dr. W. G. Cooper, Harold Engstrom and Frank Lambright—passed resolutions ending the superintendent's three-year contract effective Nov. 30, and agreeing to pay off the remaining 19 months of it.

King's suit alleged the payment would be an "illegal misuse and diversion of public funds" and amounted to collusion between the board and Blossom.

The retiring board apparently took the action because it felt a new board would not deal fairly with the burly superintendent who has been blasted by segregationists as author of the controversial Little Rock plan for gradual integration.

Youth Describes Brutal 'Cain And Abel' Slaying

ALTADENA, Calif. (UPI) —An 18-year-old boy said Thursday that he killed his younger brother because he "just had to die" and disclosed a Cain and Abel relationship between the two youths.

Edward Ginn, 14, was shot to death Wednesday night by his brother, Bruce, who told Sgt. James Wahlke that his brother was "inferior." He said the younger boy was "a no-good person to be around."

Harry A. Ginn, father of the brothers, said he realized the boys had not spoken to one another in a year.

"Only a little while ago I had two sons," said Ginn. "Now I have none."

Bruce said he had planned to kill Edward for a long time and purchased a .22 caliber pistol from a mail order house for $16.10.

He said he decided to shoot his brother Wednesday when Edward, described as a "happy-go-lucky" type, returned from school.

"About 3 p.m.," the older boy said in his confession, "I load d the gun and hid in the bathroom. I heard my brother come in and change clothes and come to the bathroom door. I stood in front and when my brother opened the door, I fired one shot that hit him in the shoulder.

"My brother spun around and pushed the door closed," he continued. "I tried to open it but he held it shut. He asked me "What's the idea?" I told him I had gotten the gun from a friend in the Mafia and I just had to kill him.

Bruce told investigators his brother asked him to "go get a doctor."

"I asked to see the wound," the older boy replied. "I told him I had only one shell in the gun and I wanted to see the wound again.

"He put his head around the door to look. I shot him in the temple. . . .I went in and shot him four more times."

He also said he shot the family pet dog, "Razz," when "he came toward me . . . I went back to the bathroom and saw my brother lying in a pool of blood. I shot two more times to be sure he was dead."

Bruce said he planned to commit suicide, "but I figured all the good shells were gone. I didn't want to shoot myself and suffer."

Baltimore Earnings Tax Plan Opposed

BALTIMORE (AP) — The proposal to impose an earnings tax on persons working in Baltimore got the cold shoulder Thursday from the mayor and the budget committee of the Board of Estimates.

"It is out of the question in the foreseeable future," said the committee of the proposal for a .7 per cent tax on individual salaries and on profits of all corporations and businesses within the city.

The objections of Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro were much along the lines of those stated earlier in the day by the budget group.

The recommendation to tax earnings—aimed to a great extent at reaping revenue from those who work in the city but live in adjacent counties—was offered a week ago by the mayor's Commission on New Revenue. The commission is headed by Charles H. Buck.

Bullets Halt Boy In 110 MPH Chase

FREDERICK (AP)—A 16-year-old boy was ordered held for action by Frederick County juvenile authorities Thursday after he led police on a bullet-punctuated chase on the outskirts of Baltimore.

The youngster, a resident of Feagasville near here, was turned over to State Police at the Frederick barracks. They, in turn, handed him over to county juvenile authorities who ordered him held as a delinquent. He was not identified.

The youngster told police he grew tired of working on a farm and decided to go to Florida. He stole a car, $70 and license plates from the wife of his cousin and an aunt and drove down U.S. 40 towards Baltimore.

Howard County police spotted the car speeding a couple of miles west of Baltimore. They chased him at speeds up to 110 miles an hour.

Harry A. Ginn, father of the brothers, said he realized the boys had not spoken to one another in a year.

"Only a little while ago I had two sons," said Ginn. "Now I have none."

Bruce said he had planned to kill Edward for a long time and purchased a .22 caliber pistol from a mail order house for $16.10.

He said he decided to shoot his brother Wednesday when Edward, described as a "happy-go-lucky" type, returned from school.

"About 3 p.m.," the older boy said in his confession, "I load d the gun and hid in the bathroom. I heard my brother come in and change clothes and come to the bathroom door. I stood in front and when my brother opened the door, I fired one shot that hit him in the shoulder.

"My brother spun around and pushed the door closed," he continued. "I tried to open it but he held it shut. He asked me "What's the idea?" I told him I had gotten the gun from a friend in the Mafia and I just had to kill him.

Bruce told investigators his brother asked him to "go get a doctor."

"I asked to see the wound," the older boy replied. "I told him I had only one shell in the gun and I wanted to see the wound again.

"He put his head around the door to look. I shot him in the temple. . . .I went in and shot him four more times."

He also said he shot the family pet dog, "Razz," when "he came toward me . . . I went back to the bathroom and saw my brother lying in a pool of blood. I shot two more times to be sure he was dead."

Bruce said he planned to commit suicide, "but I figured all the good shells were gone. I didn't want to shoot myself and suffer."

Baltimore Earnings Tax Plan Opposed

BALTIMORE (AP) — The proposal to impose an earnings tax on persons working in Baltimore got the cold shoulder Thursday from the mayor and the budget committee of the Board of Estimates.

"It is out of the question in the foreseeable future," said the committee of the proposal for a .7 per cent tax on individual salaries and on profits of all corporations and businesses within the city.

The objections of Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro were much along the lines of those stated earlier in the day by the budget group.

The recommendation to tax earnings—aimed to a great extent at reaping revenue from those who work in the city but live in adjacent counties—was offered a week ago by the mayor's Commission on New Revenue. The commission is headed by Charles H. Buck.

Bullets Halt Boy In 110 MPH Chase

FREDERICK (AP)—A 16-year-old boy was ordered held for action by Frederick County juvenile authorities Thursday after he led police on a bullet-punctuated chase on the outskirts of Baltimore.

The youngster, a resident of Feagasville near here, was turned over to State Police at the Frederick barracks. They, in turn, handed him over to county juvenile authorities who ordered him held as a delinquent. He was not identified.

The youngster told police he grew tired of working on a farm and decided to go to Florida. He stole a car, $70 and license plates from the wife of his cousin and an aunt and drove down U.S. 40 towards Baltimore.

Howard County police spotted the car speeding a couple of miles west of Baltimore. They chased him at speeds up to 110 miles an hour.

Doctor's Combination of Ingredients Stops Stomach Gas Before It Starts

Buffalo, N.Y. (Special)—Thousands of people who suffered for years from gassy stomach, heartburn, belching after meals and other symptoms of acid indigestion now report wonderful relief, thanks to a remarkable formula developed by a prominent doctor and known as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

Containing not just one or two, but a special combination of 7 ingredients, this famous medicine is designed to stop stomach gas before it even starts.

Instead of upsetting the delicate acid-balance of the stomach, as too frequent use of soda and alkalizers often does, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery actually promotes more normal stomach activity.

Taken regularly, it tones up your digestive system and helps you avoid gas pains, heartburn and sour stomach. Once your stomach is working properly, you can eat what you like without fear of distress.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has helped so many people that over 38 million bottles have been sold. Get it at your druggist's today in liquid or tablets. Your money back if not entirely satisfied.

This 4-door Hardtop Cruiser is the luxurious Park Lane by Mercury. Also available in the distinctive Montclair and the popular Monterey series. M

The brand NEW '59 MERCURY shows you what NEW really means

Americans are looking at the new cars with a new look in their eyes. They're searching for the best combination of all the things that count in a car. The answer in 1959 comes from this completely new 20th Anniversary Mercury.

SEE NEW CLEAN-DYNAMIC STYLING

Distinctive—Mercury has exclusive body design; it is the only car in its class that does not use a body shared by a low-priced car.

RELAX IN A NEW KIND OF COMFORT

No car in its class has more usable room. For easier entrance, doors are wider than those of costliest cars. Up front—9 inches more knee room! The tunnel-hump in the floor HAS BEEN CUT IN HALF! The man in the middle doesn't sit with his chin on his knees. And that lower hump makes room for thicker seat cushions.

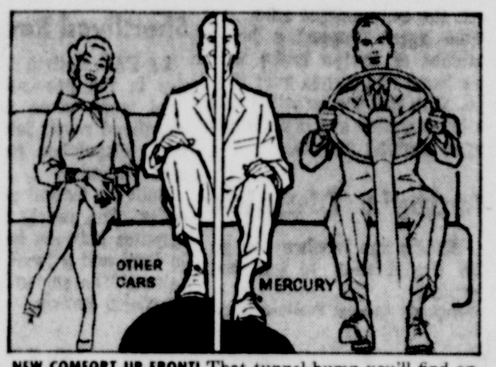
FEEL LIVELY NEW PERFORMANCE

Not just high horsepower—although Mercury offers up to 345—but a new kind of response, quiet, obedient, effortless.

ENJOY NEW ECONOMIES

2 out of 3 new-car buyers can afford Mercury. The big special is the Monterey with its new Economy Engine. You get top performance on regular (not premium) gas—it's like "riding free" 10 miles out of every 100.

Add it up and you get everything you want on wheels—the '59 Mercury. We invite you to try this great car—at our showroom.



NEW COMFORT UP FRONT! That tunnel-hump you'll find on other '59 cars is 50% smaller in Mercury. 3 full-size riders can stretch out (including the man in the middle).

MERCURY'S COUNTRY CRUISERS—Unique hardtop styling. Retractable rear window. Fold-away 3rd seat that faces front. Concealed package compartment.

MERCURY'S FIRST WITH SIDE-TO-SIDE WIPERS—They clear a 42% larger area—a 5-foot swath—including the center section. Only Mercury has this aid to safer driving.

Storms And Floods Kill Nine In Italy

MILAN, Italy (AP)—Italy Thursday night counted nine dead and 27 injured in two days of persistent rains. The wintry storms also swelled the Po River into a serious flood threat.

Through the day, firemen, police and volunteers worked in the Po delta on the Adriatic Sea to raise new dikes and reinforce old ones against the rising river and high sea tides.

Technical Troubles Delay Atlas Shot

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —Technical troubles stymied another Atlas launching Thursday but the Air Force is expected to make another attempt to fire its mightiest missile soon.

The 100-ton intercontinental-range ballistic missile stood poised in the rays of floodlights for several hours after its huge service tower was rolled away, but the shoot was called off when technical difficulties developed during the countdown.

Kathryn Eye Tells Of Congo Work

The customs and needs of the people and missionaries in the Belgian Congo were discussed by Miss Kathryn Eye, medical missionary, at a joint dinner meeting of the Wesleyan Service Guild and WSCS of Centre Street Church Wednesday. Miss Eye also spoke of the challenge to the missionary to educate these people to accept the new-found wealth by the discovery of uranium in Africa.

Miss Eye explained there are many tribes in the Congo, many of which are still uncivilized. Each of these tribes speaks its own language. At the present time approximately 45 denominations are represented there, each working with a particular tribe but also planning together in a common council. French is the universal language of Africa and through this medium the councils are conducted to which educated Africans are also sent as representatives.

To conduct her work, Miss Eye must travel sometimes hundreds of miles in her car over jungle roads, through danger areas, to hospitals needing help. Many times she meets with Africans around their great fires and through this contact was able to make friends with the tribe. She said Africans are a friendly people, and once they are convinced there is a better way and gain one's confidence, they are loyal to it.

Miss Eye, wearing a dress made of African cloth, explained how the material was made and said the dye was made from the mahogany tree and will withstand the intense African sun. The colors which they use are red, orange, navy blue and black. At the close of her talk, she presented Mrs. Fay Mansfield, society president, with a hand-carved pin made of ivory.

Rev. Carlton Harris gave the invocation. Mrs. Mansfield and Miss Garnet Fazenbaker extended a welcome. Devotions were conducted by Mrs. W. I. Burton. James Hager sang "Bless this Home" and "Evening Prayer," with Mrs. Kenneth Beck at the piano. Mrs. Harris introduced Miss Eye, the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. W. D. Eye, Bridgewater, Va. Approximately 150 guests from 14 area churches and 150 members attended. Following the meeting Mrs. Mansfield entertained at her home, Fayette Street.

Meditations Applicable 1778 Years

"Meditations" by Marcus Aurelius, emporer of Rome from 161 until his death in 180 A.D., was the topic of discussion of the Great Books Group of Cumberland Branch, American Association of University Women, Tuesday evening. Mrs. Milton Beneman and Mrs. Ralph Webster entertained the group at the home of the former, Luteman Road.

Mrs. Granville Shirley reviewed his life, pointing out that it was a paradox that a peace-loving philosopher such as he should be forced to spend most of the years of his reign on the battlefield, protecting the Roman frontiers from the invasions of various Germanic tribes. Mrs. Amer Suter Jr. explained that Marcus Aurelius belonged to the Stoic school of philosophy which stressed patience, gentleness, kindness, and tact, and the group joined in discussion of the "Meditations" applied to life today.

The consensus was that they

Secrets Of Charm

Looking Up

Face framing necklines are back to evoke memories of the Directoire and Empire periods — so well exemplified by Empress Josephine's framed silhouette.

Not only necklines, but waistlines are having an uprising, on both sides of the Atlantic. Coat collars give the muffled-up look. Round and wide necklines, very decollete, distinguish evening clothes.

But it isn't so easy to wear the low necked dresses if your collarbones, for example, are too prominent. There's nothing glamorous about that. Yet you do something about filling out those hollows. For example, try sitting with your arms raised straight overhead. Now curl the fingers under as if grasping an imaginary rod. Now, with maximum tension, pull rod downward until it touches your chest. Relax. Repeat 25 times.

Here's a second spot increasing exercise that if followed faithfully will show good results.

Stand on tiptoe and face wall at arms' length. Place both palms on wall at shoulder level with fingers pointing toward each other. Now, in s-l-o-w motion, let your body fall toward the wall. When you've gone as far as you can go, gently push yourself back to a starting position. Check to be sure you aren't arching the back. Always keep it in a straight line. Repeat 20 times.

Roast Of The Town

I keep getting the feeling that I'm going back, back back into time and any moment now I expect to find myself walking around in the eighteenth century just like Leslie Howard in "Berkeley Square." The reason I can't stay pinned to my own century is every time I turn on television it seems as if we've been through all this before.

I must be having hallucinations because I thought I saw Ed Sullivan being honored at a banquet on television Sunday. "Pshaw!" I ejaculated carefully, having been schooled to make the P felt but not heard. "This must be an hallucination (no one in my circle says "A hallucination") for they have not telecast banquets since the invention of Milton Berle. But soft! He speaks!"

That dialogue may seem a little antiquated but, dammit, I feel a little antiquated. Seems to me they used to broadcast banquets commemorating things like the first anniversary of the telephone back when there was nothing else to broadcast. But I thought we had all that safely behind us after Howdy Doody took his first faltering steps, after they invented the proscenium arch and began messing around with scenery. Seems to me the banquet, as a framework for entertainment, must even predate the church choir.

But enough of this. Here it was again—the Friars' Club testimonial to Ed Sullivan, with celebrities, speeches, waiters, napkins, and jokes. I must say they were good jokes. It started out with Joe E. Lewis's celebrated joke about Sullivan: "Man, how that guy can brighten a room—just by leaving it." That's a good joke but it needs rest. Lewis has used it on Sullivan's show before. It's been in every column in town, including this one years ago. Just before fleeing, Lewis delivered himself of another one: "What have you heard from the autopsy—anything new?"

Mr. Lewis declared that the Friars only roast the people they love. "If you got a Friar for a friend," I muttered to myself, "you'll never need an enemy." (I must have read that line somewhere; I couldn't have made it up.) After that the loving jokes flew thick and fast about the fact that Sullivan can't sing, dance, act, smile, or even stand. In fact, his publisher got up and said: "He's been a columnist for twenty-six years and he can't even write."

Sullivan took all this abuse with wonderful good nature. Jack Carter was master of ceremonies and he was mighty funny. Others who pitched in from time to time included Wayne and Shuster, Joey Bishop, Rocky Graziano and Jack E. Leonard. It exercised a sort of horrid fascination on me. I kept strangling the laughs, feeling that if I had too good a time this could be a regular weekly thing. "One boffolo out of you, Crosby, and they'll revive all those other programs with table cloths in them—like the Stork Club show."

The other big news on Sunday was on the other network where "Omnibus" put Esther Williams on a submarine. That must have been one of these things that seemed like a good idea to a story conference one time and, by Jove, the next thing they knew they were rehearsing the bit. She made a frightfully pretty guide for a submarine but she seemed mostly taken by the courtesy of the submariners she met in the narrow corridors. The air was full of little sounds of "excuse me" which were engaging but not very elucidating. "Such polite young men," she'd murmur, staring after them, and I kept waiting for the plot to begin or the band to strike up.

You got the feeling this was a musical named "Ankles Aweigh" rather than a serious documentary about submarines coming live from the New London, Conn., submarine base. Later, though, Alistair Cooke took over in earnest and we learned about compression chambers and blowing negatively instead of positively and such educational stuff, which isn't as pretty as Miss Williams.

"Omnibus" seems to have been crossed with "Wide Wide World" this year. It was a good meaty documentary which gave you some idea of the pitfalls of the submarine profession, which will keep me out of that line of work forevermore.

I must be having hallucinations because I thought I saw Ed Sullivan being honored at a banquet on television Sunday. "Pshaw!" I ejaculated carefully, having been schooled to make the P felt but not heard. "This must be an hallucination (no one in my circle says "A hallucination") for they have not telecast banquets since the invention of Milton Berle. But soft! He speaks!"

That dialogue may seem a little antiquated but, dammit, I feel a little antiquated. Seems to me they used to broadcast banquets commemorating things like the first anniversary of the telephone back when there was nothing else to broadcast. But I thought we had all that safely behind us after Howdy Doody took his first faltering steps, after they invented the proscenium arch and began messing around with scenery. Seems to me the banquet, as a framework for entertainment, must even predate the church choir.

But enough of this. Here it was again—the Friars' Club testimonial to Ed Sullivan, with celebrities, speeches, waiters, napkins, and jokes. I must say they were good jokes. It started out with Joe E. Lewis's celebrated joke about Sullivan: "Man, how that guy can brighten a room—just by leaving it." That's a good joke but it needs rest. Lewis has used it on Sullivan's show before. It's been in every column in town, including this one years ago. Just before fleeing, Lewis delivered himself of another one: "What have you heard from the autopsy—anything new?"

Mr. Lewis declared that the Friars only roast the people they love. "If you got a Friar for a friend," I muttered to myself, "you'll never need an enemy." (I must have read that line somewhere; I couldn't have made it up.) After that the loving jokes flew thick and fast about the fact that Sullivan can't sing, dance, act, smile, or even stand. In fact, his publisher got up and said: "He's been a columnist for twenty-six years and he can't even write."

Sullivan took all this abuse with wonderful good nature. Jack Carter was master of ceremonies and he was mighty funny. Others who pitched in from time to time included Wayne and Shuster, Joey Bishop, Rocky Graziano and Jack E. Leonard. It exercised a sort of horrid fascination on me. I kept strangling the laughs, feeling that if I had too good a time this could be a regular weekly thing. "One boffolo out of you, Crosby, and they'll revive all those other programs with table cloths in them—like the Stork Club show."

The other big news on Sunday was on the other network where "Omnibus" put Esther Williams on a submarine. That must have been one of these things that seemed like a good idea to a story conference one time and, by Jove, the next thing they knew they were rehearsing the bit. She made a frightfully pretty guide for a submarine but she seemed mostly taken by the courtesy of the submariners she met in the narrow corridors. The air was full of little sounds of "excuse me" which were engaging but not very elucidating. "Such polite young men," she'd murmur, staring after them, and I kept waiting for the plot to begin or the band to strike up.

You got the feeling this was a musical named "Ankles Aweigh" rather than a serious documentary about submarines coming live from the New London, Conn., submarine base. Later, though, Alistair Cooke took over in earnest and we learned about compression chambers and blowing negatively instead of positively and such educational stuff, which isn't as pretty as Miss Williams.

"Omnibus" seems to have been crossed with "Wide Wide World" this year. It was a good meaty documentary which gave you some idea of the pitfalls of the submarine profession, which will keep me out of that line of work forevermore.

Proposed Potomac River Compact Will Be Acted On Today

Md. And Va. Fisheries Commissions Would Jointly Handle All Problems

BALTIMORE (AP) — Maryland and Virginia fisheries commissions would sit jointly as the agency to administer all Potomac River fishing problems, under a proposed new compact to be acted on in Washington tomorrow.

Carlyl Barton, chairman of a Maryland group studying Potomac problems with a five-man Virginia commission, said this seems to be a logical answer to helping solve long-standing problems on the river.

The Maryland group and Virginians headed by Sen. Mills E. Godwin of Suffolk had decided long ago that a joint commission would be necessary to administer any new agreement for the river and that uniform regulations would have to apply for fishing the river.

They had not given any indication, however, what the personnel make-up would be.

Barton told Maryland's Legislative Council Thursday it will be proposed that a six-man commission, consisting of Virginia's three fisheries commissioners and Maryland's three-man Tidewater Fisheries Commission, do the job.

"They are as well qualified by experience as anyone we could get," he said.

It had been thought earlier that the two agencies, which have not always seen eye-to-eye on fishing problems, would be by-passed when a new commission was named.

But a new spirit of cooperation has pervaded talks between the Maryland and Virginia groups since they were named to reach an out-of-court agreement on Maryland's abrogation of a 1785 compact for the river. They have held a number of joint meetings in Maryland and Virginia.

Barton said it will also be proposed Friday that present Maryland laws, which have been in effect on the river since the compact was abrogated in 1957, remain in effect.

He said the joint commission, which apparently will have broad powers, can change any of the regulations it thinks desirable by a majority vote of the members. Thus one Marylander voting with three Virginians, or vice versa, can change a regulation.

"We have found the Virginia representatives most cooperative, and we hope before we're through tomorrow we will have a document that will apply equally to both states," he said.

Their meeting is scheduled for 10 a.m. at the Decatur House in Washington. Virginia legal aides helped draw up the proposed new compact to be acted on, and Virginia representatives apparently are aware of all proposals, but they are still subject to further airing before a final draft is approved tomorrow.

Barton told the Legislative Council, between-sessions arm of Maryland's General Assembly, that he hopes it will support the new compact when it comes before the 1959 Maryland Legislature. Virginia's General Assembly doesn't meet again in regular session until 1960.

"We're going to have to act first and if we don't act, they may very well press their case in the Supreme Court," he said.

Virginia filed a Supreme Court suit challenging the right of the Maryland General Assembly to unilaterally revoke the old compact. Litigation was suspended while study groups from the two states could try to reach agreement out of court.

Retired Justice Stanley F. Reed, who was named to referee the case, will have lunch with the two groups tomorrow and get a progress report from them.

Resort Imposes Gag On Press

OCEAN CITY, Md. (AP) — The City Council of this resort community announced Thursday that all official news of the town government will be released only through City Manager Earl Pierce.

Dissatisfaction with recent news stories given out by Councilman John Dale Showell III obviously prompted the press gag, which was passed by a 4-1 vote at a special meeting last week.

Showell was the lone dissenter. Mayor Daniel Trimper Jr. was not present when the action was taken upon motion of Councilman Harry Kelly Jr.

Kelly said Thursday, when the ban was first made known, that "one member of council has given out news in such a manner as to make it look as though Ocean City had a one man council."

Kelley added it started when Showell called a "Washington newspaper and told of a terrible life guard situation here when we had the strike just before last Labor Day."

"And," he said, "we got a bellyful when he (Showell) released to a newspaper the story of Thomas McCabe (of the Scott Paper Co.) giving us the money for the airport."

McCabe has offered to give the town $12,000 for construction of an airport, if the council will match the donation.

Kelly said there is "no personal animosity toward Showell," that "it is just that we want the news released from the mayor and City Council as a department, not as one man."

Maryland Development Agency Urged

SALISBURY (AP)—A three-day session of the Maryland Municipal League opened here Thursday with a call for creation of a state agency charged with economic and industrial development.

The league also received additional support for its proposed Maryland Technical Advisory Service program.

Del. Earnest A. Loveless Jr. (D-Prince Georges) and Sen. Edward S. Northrop (D-Montgomery) told the 200 delegates at the opening session that now is the time for economic expansion in Maryland.

Loveless noted that the U. S. Department of Commerce has stated that no state can afford to be without an industrial development program.

Quoting Commerce Department figures, he said, "Both government and industry have been spending 10 billion dollars annually on research and development. I feel that Maryland should compete for this industry."

Loveless is chairman of the Legislative Council's committee on economic development.

Northrop told the municipal league it is imperative that every county, city and community in Maryland begin taking necessary steps to lure industry into their areas.

He noted that he recently proposed a three-prong development program calling for:

1. A revitalized State Planning Commission.

2. Creation of a department of economic and industrial development.

3. Initiation of fundamental investigation into both humand and material resources and needs of the state.

The Maryland Technical Advisory Service program was adopted by the league last summer. The new agency to assist cities and towns would have its headquarters at the University of Maryland.

If it gets endorsement from the governor and General Asnembly, it would be launched with a budget of $25,000.

The purposes of the MTAS would be "to provide consulting services, on a practical level, to the municipal government officials of the state."

Among other things, the new agency would provide a consulting service for sanitary and public works engineering projects, offer advice in preparation of municipal reports and help officials to codify ordinances or revise their charters.

The program would be administered through a professional staff.

At Thursday's municipal league session, the MTAS program came in for solid backing by two University of Maryland experts.

Dr. Albin O. Kuhn, vice president of the university, said the program would work without any difficulty.

"I can say this because of our past experiences in working with the many local officials in the state," he said. "We the university) feel that it is a good project."

Dr. Kuhn will be responsible for budgeting of the new plan once it is put into effect.

Under the MTAS plan, a five-man municipal league advisory commission would work with experts under the direction of Dr. Wilson A. Elkins, president of the University of Maryland.

The league also heard from the man who would be responsible for staffing the new agency and servicing the various communities.

Dr. Franklin L. Burdette, head of the University of Maryland's bureau of governmental research, said that if the agency is approved by the '959 General Assembly, funds should be available by next July 1.

Dr. Burdette said the agency's staff would set up a table of priorities for communities needing service.

"If the activity should become too great," he said, "then we would consider expansion."

The opening session of the municipal league's convention was called to order by league President Frederick J. Richardson, mayor of Mount Rainier. The delegates were welcomed by Mayor Jeremiah Valliant of Salisbury.

Gov.-elect J. Millard Tawes had been scheduled to greet the delegates but he sent his regrets. He explained he was detained because of state budget talks in Baltimore.

The convention ends Saturday.

Baltimore Lawyers Revive Ad Tax Fight

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Baltimore City lawyers asked Thursday for another chance to convince Maryland's highest court that the city's advertising tax is legal.

In a seven-page petition Hugo A. Ricciuti, acting city solicitor, requested permission to re-argue the controversial case before the State Court of Appeals.

The court last Oct. 17 upheld a Baltimore Circuit Court ruling that the tax—four per cent on the advertising buyer and two per cent on the seller—violates the constitutional guaantee of a free press and is, therefore, illegal. It acted in a suit brought by newspapers, broadcasting companies, advertising agencies and merchants.

Effective since Jan. 1, the tax was repealed by the city council last spring. The repeal becomes effective next January, but about 1½ million dollars already collected through the levy must be refunded unless the city gets the lower court ruling reversed.

Pennsy Would Drop Local

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Parkton local, the Pennsylvania Railroad's "Toonerville Trolley" that hauls commuters between Baltimore City and the northern suburbs, may give way to the bus.

The Pennsylvania Thursday asked the Public Service Commission to permit it to drop its commuter service to and from Parkton. At the same time, the McMahon bus lines asked the PSC for authority to take over the service.

The railroad said it was losing $124,000 a year on the line and could see no likelihood of getting it back on a paying basis.

The McMahon petition said it could increase the number of trips, make virtually the same connections and extend its run into downtown Baltimore. And at a cheaper rate to the commuters.

McMahon already has bus lines into some northern and northeastern suburbs.

TEACHER SLAYS RIVAL — A love triangle involving three teachers at Rosedale elementary school, Bakersfield, Calif., ended in tragedy yesterday when Cleon Cox, 27 (above), a sixth grade teacher, shot and killed Iler Molhook, 27, former fifth grade teacher, over Cox's estranged wife, also a teacher until three weeks ago. Reporter Learns Fine Leather Gloves Essential To Well-Dressed Female

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP)—Any male reporter struggling for knowledge in as many fields as possible meets his sternest test when he wanders into high fashion. The ladies may disagree, but a moon shot, gentlemen, seems easier to understand.

Yet here was Madame Monique de Nervo, doing her best to explain why fine leather gloves are essential to a well-dressed female.

"I always say," Madame de Nervo said, "that I would rather go without shoes than without gloves."

Fortunately for her, she isn't likely to be caught either barehanded or barefooted. She's employed by the French leather goods people to come over here each year and explain the wonders of fine gloves to salesgirls who, in turn, pass the gospel on to their customers.

"A salesgirl has such a difficult time in your country," she said. "In France, we say, 'I want this,' or, 'I want that.' We never ask the advice of a salesgirl."

When Madame de Nervo — as lively and attractive a pitchwoman as one could ask for—was here last year she passed along a moderately simple formula for being well-dressed: The later in the day, the longer the lady's glove should be. Did it still stand?

"No, no, no, no!" she said. "The styles have changed. You see, now the sleeves are shorter. If you wear a short glove in the morning or afternoon, it looks as if you did not have enough money to finish the sleeves or enough money to finish the gloves. You see?"

And she put on a longer pair of gloves. They looked fine.

Then, in rapid succession, Madame de Nervo touched on such points as:

The life and hard times of a traveling saleswoman in the United States today—"This is the 15th city I have been in in less than two months. All I see is the hotel and the store, and that makes me a little upset. Oh, I had one whole free day in San Francisco. They took me boating on the bay, and I finally saw the bridge. On the average, I do not see a thing. Never again!"

The life and pleasant times of a traveling saleswoman in the United States today—"I meet all these people, all interested in different things. Fascinating!"

And an unusual problem — a Washington lady wrote in to say her husband went big game hunting each year in India, and that they always went by Paris just to buy gloves. Unfortunately, she couldn't find a good dry cleaners, and is now up to her elbows in dirty kid gloves. What could she do?

"It's so easy," said Madame. "Wash in soap, never in a detergent."

Since reporters now get rich and famous by showing bad manners on television news conferences, this seemed like a proper parting question:

"How do you stand on mittens?"

"Mittens!" cried Madame de N., looking like a Republican forced to watch the California election returns once more in slow motion. "Those horrid things!"

Three Indicted In Cattle Rustling

WINFIELD, W. Va. (UPI)—Three persons accused of shooting a cow, butchering it on the spot and carrying away part of the meat have been indicted by the Putnam County grand jury on charges of cattle rustling.

The joint indictment named Hubert Milbee, 23, and Dorothy Manning, 27, both of Poca, and Richard Burris, 40, of Belle, Kanawha County.

One of five cows that wandered onto a rural road last Sunday near Poca was separated and shot from a car, Assistant Prosecutor John G. Anderson said. A resident of the area took down the license number of the car and reported it to police, he said.

Road Hearing Set

WHEELING, W. Va. (UPI)—The proposed location of a section of Interstate 70 between the Ohio State line and Chantel Road in Wheeling will be discussed at a public hearing here Dec. 11.

Involved is the location of a high-level bridge over Wheeling Island, access points to Main and Market streets in Wheeling and a tunnel under Wheeling Hill.

The proposed routes will be outlined and questions answered at the public hearing in Wheeling High School by State Road Commission officials.

PROMOTED BY GULF

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—The Gulf Oil Corp. announced Thursday the appointment of Walter Shannon, formerly of Eureka, Pleasants County, W. Va., as director of pipe line engineering. Former vice president and manager of operations for Gulf in Houston, Tex., Shannon said he would maintain headquarters here in his new post.

HEARING DUE

PARKERSBURG, W. Va. (UPI)—A hearing on a reinstatement application by former Parkersburg fire captain Bernard Trippett probably will be held within a week by the city Civil Service Commission. Trippett was dismissed several months ago and later was acquitted of a charge of grand larceny.

State Sells $16,825,000 Bonds At Premium Price

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—The State of Maryland found its credit good Wednesday as it sold $16,825,000 worth of construction bonds for above par prices.

The Board of Public Works awarded contracts for the four loans to the lowest of five bidders, a syndicate of 25 financial houses headed by the Chase Manhattan Bank of New York. The local representative is Alex Brown and Son of Baltimore.

Under the syndicate's offer, the loans will be made at a cost to the state of 2.75 per cent. The bonds will be redeemed during the next three to 15 years.

A sale of $14,216,000 worth of construction bonds one year ago went for 2.9976 per cent.

The three-man board — Gov. McKeldin, Comptroller J. Millard Tawes and state Treasurer Hooper S. Miles — were obviously pleased with the bid. McKeldin said, "I appreciate that nice bid. It's the last one of my administration, and it shows we're still in good shape."

McKeldin will give way in January to Gov.-elect Tawes.

The syndicate bought $800,000 in bonds from the Maryland Port Authority loan of 1958, $6,000,000 from the general construction loan of 1957, $5,585,000 from the State Office Building loan of 1956 and $4,440,000 from the general public school construction loan of 1956.

In other business, the board approved several allotments from the general emergency fund of 1959. One of the largest was a tentative grant of $32,281 for the Case Service Program of the Division of Vocational Rehabilitation in the State Department of Education.

Rail Rolling Stock Neglect Is Charged

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A union leader Wednesday accused the nation's railroads of endangering national security by neglecting to keep their rolling stock in top condition.

A.J. Bernhardt, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Car Men, said sharp cutbacks in the number of rail repair crews have resulted in a shortage of ready-to-roll freight cars.

His statement was the latest in a feud between the railroads and rail labor over maintenance and safety. Daniel A. Loomis, head of the Association of American Railroads, said last week that the unions were distorting statistics on accidents in the safety debate.

Bernhardt said the railroads can not handle an increasing load of business and would not be prepared for a war emergecy because of what he called "shameful neglect' of maintenance.

More than 8 per cent of the nation's freight cars were in bad order in September, he said, while the number of workers on maintenance hit an all-time low.

He said the total of 192,443 shopworkers in September was not adequate to do the necessary repair job.

Unique Maryland "World Bank For Plants" Means Finer Foods

By JAMES NEVIN MILLER
Central Press Association

BELTSVILLE, Md.—C. O. Erlanson serves as "president" of what might well be the world's most unique "bank." Chances are you never heard of it, although it is 60 years old. Yet its successful operation means finer foods for your table; in fact, better fruits, vegetables and money crops for the entire nation.

Its worth? Untold billions. Its coverage? Worldwide, with representatives who penetrate the most inaccessible areas of the globe.

Known as the "world bank for plants," its job, under the Bureau of Plant Industry, U.S. Department of Agriculture, is to serve as a living repository of more than 200,000 varieties of the world's finest seeds and seedlings of fruits, vegetables and forage crops of almost every known type and description.

These are sent in from time to time by plant explorers. They are then placed in bank "vaults" or greenhouses and studied painstakingly by pathologists to determine their freedom from insects and diseases. Finally, if pronounced physically fit, the seeds or seedlings are used by breeders to develop new or improved varieties of food and crop plants.

One of the many reasons why the plant bank is important to you, the nation and the world is this: surprisingly few of the foods you and I consume are native American. Most melons originated in Turkey. Corn was introduced here from Paraguay; potatoes and tomatoes from the Andes of South America; peanuts from Argentina and Brazil; and soybeans from China.

In addition, most of our better varieties of pears, apples and grapes are of foreign origin. Furthermore, other nations are continually calling upon our plant bank for aid in developing improved types of growing things.

The bank is largely responsible for the present prosperity of our $70 million tomato industry, which back in 1929 was threatened by fusarium wilt. In a desperate move, plant explorers introduced a Peruvian species never before grown here. Its seedlings were put in the bank, studied and found to be wilt-free. Breeders crossed the foreign variety with our own tomatoes and saved the industry.

These are some of the treasures stored in the plant bank.

For 60 years the bank has been the number one factor in the rapid development of our agriculture. In 1898 what's now known as the Division of Plant Exploration and Introduction was started. Dr. David Fairchild, its first explorer, soon was made head of the bank and held the job for 25 years.

Thus far the plant bankers have helped introduce, identify and distribute some 190,000 separate "introductions." These are of two main types: those which may establish new crops, and those which will improve established crops.

Valuable newcomers include the persimmon, tung nut and date. Of the improved varieties, breeders are developing plants that will be free from bacterial, virus or fungus diseases, notably beans desistant to downy mildew, and spinach that is immune to blue mold and blight.

The good health of the California grape industry, worth hundreds of millions, is largely due to the efficiency of the plant bank. The remarkable resistance of these West Coast grapes to the mildews, black rot and the root louse, devastating pests in Europe, is a direct result of plant breeding supervised by the bank.

Our soybean crop, annually worth a billion dollars, represents an excellent return on the $70,000 spent on extensive exploration in Asia. Ninety of the 130 soybean varieties now grown here commerically, are direct introductions.

Other noteworthy bank-sponsored achievements include: new varieties of mosaic-resistant sugarcane, developed through resistant strains from India and the Netherlands East Indies; a revolutionary pasture, hay and seed crop called Korean lespedeza, and wilt-free alfalfa varieties from Turkestan.

For 20 years the plant bankers sponsored the study of the Chinese tung nut. Today 192,000 acres grow the fruit in Florida, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia and Texas. These states supply about 17 per cent of the tung oil needed by American industry.

Our flourishing date industry, centered in California's Coahella valley, is an importation from Iraq and Arabia. Avocadoes from Central America and the West Indies provided an important crop for California and Florida. The Washington navel orange from Brazil was the start of the celebrated California citrus industry.

Who ever heard of automobile tires made from daisies, and a Russian variety at that? Yet there is ample evidence that it can be done. About 10 years ago plant explorers brought some seedlings into the plant bank. They were from the Russian plant, Koksaghz, or Russian daisy.

After storing the seedlings in the bank for several months, breeders decided to grow them in our Southwest as a possible source of domestic rubber. They were successful. A number of

"Deficiences" In AF Missile Program Noted

WASHINGTON (UPI)—An Air Force inspector general has blamed faulty procurement policies for delays and excessive costs in the Air Force's development of a long-range missile, House investigators disclosed on Wednesday.

The House government information subcommittee made public a 37-page summary of the 61-page report of an Air Force inspector general. It disclosed that the inspector criticized certain policies of both the Air Force and the contractors who build its rockets.

The subcommittee issued the summary after Comptroller General Joseph Campbell told the investigators about the Air Force's refusal to let him see the entire report. He complained that the Air Force's attitude could lead to a waste of the taxpayers' money.

Campbell's General Accounting Office, an arm of the Congress, was sent up to ride herd on the expenditures of government agencies.

Campbell also said he had ordered his staff to see that "the major deficiences and major problems" of the missile program "are fully developed, their causes are determined, and areas in need of correction are identified."

The summary showed the Air Force inspectors generally endorsed the Air Force's administration of the missile program as having obtained "satisfactory procurement support." But they said "certain deficiences existed in buying and contract administration".

The summary cited these instances:

—Some contractors used overtime as a subterfuge to get around salary and work week limitations, thus boosting program costs.

—Buying practices of some contractors did not meet Air Force standards, resulting in "delays and excessive costs."

—In some cases contractors were permitted to lease equipment, charging the cost to the government, when similar equipment was available in the industrial reserves.

—Some contractors failed to get Air Force approval for cost-plus-a-fixed-fee subcontracts, violating military regulations.

The summary said businessmen generally considered the program to be well managed. However, it said there was "much criticsm" of Ramo - Wooldridge Corp., which supplies scientific and engineering talent for the Air Force program.

But the inspectors added that this criticism was largely unwarranted.

The Suez canal is the longest canal in the world used by seagoing ships.

Space Expert Says Talk Of Man Flying To Stars Is "Fantasy"

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI)—A veteran "space physician' said on Wednesday "there is no question' that men will embark on perilous voyages to Mars and Venus "within this century'.

But he added that talk of flight beyond the solar system to the stars belongs "in the realm of fantasy."

This appraisal of the prospects of space travel was presented by Dr. Hubertus Strughold at the conclusion of a three-day international symposium here on space physics and medicine.

Strughold is professor of space medicine at the Air Force School of Aviation Medicine here. Reviewing some 40 technical papers read at the symposium, he concluded that man will get to the moon and Mars and Venus some day but will have to content himself with merely imagining flight to the stars.

Strughold spoke on "interplanetary space flight from the viewpoint of the physician.' 'Another paper summarizing the symposium was "interplanetary space from the viewpoint of the engineer." It was presented by Dr. George P. Sutton, president of the American Rocket Society and engineering professor at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Sutton emphasized first man's ignorance of space and second the costliness of trying to explore it.

"The cost of interplanetary exploration and eventually interplanetary manned expeditions will be staggering,' Sutton said. "It is not unreasonable to expect some of the bigger multistage interplanetary space vehicles to cost one billion dollars each.' '

Strughold examined the problems of space flight from both the technical and human points of view. Some of his conclusions:

It is just "wishful thinking" to talk of colonizing the airless moon. But brief scientific missions are possible.

Mars is more favorable to man than the moon. But it is not "a second earth." Its atmospheric ground pressure corresponds to an altitude of 10 miles above the earth. Explorers would have to wear pressure suits and carry their own oxygen.

Trips to Mercury and Pluto, the planets nearest to and farthest from the sun, are ruled out. Mercury is too hot, Pluto too cold.

Astronauts probably can endure without too much harm the tremendous blast off and return accelerations of space flight, in which a man's weight may suddenly be multipled nine or more times, and the weightlessness they will encounter in the void.

Life in a sealed cabin has been proved to be possible for a matter of weeks. (A one-way trip to Mars, however, would take about one year.)

British Official Declares Smoking-Cancer Link Has Survived All Attacks

LONDON (UPI) — R. John Charles, chief officer of the British Ministry of Health, said Wednesday that the finding that excessive cigaret smoking caused lung cancer had survived all attacks.

Charles made the statement in reporting that cancer and heart diseases caused 70 per cent of the deaths in Britain last year.

Male deaths from cancer of the lung and bronchus last year totalled 16,430, or 815 more than in 1956, Charles said. He said female deaths from the same cause increased 4.6 per cent.

"Confirmation in plenty has come from many reliable sources," he said, on the finding that too much smoking led to lung cancer. He said the ministry had asked all local authorities to publicize the risk in smoking.

Sir Walter Fergusson Hannay, a British authority on chest ailments, took issue with the finding. He said the British Medical Research Council did not know what it was talking about when it cited cigaret smoking as a main cause of lung cancer.

Triplets Born

STEUBENVILLE, Ohio (UPI)—Mrs. Elvin Kelly, Toronto, gave birth Wednesday to triplets at a hospital here. They are believed to be the first born in this area in 20 years.

The trio included one girl and two boys. The girl weighed six pounds, three ounces, while the boys averaged slightly over four pounds.

Negro Is Named 'Mr. Football'

WEIRTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The predominantly white student body at Weir High School Wednesday chose Tom Bloom a Negro, as "Mr. Football' o'f 1958.

Bloom, a halfback, was the team's leading grounde. this season but was seriously injured in the next-to-last game. School officials said Bloom has a B average.

Strughold examined the problems of space flight from both the technical and human points of view. Some of his conclusions:

It is just "wishful thinking" to talk of colonizing the airless moon. But brief scientific missions are possible.

Mars is more favorable to man than the moon. But it is not "a second earth." Its atmospheric ground pressure corresponds to an altitude of 10 miles above the earth. Explorers would have to wear pressure suits and carry their own oxygen.

Trips to Mercury and Pluto, the planets nearest to and farthest from the sun, are ruled out. Mercury is too hot, Pluto too cold.

Astronauts probably can endure without too much harm the tremendous blast off and return accelerations of space flight, in which a man's weight may suddenly be multipled nine or more times, and the weightlessness they will encounter in the void.

Life in a sealed cabin has been proved to be possible for a matter of weeks. (A one-way trip to Mars, however, would take about one year.)

British Official Declares Smoking-Cancer Link Has Survived All Attacks

LONDON (UPI) — R. John Charles, chief officer of the British Ministry of Health, said Wednesday that the finding that excessive cigaret smoking caused lung cancer had survived all attacks.

Charles made the statement in reporting that cancer and heart diseases caused 70 per cent of the deaths in Britain last year.

Male deaths from cancer of the lung and bronchus last year totalled 16,430, or 815 more than in 1956, Charles said. He said female deaths from the same cause increased 4.6 per cent.

"Confirmation in plenty has come from many reliable sources," he said, on the finding that too much smoking led to lung cancer. He said the ministry had asked all local authorities to publicize the risk in smoking.

Sir Walter Fergusson Hannay, a British authority on chest ailments, took issue with the finding. He said the British Medical Research Council did not know what it was talking about when it cited cigaret smoking as a main cause of lung cancer.

Triplets Born

STEUBENVILLE, Ohio (UPI)—Mrs. Elvin Kelly, Toronto, gave birth Wednesday to triplets at a hospital here. They are believed to be the first born in this area in 20 years.

The trio included one girl and two boys. The girl weighed six pounds, three ounces, while the boys averaged slightly over four pounds.

Babson Kicks Sacred Cow: The U.S. Automobile

By ROGER W. BABSON

I have been thinking on my homeward journey as to what will be the deciding factor with regard to 1959 prosperity. Have concluded it will be the automobile. Do you really like the car you are driving, or are you completely fed up with the gaudy, hungry monster? In this inflated economy where dollars disappear all too quickly, do you really like to sacrifice gas mileage for all those horses under the hood? Have you yet gotten used to cracking your skull and bruising your knees every time to try to get in or out of a modern Detroit creation? How many sets of plugs and points, how many mufflers and automatic transmissions, has your garageman installed?

Before I go further, let me say that the above questions are not mine. I am simply echoing countless numbers of car owners who have come within earshot. One irate owner of half a dozen cars of the same popular make, purchased during the last dozen years, recently responded as follows to a piece of company promotional literature expounding the joys of station wagon living: After enumerating the many things that heppened to his new car within the first five months of ownership, he said, in part, "My family has never had the money to take any of the fantastic trips outlined in your brochure. All our money has gone into trying to keep our new car running . . ."

Why People Are Not Buying New Cars

Detroit has searched for all manner of reasons why recent models are not selling. I believe the answer to its poor sales record is as glaringly obvious as the chrome on its current models:

(1) Detroit designers must be living in tall ivory towers, way up in the clouds. What they are producing is what they think people ought to want, not what they actually want. (2) The consumer is fed up with shoddy materials that just don't hold up under normal driving conditions. (3) Detroit workmanship, compared with what comes out of Europe, is generally slipshod and slapdash. (4) The high cost of living demands a less expensive car to purchase, a more economical car to drive, and a car fashioned to house comfortably the taller bodies our well-fed civilization produces.

A check of dealers in the New England area uncovers the fact that one popular make of car has lost sale after sale to its tall customers because those customers feel so uncomfortable behind the wheel, and in certain models because they dislike riding with their knees under their chins in the back seat. This matter of failing to build cars to fit people is more serious than you may think. I am sure that any reliable doctor of physiology worthy of his reputation will tell you that riding with your knees under your chin is a cause of fatigue, that this kind of positioning restricts blood circulation, causes numbness and makes one's responses slower. I am wondering if a lot of riding in such a cramped fashion could ultimately cause circulatory problems.

Small Cars A Must

Sure, U.S. car sales soared until most recent years, and for two very good reasons: (1) In post-World-War-II America the auto became a necessary means of transportation to suburbia rather than a Sunday afternoon plaything. (2) The only cars available in numbers until recently were American makes. Therefore, as the population increased and suburbia developed, more and more American cars were sold.

Gradually, however, millions of new home owners have found that home ownership, while very much worth while, costs money. They have found, too, that their large families consume ever larger quantities of food; and that the older children get the more expensive they become to clothe and educate. And father and mother, looking for ways to balance the budget, have begun to realize that it does not make economic sense for each of them to push a hungry gas buggy across the landscape. European manufacturers, with an insight into this problem which Detroit seems to lack (with the exception of one manufacturer), have come to the family's rescue with reliable, economical, well-made, although not always comfortable, transportation. I predict a rash of small cars from American manufacturers in the early sixties. To hasten that day, write the president, sales manager, or marketing manager of the company that makes your car. Tell him what you like and don't like about your car.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Grain futures edged lower again Thursday and closed with easy to steady prices on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Wheat closed up ¾ to off ⅛ cent; corn (old) off ½ cent; (new) off ⅛ to ⅝ cent; oats off ⅝ to ½ cent; rye up ⅛ to ⅝ cent; soybeans up ¼ to ½ cent.

There was some firmness, however, displayed in rye and soybeans.

Wheat trade was exceptionally dull. No export business came to light. Prices never topped Wednesday's close.

Early selling in corn was explained by the greater than expected crop estimate. Local brokers bought on the decline. Farmers are reported not too eager to do much selling. There was moderate commission house demand for the May contract. December corn was the favorite of cash houses.

Selling by longs triggered the decline in oats. Some export firms were interested in the December delivery.

Selling by Northwest brokers followed the recent pattern in soybeans. One processor bought January beans. Trade, however, was slow.

Grains at outside markets were about steady. The range:

HELD IN SLAYING OF GAME WARDEN—A state trooper escorts Martin Anzalone (left), 29, and Mario Sesta, 17, into headquarters at Patterson, N.Y., after they allegedly confessed slaying a game warden to avoid $10 poaching fines. Both Anzalone and Sesta, who live in the Bronx, N.Y., had paid similar fines three weeks earlier. When the body of Clarence E. Smith, 29, father of three, was found in the woods with four shotgun blasts in him, police investigated his recent arrests. The record put them on the trail of Anzalone and Sesta.

TOWER BIDS DEC. 18

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Bids for construction of an air traffic control tower at the West Virginia Air National Guard facility at Martinsburg airport will be received Dec. 18, the U. S. Engineers district office said Thursday. Congress recently appropriated $123,000 for construction of the five story structure.

The Sudan comprises nearly one million square miles, an area one-third that of the United States, yet its population is only about the same as the state of Ohio.

Underwood Urges United Effort For Conservation Measures

JACKSON'S MILL, W. Va. (UPI) — Gov. Cecil H. Underwood said Wednesday only a "united effort' by all West Virginians can put the Mountain State under sound conservation management.

"We must sell conservation to our people and not only to our farm people who work the land, but also to the school teachers, the factory workers and the businessmen," he said.

Underwood made the remark in an address before the West Virginia Soil Conservation District Supervisors Assn. Conference.

The governor noted the state had a number of conservation agencies each playing an important role in looking after natural resources. But, he said, "however well developed the mechanics of any program might be, it is of no value until accepted by the people."

"The benefits of a sound conservation program are immeasurable. . . we have unlimited opportunity to increase the total economy of our state and proper management of our watersheds will eliminate disastrous floods that are an ever present menace to our people living in the low lands."

The governor noted that "a house destroyed by a flood can be rebuilt, but a fertile field that is allowed to wash slowly away by the daily forces of nature at work is gone forever."

Underwood also said an improper water supply in the state would ruin the economy including the agricultural segment. And another problem "has been failure to utilize fully our forest products," he said.

Proper conservation practices will "give us a lumber industry and will build a farming program that will insure peaceful and prosperous living today and for generations to come, and at the same time, eliminate the floods," he said.

NEW YORK — From now until the summer of 1960, a lot of political footballs are going to be put into play.

The aim is to make one the hot issue in the presidential battle, with the hope that the "player" who made the kick-off will be the ball carrier in the final push for the 1960 goal line.

Estes Kefauver and his three fellow Democratic teammates on the Senate Anti-Monopoly Subcommittee have made the first kick-off.

Estes has been a candidate for his party's nomination at the last two national conventions. He didn't make it, but he's still willin'.

Estes is calling for an anti-trust investigation of the "monopoly aspects of the automobile industry."

The Democratic majority said the present "concentration" in General Motors "appears neither compatible with nor conducive to a free market in which the public must buy automobiles."

So, they want the federal courts to determine whether General Motors should be broken up. This has been broached before. It was raised two years and this same group made it a party line earlier this year.

Too Much Concentration?

Estes and his teammates think the companies should spend less on advertising and on style changes. They also claim concentration in the auto industry is increasing.

For one thing, none of them apparently reads the stock tables. The shares of the two independent motor car makers have been the year's sensational performers. Studebaker has gone from $2.87½ to a high of $16 and is currently around $14.50.

American Motors, which has made a terrific comeback as builder of a popular small car, has gone this year from $8 to $36.27½.

The stocks of the Big Three — Ford, Chrysler and GM — have done very little marketwise. GM's range has been $53.75 to $52.62½ Ford's range $37.37½ to $48.25 and Chrysler's, $44 to $59.12½.

Neither the stock market, nor do such statistics as American Motors' excellent earnings say that competition is dead. General Motors earnings were lower this year and Ford and Chrysler have losses for the nine months.

Then, there is the rising sales curve of small foreign cars in this market. Not to mention the success of the foreign companies in the world export market.

If General Motors were to be broken up, the company's remaining lines would expand to those of its former divisions, so little would be gained.

The only thing anti-trust should be concerned with is that the competition is fair. Size is not the yard stick. There is plenty of competition in the automobile business, and the public does have a choice, a wide choice.

Another thing Estes and his teammates forget is the role General Motors and other big businesses played in the war effort. Without General Motors and some of the others this country might not have won the war.

Bigness apparently is a crime only in business. Big Government is not.

Taxes Too High

Taxes are too high. They should come down.

On these two points there is little, if any, disagreement — no matter what the individual's income tax bracket.

The politicians who are angling for votes look at numbers involving the most ballots.

The real consideration should be: Where will reduction bring the most good to the country's economy?

Harold Brayman, who directs public relations for the E.I. du Pont de Nemours and Co., comes up with some interesting figures and a supporting case history.

Of all revenue obtained by the Federal Government from the personal income tax 84 per cent comes from the basic 20 per cent rate. Only 16 per cent comes from progression — that is from the rates that reach the top bracket of 91 per cent.

If the income tax rates stopped at 50 per cent, the direct loss in revenue to the Government would be $734 million, or about 1 per cent of Federal revenue collections. If they stopped at 60 per cent the loss would be $375 million or ½ of 1 per cent. If they stopped at 75 per cent, the revenue loss would be only $150 million or 2/10th of 1 per cent.

Too Much Profit

Here is the case history of a wealthy man approached to put up, with associates, $7½ million for a pulp and paper mill in the South, when the particular area needed job making industry and there was a paper shortage.

The $7½ million was to be the equity capital in a $25 million project. A financial institution was prepared to put up the balance. The pulp supply had been located and the project engineered. Indicated earnings, after interest on the senior capital, was $2½ million a year. That would be a 33 per cent return on the $7½ million risk capital.

The wealthy individual and his associates turned it down. They were subject to the 91 per cent income tax.

They pointed out that if they went ahead with the project, the $2½ million annual earnings would be subject to a 52 per cent corporate tax. Then, after a normal payout of 50 per cent of the after tax earnings in dividends, they would have had left after paying their own income taxes a net return of 67 cents per $1,000 of investment — just ⅔ of 1 per cent.

If the entire after-corporate-tax earnings were paid out in dividends, the net return to them after their personal income taxes would be only 1.4 per cent.

So, they said, "no thanks." The plant was never built and the paper it would have produced is being imported from Canada.

Who Was Hurt?

To quote Brayman:

"Now let us see who was hurt in this instance. Not Mr. X. He eats just as well as if he had gone into this venture.

"But the 500 to 700 people who would have been employed in the small Southern town where the plant would have been built, and which town, incidentally, needed economic stimulation, have been seriously hurt. Some of them certainly don't eat as well because the 91 per cent tax removed all incentive from Mr. X.

"The small businessmen and the people of the town have been seriously hurt, because they didn't get the stimulation of a new plant with all the payroll and all the purchases that it would have in the community."

Then, Brayman asks: "How did the Government Make Out? Did it get any more taxes out of Mr. X? Not a dime.

"But, if the high-bracket tax rate had been low enough to tempt Mr. X and his associates, and the project had gone through, the Government would have received a 20 per cent tax revenue on the earnings of the 500 to 700 people thus employed who are now unemployed.

"It would have received a corporate tax of 52 per cent on all earnings of the corporation, and income taxes from Mr. X on any dividends declared. And this would have been not just for one year but would have gone on continuously year after year."

Brayman's point is where taxes discourage initiative, and put the brakes on the economy, everyone is hurt — mostly those little people — workers, small business men, small communities and government.

Taxes should be levied for revenue raising purposes only and in a manner that will do the most to encourage growth.

NEW YORK—Well, what are you doing about U.S.O, Pal Day? It's Nov. 19. We've got 2,500,000 men and women in uniform, about half of them overseas, half of them under 25, half of them making their first trip away from home. The U.S.O. is one organization that consistently tries to befriend them, amuse them, keep them out of trouble. It needs you.

Lots of people probably think U.S.O. went out of business on V-J Day. It's almost as busy as ever, and just as badly needed and in need. The government doesn't provide it with a quarter. Its funds come from the six national agencies on which its services rest—the Y.M.C.A., National Catholic Community Service, National Jewish Welfare Board, Y.W.C.A. and National Travelers Aid Assn.

Mary Martin was in Alaska for U.S.O. last month; Red Barber is somewhere in the South Pacific now, showing clips from the last World Series. Bob Hope and Hedda Hopper will be on the road to some forlorn spot at Christmas time. There are now 245 clubs and centers in the U.S. and Korea, Japan, Alaska, Panama Canal Zone, Hawaii, the Philippines, Greece, Turkey, Italy, France, North Africa and on Guam. There is a crying need for facilities on Okinawa and in Puerto Rico.

But a lot of good can be done here, too. U.S.O. headquarters at 237 East 52nd Street, New York 22, N.Y., will tell you what you can do to help with a job which Uncle Sam, for some inscrutable reason, has shirked.

The 80th anniversary edition of the New York City Telephone Company's Manhattan classified directory requires a certain amount of muscle to read. It has 2,000 pages, 340,000 listings. The first of the series, issued a year after Alexander Graham Bell first demonstrated the strange gadget that talks, was a single sheet of paper listing 271 subscribers. There were several deals in "segars" and "passe partouts." Forty of the original firms are still in business, several still at the same address.

The "yellow pages" spell out the meandering course of man's interests. Air condition and plastics listings have doubled since 1948; television listings have leaped from two to 16 pages. "Segars," "passe partouts" and "buggy whips" seem to be on the wane.

The greatest hot air machine since the invention of the columnist has been created by the Boeing airplane company for United Air Lines.

It is a compact 205 horsepower "turbo-starter," a small jet engine to be used to blow life into the great jet engines which will lift United's Douglas DC8s. The gadgets also will be used to "windmill" these engines during maintenance checks; can also blow ice and snow from frozen aircraft.

Careful, United, it might run for Congress.

The government's change of heart in showing material gratitude toward its benefactors is a notable development, it seems to me. On Dec. 2, the 16th anniversary of the start-up of the world's first nuclear reactor, the Atomic

Means was admitted to the Bedford County Hospital for surgery for a bullet wound in his left shoulder which authorities said he inflicted on himself after he shot to death Oda Clingerman, 60.

Clingerman was found in the rear of his truck after he had delivered gasoline to the Means farm. Means had been under a police guard at the hospital until his release from the institution Monday.

On The Line

Energy Commission will present Dr. Eugene P. Wigner with a medal and a check for $50,000.

Dr. Wigner's contributions to the release of atomic energy, the development of the A-bomb and the H-bomb, and the perfection of this titanic power for peaceful purposes cannot be said to be paid for by a medal or the check. But at least a grateful government has taken note of what this Budapest born physicist has achieved in behalf of his adopted land.

The British do it a bit better. Frank Whittle, who developed the jet engine, was granted $300,000, for example. But at least we're coming around to an acceptance of the fact that some of our people deserve more than a round of applause.

Before he died, just short of 84, James Michael Curley had become Frank Skeffington, the central figure in "The Last Hurrah." When that great book first appeared, Curley threatened to sue. But the enthusiasm with which old cronies greeted the word picture of a colorful and heroic Boston politician caused him to change his mind to such a degree that he began speaking and even writing with a Skeffingtonian flair. He must have died as nobly. God bless him.

Famed Episcopal Bishop Ready For Retirement

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

When a big job is finished, and the battle done, a man is apt to look back at the road which he has traveled—and note its ups and downs.

To one of America's foremost Christian leaders, such a moment comes this Saturday, that pause in life's occupation when he can take in the long view—and see its conformation.

At such a time, what are the thoughts of a man who has staked everything on faith? What are the regrets, the rewards, the memories?

The Rt. Rev. Henry Knox Sherrill, a minister for nearly half a century and a veteran of some of the highest offices of national and world Christianity, can tell of these things. And he does so with rugged candor.

For him, too, a man of God, there have been moments of doubt. There has been self-rebuke and frustration. But there also has been a stout foundation and a vision.

Bishop Sherrill, 68, a prodigiously cultured man with an old world dignity, a powerful voice and a flashing wit, is retiring as presiding bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

Although he still holds other high posts, including a presidency of the World Council of Churches, the closing out of his heavy denominational administrative duties evoked reminiscence.

He mused over some of them, at a recent dinner in his honor. It was a rare farewell confession, from an incisive, commanding figure.

"I'm not really much of a person," he said, as messages of praise and esteem poured in from notables around the world. "If I've been able to help anybody, it only shows how God uses the ministry of almost anyone.

"I've sometimes been tense, and spoken too sharply. I drive hard, and you've had to put up with it. Conventional religious conversation sometimes annoys me, and I've shown it on occasion.

"When that happens, I have to get out in the woods and chop down a few trees.

"I've had to struggle again and again with my faith. I'm harshly realistic in many ways. Many times, I've viewed situations in the world, and had to come back and ask myself again, 'Is this a God of love?'

"Yet there is a reality under God . . . that gives strength to go on. I've come to know that the center of life, the deepest meaning of all life, is focused in the Cross of Christ, the crucified and resurrected Christ. No matter what we face, He opens the door before us to eternal life, an eternity with God."

Besides heading his own denomination for 11 years, Bishop Sherrill was the first president of the National Council of Churches, embracing most major denominations, and in World War II, headed the President's Chaplaincy Commission.

He is retiring to a farm in Boxwood, Mass., the state where he served his early ministry among Boston bluebloods. "I'm going to be a gardener," he said.

In fact, however, he'll be carrying on increasing duties as an influential church statesman in the Christian Unity movement. As a World Council president, he'll direct the raising of funds for a new headquarters building in Geneva.

"The day of unity is coming, not just cooperation, but the unity our Lord intended," he said. "And I do not omit the Roman Catholic Church. This is not a movement but a life—neither daring nor heretical, but planted by God with a call to us to follow."

Man Found Hanging By Wrists From Span

URBANA, O. (UPI) — William Davis, 24, was in a hospital Wednesday recovering from a four-hour ordeal of hanging by his wrists from the Mad River Bridge on the Old Troy Pike near here Tuesday.

Davis, bound hand and foot, was found dangling from the bridge by his wrists by two duck hunters who heard his cries for help.

They said Davis was clad only in a few pieces of women's clothing and a man's jacket. William Stegers, one of the hunters, said Davis mumbled something about "fraternity boys" when they rescued him.

The sheriff said there were no signs of a struggle. Davis' car was found nearby in a ditch and contained a man's overcoat and shoes.

The two men said they drove to a nearby farmhouse to summon help. They obtained a butcher knife at the farm to cut Davis' bonds.

Textile Industry Reports 22-Month High In October

Textile production is estimated to have hit a 22-month high in October, according to Textile World, an industry publication.

Amcelle Plant of Celanese Corporation's participation in this increased textile activity has been indicated by a relatively high and stable employment level throughout the year, a plant spokesman said today.

In April, Cumberland area industry survey reported Amcelle's employment at 200 more than in April 1957.

This improvement over the previous years employment had increased to 400 in July. Present employment of 2,700 is approximately 100 over that of a year ago.

Amcelle's favorable employment experience has resulted from a high demand for the company's acetate yarn for which new end uses have been developed, and from its Arnel output, which has been on allocation for several months, the spokesman said.

Textile World's index rose to an estimated 110, the highest point since December 1957 and 14.5 per cent above the recession low of 96 reached in April of this year.

Many mills returned to six-day operation in middle and late September. October is usually a peak seasonal production period, and the index may turn down again in November or December.

The peak in 1955 was reached in December, in 1956 in November and December, and in 1957 in September and October.

So the critical test will come at the turn of the year, the magazine says. It is almost certain that production will ease off somewhat from the present surging activity. Christmas and New Year's holidays alone will cause a dip.

There may be a drop as mills go into spring and summer 1959. An easing off of six to eight index points will be normal, and will not disturb business. A sharper drop will be a bearish sign, a shallower one a bullish sign.

Firm Saves Money For West Virginia

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va. (UPI) —A Charleston firm was praised Wednesday by State Road Commission District 6 Engineer O.A. Trout for saving West Virginia $19,000.

Trout said the firm erected a pre-fabricated bridge on Sec. 15 near Pine Grove, Wetzel County, for $60,000. He said a conventional span would have cost $70,000 and taken some four months to be erected. He said the pre - fab bridge could be built in 40 days.

The three span bridge has a total length of 150 feet and a roadway width of 22 feet. There also is a three-foot wide walkway.

Court Orders Pa. Man Held For Murder

Marcus Means, 73, of Clearville, Pa., was ordered held without bond yesterday by Justice of the Peace H. Cyril Bingham of Bedford.

Means was charged with murder in the death Oda Clingerman, an Everett trucker, who was shot to death on October 31.

The purpose of the hearing today, according to Pennsylvania State Police, was ' determine if there was enough evidence to hold the man for grand jury action.

Means was admitted to the Bedford County Hospital for surgery for a bullet wound in his left shoulder which authorities said he inflicted on himself after he shot to death Oda Clingerman, 60.

Clingerman was found in the rear of his truck after he had delivered gasoline to the Means farm. Means had been under a police guard at the hospital until his release from the institution Monday.

On The Line

Energy Commission will present Dr. Eugene P. Wigner with a medal and a check for $50,000.

Dr. Wigner's contributions to the release of atomic energy, the development of the A-bomb and the H-bomb, and the perfection of this titanic power for peaceful purposes cannot be said to be paid for by a medal or the check. But at least a grateful government has taken note of what this Budapest born physicist has achieved in behalf of his adopted land.

The British do it a bit better. Frank Whittle, who developed the jet engine, was granted $300,000, for example. But at least we're coming around to an acceptance of the fact that some of our people deserve more than a round of applause.

Before he died, just short of 84, James Michael Curley had become Frank Skeffington, the central figure in "The Last Hurrah." When that great book first appeared, Curley threatened to sue. But the enthusiasm with which old cronies greeted the word picture of a colorful and heroic Boston politician caused him to change his mind to such a degree that he began speaking and even writing with a Skeffingtonian flair. He must have died as nobly. God bless him.

Famed Episcopal Bishop Ready For Retirement

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

When a big job is finished, and the battle done, a man is apt to look back at the road which he has traveled—and note its ups and downs.

To one of America's foremost Christian leaders, such a moment comes this Saturday, that pause in life's occupation when he can take in the long view—and see its conformation.

At such a time, what are the thoughts of a man who has staked everything on faith? What are the regrets, the rewards, the memories?

The Rt. Rev. Henry Knox Sherrill, a minister for nearly half a century and a veteran of some of the highest offices of national and world Christianity, can tell of these things. And he does so with rugged candor.

For him, too, a man of God, there have been moments of doubt. There has been self-rebuke and frustration. But there also has been a stout foundation and a vision.

Bishop Sherrill, 68, a prodigiously cultured man with an old world dignity, a powerful voice and a flashing wit, is retiring as presiding bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

Although he still holds other high posts, including a presidency of the World Council of Churches, the closing out of his heavy denominational administrative duties evoked reminiscence.

He mused over some of them, at a recent dinner in his honor. It was a rare farewell confession, from an incisive, commanding figure.

"I'm not really much of a person," he said, as messages of praise and esteem poured in from notables around the world. "If I've been able to help anybody, it only shows how God uses the ministry of almost anyone.

"I've sometimes been tense, and spoken too sharply. I drive hard, and you've had to put up with it. Conventional religious conversation sometimes annoys me, and I've shown it on occasion.

"When that happens, I have to get out in the woods and chop down a few trees.

"I've had to struggle again and again with my faith. I'm harshly realistic in many ways. Many times, I've viewed situations in the world, and had to come back and ask myself again, 'Is this a God of love?'

"Yet there is a reality under God . . . that gives strength to go on. I've come to know that the center of life, the deepest meaning of all life, is focused in the Cross of Christ, the crucified and resurrected Christ. No matter what we face, He opens the door before us to eternal life, an eternity with God."

Besides heading his own denomination for 11 years, Bishop Sherrill was the first president of the National Council of Churches, embracing most major denominations, and in World War II, headed the President's Chaplaincy Commission.

He is retiring to a farm in Boxwood, Mass., the state where he served his early ministry among Boston bluebloods. "I'm going to be a gardener," he said.

In fact, however, he'll be carrying on increasing duties as an influential church statesman in the Christian Unity movement. As a World Council president, he'll direct the raising of funds for a new headquarters building in Geneva.

"The day of unity is coming, not just cooperation, but the unity our Lord intended," he said. "And I do not omit the Roman Catholic Church. This is not a movement but a life—neither daring nor heretical, but planted by God with a call to us to follow."

Baron Denies Man 'Discount' On Jail Term

Trial Magistrate Morris Baron yesterday hung out the "No Discount" sign in court and sentenced an Eckhart man to 90 days in the Allegany County Jail.

Magistrate Baron sentenced David L. Green, 24, after finding him guilty of breaking and entering the Eckhart Elementary School on October 16.

Sgt. William F. Baker, criminal investigator for the Maryland State Police, presented the state's case and introduced as evidence a statement Green had made concerning the case.

In the statement Green admitted entering the school and taking a typewriter. The day following the crime the Eckhart man left for Ohio where he was later apprehended by authorities there.

Green entered a plea of guilty and after being sentenced asked Magistrate Baron if he could discount the 22 days he has already spent in jail.

The magistrate replied he didn't believe in discounts, and the 90 days would have to be served.

Local Church Hears Talk By Missionary

A missionary to Dahomey in French West Africa was the speaker at First Assembly of God Church last night, according to Rev. Arthur Vespa, pastor.

The speaker was Rev. Ted R. Schultz, who has served in Dahomey since his appointment to that area in 1951. Last night's service was conducted in conjunction with a missionary convention of the Assembly of God Church in the tri-state area, Rev. Mr. Vespa said. The convention opened Wednesday and will conclude Sunday, with a different missionary scheduled to speak each evening.

Rev. and Mrs. Schultz were the first missionaries to work with the tribes in the Somba territory. A graduate of Southeastern Bible Institute, Rev. Mr. Schultz served in Mississippi before going to Africa.

He has served as superintendent of the Dahomey district for 18 months, been secretary-treasurer of the district for three years and taught in the Dahomey Bible School since being stationed in Africa.

Rev. and Mrs. Schultz will return to Dahomey at the conclusion of his furlough in this country.

Rev. David T. Scott will speak today, Rev. Howard Osgood, Saturday, and Rev. Florence Christie, Sunday. The services begin daily at 7:30 p. m.

Local Couple Hurt In Auto Crash

A local couple was hospitalized following a highway accident Wednesday night near Paw Paw, W. Va.

Reported in "good" condition at Memorial Hospital are William L. Feeney, 49, of 607 Greenway Avenue, and his wife, Mrs. Stella J. Feeney, 43.

Attaches said they were injured when their automobile skidded south of Paw Paw. Mr. Feeney sustained hip injuries, while his wife suffered an injury to her arm.

Mr. Feeney is a member of the Cumberland Fire Department, stationed at East Side.

Applications Sought For Two City Jobs

The Cumberland Civil Service Board will receive applications for two municipal positions until 5 p. m. Monday, December 15, it was announced yesterday.

The positions for which examinations will be conducted are assistant city engineer and clerk-typist in the City Water Department. Spokesmen for the board said no date for the examinations has been scheduled.

Requirements for the positions were reviewed at a meeting of the board Wednesday in the City Hall. Coming in for particular attention was the assistant city engineer post, it being explained that qualified applicants must possess experience along two lines.

The Civil Service spokesmen said it would be desirable for applicants to have some experience in operating both a sewage treatment plant and water filtration plant. Such experience will be needed along with the usual civil engineer requirements, it was pointed out.

In view of the conditions, members of the board voted to waive the customary residence requirements for city positions for assistant city engineer. The waiving of the rule, it is felt, will open the field to persons with the needed requirements.

The Civil Service Board also noted that when a date is set for the examinations, a promotional examinaiton will be held for the post of chief clerk in the City Water Department. That post became vacant due to the recent retirement of Andrew Bender after he reached the compulsory retirement age.

The promotional examination will be open only to qualified city personnel, board members pointed out.

Which Way Does Assembly Line Go?

Is United States manufacturing diminishing from a finished-goods assembly line to an engineering and consulting branch of a worldwide network of U. S. production lines? It is, if the example of an increasing number of American manufacturers is a criterion.

Makers of various items from ball point pens to eye glasses now ship semi-finished products to foreign countries for final assembly and then ship them back to the U. S. for distribution. The reason is cheap labor.

Living standards, and consequently labor rates, are so much lower in many parts of the world than in the U. S. that it actually pays manufacturers to incur large shipping costs to extend, in effect, their production lines around the world.

Makers of such items as pens, gloves, eyeglasses and shirts now fly unfinished goods to Puerto Rico for completion and return to the United States. Shirt manufacturers fly cloth to Hawaii, where contracted labor does all the cutting and assembly work.

Obviously, if this trend continues, the assembly line which has made the United States famous and rich will be replaced by piecemeal operations scattered over large distances. Manufacturing evolution will have completed its cycle from handwork to mass production techniques to individual craftsmanship.

What effect widespread adoption of this practice could have on the overall economy it is difficult to predict. If manufacturers can reduce costs by incorporating cheap foreign labor, increased profits could provide more available expansion capital, in addition to price cuts on more competitive items.

It is difficult to foresee a healthy economy developing from such a setup, but the attraction of foreign labor is strong for profit-squeezed industries which are well aware that labor costs constitute a major part of the costs of their products.

War Over The Met

Rudolf Bing, who manages the Metropolitan Opera Company, is not a very explosive person. His problems have been comparatively simple ones, putting on new operas, arranging to build a new opera home, improving the personnel, increasing the number of Americans in the personnel, and doing more operas in English. As a matter of fact, he is singularly fortunate because the place is nearly always sold out.

However, dames will be dames and when a soprano who was born in Flower Hospital, New York and should know better, likes her publicity straight and in public, what can a mere man do?

In fact, Miss Callas, who is one of many Metropolitan sopranos, has decided that she is the best in the world, and seems to believe that the various opuses, to be vulgarly ungrammatical, cannot be sung without her. I, who have heard Farrar, know that they can be. The amazing fact about life is that one goes and another comes and that is true of me and thee, no matter how wonderful we may be. So Miss Callas got into an argument with the aforesaid Bing and what it came down to was, who is running the show, and he proved it by firing her.

It could be true in New York on Monday nights that anyone can run an opera house. For Monday night at the Metropolitan is a fashion show at which ladies wear their fineries, some of them borrowed for exhibition purposes, and gentlemen talk business. But then an opera house cannot limit itself to Monday nights. In fact, Bing showed his contempt for opening night by charging $40 a ticket which few music lovers could afford to pay. Next year, he ought to charge $100 a ticket for opening night which has become a bazaar.

However, to get back to Miss Callas, she is a pretty good soprano but nobody deserves that much aggravation. After all, opera is a play and a play has a cast and one player is as important as another in the sense that if one sings out of tune or jostles her colleague at the wrong moment, the whole show can go bad, like that time Martinelli ate something poisonous and came down with it right on the stage. Also there is an orchestra and a conductor and if the conductor misses the beat or forgets where he is and puts rock-N-roll right in the middle of Gotterdammerung, that can knock Wagner right on the head.

So it has to be a whole performance and no one can do it alone. The star system was very good when there were stars: Caruso, Farrar, Sembrich, Scotti, de Reszke—names come to mind and flow on and on—but a star must also be a humble character and remember that a property man can make her look ridiculous by putting the wrong prop in the wrong place.

Miss Callas, who is an American girl despite all the raging in foreign tongues, should know this. She has battled her way to the front pages in many parts of the world, but that is not what anyone hires her for. She, like all other so-called artists, is hired, like stage-hands, prop men, chorus girls and dancers, to put on a show for the customer who pays his money to see it. The notion that because the show is sung in some foreign tongue changes the terms of the relationship between customer and management, is a revival of the art for art's sake theory which went out in the Victorian era and only recovers occasionally in such places as Greenwich Village and among retired merchants, bankers, and other aged gentlemen who take up hobbies to avoid arthritis. A working artist has his price and if he is any good, gets it.

I go to the opera on Saturday afternoons when the atmosphere is calm and the glitter of diamonds noncompetitive. We are never disturbed by our neighbors buying and selling a skyscraper while Mimi is dying. Let her die without commerce, say we. That is art for art's sake.

As for Miss Callas, from what the girls tell me, and this is strictly confidential, she does not burn so fiercely in private as in public and is quite a nice girl whose friends like her. Too bad, she does not limit herself to singing.

'I Keep Feeling Somebody's Picking My Pocket'

Ike Gauges 'The Gap' With Money In Mind

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

For the first time since he took office, President Eisenhower has been giving many hours of his own time to a personal review of the defense program, project by project and in detail.

In previous years, the President has always left the burdensome task of detailed review to the various sectors of his staff. This year, however, apparently at the behest of budget Director Maurice Stans, the President decided to tackle the job in person. He began it weeks ago, long before the campaign reached its climax.

Much of the President's spadework was therefore done when his Secretary of Defense, Neil McElroy, was absent from Washington on his long foreign tour. Secretary McElroy was away during the whole period when the most crucial budgetary decisions are normally taken at the defense Department. Even now, in November, the really big decisions, as between competing missile projects for example, have not yet been made.

These facts alone are enough to suggest that the new defense budget is an uncertain quantity. In addition, there is the fact that the prime motive of the President's personal intervention has been to find ways to cut the defense budget as heavily as possible. For the present, therefore, there is no assurance at all of the slight increase in defense spending, to the $41,800,000,000 level, that high Department sources have been talking about as virtually assured.

As one sample of the character and gravity of the issues under consideration, there is the behind-the-scenes controversy about the tempo of development of the solid-fuelled ballistic missiles. This is really a controversy about whether it is worth gambling large sums, with fair hope of success, in order to shorten the so-called missile gap — the period when the Soviets will enjoy a heavy predominance in missile striking power.

To make the controversy understandable, it is necessary to begin with the unhappy fact that the Thor, Jupiter, and Atlas ballistic missiles are all thoroughly unsatisfactory weapons for this country's armory. Liquid-fuelled missiles such as these are immensely valuable weapons for a nation like the Soviet Union, that can strike the first blow. But if the privilege of striking the first blow is conceded to the enemy, liquid-fuelled missiles like these three have very little value.

Their launching sites cannot be effectively protected against the enemy's first blow. As anyone who has read about the Cape Canaveral countdowns must realize, these missiles also take a very long time to fire. A quarter of an hour is the maximum warning that can be expected if the enemy strikes. Hence such liquid-fuelled missiles, with launching sites that cannot be "hardened," will not greatly add to this country's retaliatory capability—which is the kind of capability we desperately need to strengthen.

Modest programs to build at least some of these missiles are essential, for the time being, for the sake of training in the art. The program to build the Titan launching sites are capable of being "hardened." But the missile gap will not really end until the United States has in its armory adequate quantities of solid-fuelled ballistic missiles, which will require no countdown and can be rather cheaply provided with completely "hard" launching sites.

With just this fact in mind, the Congress last year appropriated an additional $600,000,000 to extend and intensify the Navy's Polaris missile program and its related program for Polaris-carrying submarines. Perhaps even more important, the Congress also appropriated an additional $90,000,000 to speed up the Air Force's Minuteman program.

Polaris is, to all intents, an already proven missile. Minuteman, an intercontinental ballistic missile using the new type of solid fuel developed for Polaris, is still a decided gamble, but the best authorities believe that the gamble will pay off. If the gamble is taken and does pay off, in turn, the missile gap can be closed in 1963, instead of extending at least through 1964 and probably through 1965.

One has to say, "if the gamble is taken," because the additional appropriations voted by the Congress were immediately frozen by the Budget Bureau. Thus the first question is whether they will unfreeze these sums already appropriated during this fiscal year of maximum effort on Minuteman and Polaris. But if these sums are unfrozen, then very much larger sums will also have to be included in the new budget now being prepared. In the case of Minuteman, for instance, the higher tempo of development would increase the required appropriations from $100,000,000 to 3 or even $400,000,00.

In short, there are things that can be done to shorten the famous gap and otherwise reduce its danger to this country, just as there are things that can be done to have money by eliminating superfluous or excessive weapons programs. It seems a bit ominous, however, that the President has reportedly been studying the defense budget with no aim except money cuts in view.

Eisenhower Irked By Reporter's Question About United Fruit Co.

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—With a flash of temper that surprised his press conference, President Eisenhower snapped at a reporter who asked a critical question the other day about the United Fruit Company.

What most newsmen who heard his irritation didn't know is that Ike's confidential secretary is married to a top United Fruit executive. Ann Whitman, who shares the President's secrets and exercises a quiet influence on him, is the wife of United Fruit's public relations boss, Ed Whitman.

Behind this press conference exchange lies the old story of United Fruit's banana diplomacy which has cost us friends in Central America.

The militantly anti-Communist Inter-American Labor Organization has complained to the State Department that the fruit company has in some instances worked with Communist-dominated unions in order to impose its terms on banana workers in every banana-growing republic except Honduras.

The $500,000,000 company, which employs more than 14,000 banana workers, uses its economic power to influence and often dominate weak Central American governments, the labor organization charged.

Because the labor attache had been seen talking to local labor leaders, the company even went so far as to instigate an investigation of the American Embassy in Costa Rica. United Fruit also tried to block the Central American showing of a State Department movie, "With These Hands," because it was "pro-labor."

Nixon Is Concerned

Serafino Romualdi, the AFL-CIO spokesman on inter-American affairs, protested to Vice President Nixon that United Fruit's "divide and rule" policy in Central America is a major cause of the growing anti-American feeling south of the border.

"Don't put this banana problem in the refrigerator," he begged the Vice President.

President Eisenhower, however, did not seem to agree. When columnist John Herling asked Ike about these complaints against United Fruit at a press conference, the President flared:

"If you have that kind of information, don't you think you ought to put it before a grand jury through somebody, because you are making all sorts of charges against a company which I have never heard, and you are making a speech really about something that I think would have to be aired very- very carefully in the Justice Department or in a court of law to see whether there is any basis for such charges."

"Sir, I think that the information is available in government agencies," Herling responded.

"Well then," retorted the President, "give it to them!"

Busy Summerfield

Postmaster General Summerfield is a very busy man. In addition to painting mailboxes red-white-and-blue and increasing postage to four cents, he has been busy putting the famed Hope Diamond in the Smithsonian Institution. On top of all this, "The General," as he is called in Washington, was secretly busy on something else.

Summerfield was the biggest Chevrolet dealer in the USA before he entered the Cabinet, and he has now reached far beyond the realm of the Post Office to influence the National Labor Relations Board in regard to the auto dealers. He doesn't want the Labor Board to have jurisdiction over the auto dealers which they fear would open their doors to the union by permitting it to take complaints and grievances to the federal government.

Previously, the board had tried to keep out of small labor disputes by refusing to hear any case involving a firm that did less than $1,000,000 business. The Supreme Court ruled, however, that the NLRB has jurisdiction over the small companies, and Congress promptly appropriated $1,500,000 for the NLRB to exercise this jurisdiction.

New regulations were drawn up extending the board's authority to companies doing $500,000 annual business. In the case of franchise dealers, the minimum was set at $250,000. This was aimed particularly at the small automobile dealers.

Barnes Reverses

Small Business Administrator Wendell Barnes wrote a letter to the board approving the new regulations, although he suggested Congressional action as the best remedy for the majority of small companies.

Meanwhile, the auto dealers kicked up a storm. Letters blew into the NLRB like autumn leaves, protesting the $250,000 limit. The complaints were summed up by the National Automobile Dealers Assoication which protested to the board that its "proposed new standards discriminate against franchised dealers."

Behind the scenes, Summerfield also went to bat for his auto-dealer friends. He put such pressure on Barnes that the latter meekly reversed himself and wrote a second letter urging the board to "make no change in its standards at this time which would extend its jurisdiction."

Summerfield finally persuaded the NLRB to raise the $250,000 minimum to $500,000. This automatically exempted most auto dealers from regulation. It was an action that reportedly brought several thousand dollars into the Republican campaign chest.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

There will be a lot of talk about the new cars. Millions of fathers will be frowning at the bank balance, staring at the old crate at the curb, and figuring out how much that gleaming new one will cost per month over 36 months. It is like this every year.

I' not one of those who snorts at the new cars and says: "Ah, they don't know how to make cars anymore. Now you take the 1929 Cord. . ." The engineers make better cars every year. In the past ten years, I do not think that there has been a popular make of automobile that can be called bad.

Still, years ago there were cars that were far ahead of their time in chassis and engineering and design. Between 1925 and 1930, American automotive engineering made more rapid progress than in any other brace of years before or since. It was the time of yachts and big estates and luxurious cars and small economical cars.

Ever hear of a Chalmers? Or a Chandler? How about the Moon and the Stanley Steamer and the Mercer and Dort and Star? No. Then you must have heard of the Lozier, the Stutz Bearcat, the Hupmobile, the Pierce Arrow and the Simplex? Oh well. They were automobiles and, for their time, good ones.

My grandpa Tier had a Star. He wouldn't permit anybody but Carl Deittmann to drive it, and then only on Sundays. Sid Goldberg, wh se father was rich, used to tear down Monticello Avenue in a red Stutz Bearcat with the round gasoline tank high up behind the back seat. It was the only car that the fire engines followed.

The Cord was shaped like a gay casket on wheels. The headlights were in the fenders and a lid closed over them so that they winked in slow motion. The Twin Six Packard seemed to be a story and a half high and children had to step on the running board, then onto the tool box, to get in it.

Everyone who has a feeling for automobiles has his favorite. Mine was one nobody remembers. It was a Doble. It was a long tawny phaeton with spare tires on the fron' of the running boards. It had wire wheels and a luggage rack on the back and a big silvery gleaming radiator.

It was run by steam. It had no internal combustion engine. The radiator wasn't a radiator at all. It was a steam condenser. Behind it, lying flat like a cookie tray, was the boiler. The chassis cost $6,800. To put a body on it cost a few more thousands.

As I recall, it burned kerosene to heat the water that made the steam. The boiler was quick-acting, so that, within a few minutes, the whole family was off and flying down the road in the most intense silence. There was no sound at all, except for pebbles flung against the fenders.

Driving was a cinch. There was a steering wheel and an inner steering wheel. Both were made of hand-carved polished ebony. The outer wheel was for steering. The inner wheel, when turned, poured more steam into the four cylinders. It weighed close to 6,000 pounds loaded, but it would go 110 or 125 miles per hour with ease if the driver could find a road to hold the car.

The headlights were made by Karl Zeiss. The wiring was done by the famous Robert Bosch. The brake linings were by Ferodo. The seats were of black studded leather and racing in it was like riding a Baldwin locomotive down a coal chute.

The cars today are, in spite of price advances, cheaper than the good cars of yesterday. In my time, I've owned Fords and Grahams and Packards and Oldsmobiles and Cadillacs. All of them were good. The 1938 straight-eight Packard and the 1949 Olds Series 98 were two of the best.

The new one is a nice car. It's a white Caddy Series 60 with power windows and power steering and power brakes and powerless driver. It's a 1958 and I wish that the engineers would—just once—build an ashtray for a left-handed driver. The mileage reads 4371, so I will keep this car.

The new ones, in a way, are like women. Some are bright and some are dull; some have a classy chassis and some look like a truck; the brighter the paint job, the more suspicious I get; some are noisy; some are silent. A man can get into trouble with the best of them. . .

Self-Examination For Cancer Not Difficult

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

The outlook in cancer of the breast depends upon how early the lesion is detected and removed. With our present methods of treatment, 75 to 80 per cent should be cured. But less than half this number is being saved.

This is the reason we want more women to be instructed in the art of self-examination. The procedure is not difficult, and if done at frequent intervals a malignancy may be caught at an early stage. (Our leaflet on self-examination of the breast will be sent if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies the request.)

The program is beginning to pay off. The life of many women has been saved by finding a small lump and bringing it to the attention of the physician immediately. The woman may be able to feel the lesion before the physician can detect it. Sometimes this situation creates a problem. The patient finds what she thinks is cancer and wants the questionable tissue removed. The surgeon may disagree when he is unable to feel a tumor.

If the operation is performed and the cells prove to be normal tissue, the physician is called on the carpet by his colleagues for doing unnecessary surgery. On the other hand, should the woman's intuition prove right, everyone is elated because the condition was caught early enough to be cured.

Most physicians rely upon their judgment in such cases, basing their decision on past experience and on the personality of the patient. Some women have an abnormal fear of malignancy and find tumors whenever they examine themselves. All too often the "lump" they feel is a normal constituent of the breast tissue, such as a milk duct.

But it is better to be insistent than to feel a tumor and not report to the physician until it is too late. It is strange psychology that makes some persons delay treatment because they are afraid the condition might prove malignant and incurable.

STAPHYLOCOCCAL INFECTION

Mrs. T. writes: We have a 10 month old baby who has had what the doctor calls staphylococcal infections since she was 3 days old in the hospital. Her body becomes covered with sores and as soon as they clear up, another batch starts. Is it dangerous for other children to be around this baby?

REPLY

Not dangerous, but the other youngsters may develop the same infection. Impetigo is highly contagious and spreads via personal contact or through infected towels, sheets, silver, or dishes. Recurrences may be due to lowered resistance or to reinfection from other children or adults harboring the microorganism.

MOTION SICKNESS

J. D. writes: For a person who becomes seasick, is it better to eat or not eat before starting on a voyage?

REPLY

A small meal — plus an anti-seasickness pill — is best. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on motion sickness.

CLEAN HOUSE

Mrs. D. writes: What is the best way to keep the home free of tuberculosis germs?

REPLY

Eliminate the source by not allowing persons with active tuberculosis into the home. Avoid overcrowding and keep the house clean and well aired. Antiseptics are not necessary.

COAGULATION TIME

F. D. writes: Is a coagulation time of 10 minutes bad?

REPLY

No, it is within normal limits. Pleeding time is much shorter, varying from 1 to 4 minutes.

TENNIS ELBOW

M. W. writes: I've had my elbow drained twice for bursitis. Will the fluid collect there again?

REPLY

The die is cast—let's wait and see.

TOMORROW: Oldsters are less allergic.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Secretary McElroy was away during the whole period when the most crucial budgetary decisions are normally taken at the defense Department. Even now, in November, the really big decisions, as between competing missile projects for example, have not yet been made.

These facts alone are enough to suggest that the new defense budget is an uncertain quantity. In addition, there is the fact that the prime motive of the President's personal intervention has been to find ways to cut the defense budget as heavily as possible. For the present, therefore, there is no assurance at all of the slight increase in defense spending, to the $41,800,000,000 level, that high Department sources have been talking about as virtually assured.

As one sample of the character and gravity of the issues under consideration, there is the behind-the-scenes controversy about the tempo of development of the solid-fuelled ballistic missiles. This is really a controversy about whether it is worth gambling large sums, with fair hope of success, in order to shorten the so-called missile gap — the period when the Soviets will enjoy a heavy predominance in missile striking power.

To make the controversy understandable, it is necessary to begin with the unhappy fact that the Thor, Jupiter, and Atlas ballistic missiles are all thoroughly unsatisfactory weapons for this country's armory. Liquid-fuelled missiles such as these are immensely valuable weapons for a nation like the Soviet Union, that can strike the first blow. But if the privilege of striking the first blow is conceded to the enemy, liquid-fuelled missiles like these three have very little value.

Their launching sites cannot be effectively protected against the enemy's first blow. As anyone who has read about the Cape Canaveral countdowns must realize, these missiles also take a very long time to fire. A quarter of an hour is the maximum warning that can be expected if the enemy strikes. Hence such liquid-fuelled missiles, with launching sites that cannot be "hardened," will not greatly add to this country's retaliatory capability—which is the kind of capability we desperately need to strengthen.

Modest programs to build at least some of these missiles are essential, for the time being, for the sake of training in the art. The program to build the Titan launching sites are capable of being "hardened." But the missile gap will not really end until the United States has in its armory adequate quantities of solid-fuelled ballistic missiles, which will require no countdown and can be rather cheaply provided with completely "hard" launching sites.

With just this fact in mind, the Congress last year appropriated an additional $600,000,000 to extend and intensify the Navy's Polaris missile program and its related program for Polaris-carrying submarines. Perhaps even more important, the Congress also appropriated an additional $90,000,000 to speed up the Air Force's Minuteman program.

Polaris is, to all intents, an already proven missile. Minuteman, an intercontinental ballistic missile using the new type of solid fuel developed for Polaris, is still a decided gamble, but the best authorities believe that the gamble will pay off. If the gamble is taken and does pay off, in turn, the missile gap can be closed in 1963, instead of extending at least through 1964 and probably through 1965.

One has to say, "if the gamble is taken," because the additional appropriations voted by the Congress were immediately frozen by the Budget Bureau. Thus the first question is whether they will unfreeze these sums already appropriated during this fiscal year of maximum effort on Minuteman and Polaris. But if these sums are unfrozen, then very much larger sums will also have to be included in the new budget now being prepared. In the case of Minuteman, for instance, the higher tempo of development would increase the required appropriations from $100,000,000 to 3 or even $400,000,00.

In short, there are things that can be done to shorten the famous gap and otherwise reduce its danger to this country, just as there are things that can be done to have money by eliminating superfluous or excessive weapons programs. It seems a bit ominous, however, that the President has reportedly been studying the defense budget with no aim except money cuts in view.

Self-Examination For Cancer Not Difficult

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

The outlook in cancer of the breast depends upon how early the lesion is detected and removed. With our present methods of treatment, 75 to 80 per cent should be cured. But less than half this number is being saved.

This is the reason we want more women to be instructed in the art of self-examination. The procedure is not difficult, and if done at frequent intervals a malignancy may be caught at an early stage. (Our leaflet on self-examination of the breast will be sent if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies the request.)

The program is beginning to pay off. The life of many women has been saved by finding a small lump and bringing it to the attention of the physician immediately. The woman may be able to feel the lesion before the physician can detect it. Sometimes this situation creates a problem. The patient finds what she thinks is cancer and wants the questionable tissue removed. The surgeon may disagree when he is unable to feel a tumor.

If the operation is performed and the cells prove to be normal tissue, the physician is called on the carpet by his colleagues for doing unnecessary surgery. On the other hand, should the woman's intuition prove right, everyone is elated because the condition was caught early enough to be cured.

Most physicians rely upon their judgment in such cases, basing their decision on past experience and on the personality of the patient. Some women have an abnormal fear of malignancy and find tumors whenever they examine themselves. All too often the "lump" they feel is a normal constituent of the breast tissue, such as a milk duct.

But it is better to be insistent than to feel a tumor and not report to the physician until it is too late. It is strange psychology that makes some persons delay treatment because they are afraid the condition might prove malignant and incurable.

STAPHYLOCOCCAL INFECTION

Mrs. T. writes: We have a 10 month old baby who has had what the doctor calls staphylococcal infections since she was 3 days old in the hospital. Her body becomes covered with sores and as soon as they clear up, another batch starts. Is it dangerous for other children to be around this baby?

REPLY

Not dangerous, but the other youngsters may develop the same infection. Impetigo is highly contagious and spreads via personal contact or through infected towels, sheets, silver, or dishes. Recurrences may be due to lowered resistance or to re-infection from other children or adults harboring the microorganism.

MOTION SICKNESS

J. D. writes: For a person who becomes seasick, is it better to eat or not eat before starting on a voyage?

REPLY

A small meal — plus an anti-seasickness pill — is best. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on motion sickness.

CLEAN HOUSE

Mrs. D. writes: What is the best way to keep the home free of tuberculosis germs?

REPLY

Eliminate the source by not allowing persons with active tuberculosis into the home. Avoid overcrowding and keep the house clean and well aired. Antiseptics are not necessary.

COAGULATION TIME

F. D. writes: Is a coagulation time of 10 minutes bad?

REPLY

No, it is within normal limits. Bleeding time is much shorter, varying from 1 to 4 minutes.

TENNIS ELBOW

M. W. writes: I've had my elbow drained twice for bursitis. Will the fluid collect there again?

REPLY

The die is cast—let's wait and see.

TOMORROW: Oldsters are less allergic.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

A psychology professor hung a bed sheet on the wall in front of a class of 50 seniors. On this sheet he painted a small red circle, then asked the students what they saw. Every one answered, "A small red circle." With a faint smile the professor said, "I'm surprised that not one of you seems to have noticed the sheet."

Eisenhower Irked By Reporter's Question About United Fruit Co.

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—With a flash of temper that surprised his press conference, President Eisenhower snapped at a reporter who asked a critical question the other day about the United Fruit Company.

What most newsmen who heard his irritation didn't know is that Ike's confidential secretary is married to a top United Fruit executive. Ann Whitman, who shares the President's secrets and exercises a quiet influence on him, is the wife of United Fruit's public relations boss, Ed Whitman.

Behind this press conference exchange lies the old story of United Fruit's banana diplomacy which has cost us friends in Central America.

The militantly anti-Communist Inter-American Labor Organization has complained to the State Department that the fruit company has in some instances worked with Communist-dominated unions in order to impose its terms on banana workers in every banana-growing republic except Honduras.

The $500,000,000 company, which employs more than 14,000 banana workers, uses its economic power to influence and often dominate weak Central American governments, the labor organization charged.

Because the labor attache had been seen talking to local labor leaders, the company even went so far as to instigate an investigation of the American Embassy in Costa Rica. United Fruit also tried to block the Central American showing of a State Department movie, "With These Hands," because it was "pro-labor."

Nixon Is Concerned

Serafino Romualdi, the AFL-CIO spokesman on inter-American affairs, protested to Vice President Nixon that United Fruit's "divide and rule" policy in Central America is a major cause of the growing anti-American feeling south of the border.

"Don't put this banana problem in the refrigerator," he begged the Vice President.

President Eisenhower, however, did not seem to agree. When columnist John Herling asked Ike about these complaints against United Fruit at a press conference, the President flared:

"If you have that kind of information, don't you think you ought to put it before a grand jury through somebody, because you are making all sorts of charges against a company which I have never heard, and you are making a speech really about something that I think would have to be aired very- very carefully in the Justice Department or in a court of law to see whether there is any basis for such charges."

"Sir, I think that the information is available in government agencies," Herling responded.

"Well then," retorted the President, "give it to them!"

Busy Summerfield

Postmaster General Summerfield is a very busy man. In addition to painting mailboxes red-white-and-blue and increasing postage to four cents, he has been busy putting the famed Hope Diamond in the Smithsonian Institution. On top of all this, "The General," as he is called in Washington, was secretly busy on something else.

Summerfield was the biggest Chevrolet dealer in the USA before he entered the Cabinet, and he has now reached far beyond the realm of the Post Office to influence the National Labor Relations Board in regard to the auto dealers. He doesn't want the Labor Board to have jurisdiction over the auto dealers which they fear would open their doors to the union by permitting it to take complaints and grievances to the federal government.

Previously, the board had tried to keep out of small labor disputes by refusing to hear any case involving a firm that did less than $1,000,000 business. The Supreme Court ruled, however, that the NLRB has jurisdiction over the small companies, and Congress promptly appropriated $1,500,000 for the NLRB to exercise this jurisdiction.

New regulations were drawn up extending the board's authority to companies doing $500,000 annual business. In the case of franchise dealers, the minimum was set at $250,000. This was aimed particularly at the small automobile dealers.

Barnes Reverses

Small Business Administrator Wendell Barnes wrote a letter to the board approving the new regulations, although he suggested Congressional action as the best remedy for the majority of small companies.

Meanwhile, the auto dealers kicked up a storm. Letters blew into the NLRB like autumn leaves, protesting the $250,000 limit. The complaints were summed up by the National Automobile Dealers Assoication which protested to the board that its "proposed new standards discriminate against franchised dealers."

Behind the scenes, Summerfield also went to bat for his auto-dealer friends. He put such pressure on Barnes that the latter meekly reversed himself and wrote a second letter urging the board to "make no change in its standards at this time which would extend its jurisdiction."

Summerfield finally persuaded the NLRB to raise the $250,000 minimum to $500,000. This automatically exempted most auto dealers from regulation. It was an action that reportedly brought several thousand dollars into the Republican campaign chest.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

There will be a lot of talk about the new cars. Millions of fathers will be frowning at the bank balance, staring at the old crate at the curb, and figuring out how much that gleaming new one will cost per month over 36 months. It is like this every year.

I' not one of those who snorts at the new cars and says: "Ah, they don't know how to make cars anymore. Now you take the 1929 Cord. . ." The engineers make better cars every year. In the past ten years, I do not think that there has been a popular make of automobile that can be called bad.

Still, years ago there were cars that were far ahead of their time in chassis and engineering and design. Between 1925 and 1930, American automotive engineering made more rapid progress than in any other brace of years before or since. It was the time of yachts and big estates and luxurious cars and small economical cars.

Ever hear of a Chalmers? Or a Chandler? How about the Moon and the Stanley Steamer and the Mercer and Dort and Star? No. Then you must have heard of the Lozier, the Stutz Bearcat, the Hupmobile, the Pierce Arrow and the Simplex? Oh well. They were automobiles and, for their time, good ones.

My grandpa Tier had a Star. He wouldn't permit anybody but Carl Deittmann to drive it, and then only on Sundays. Sid Goldberg, whose father was rich, used to tear down Monticello Avenue in a red Stutz Bearcat with the round gasoline tank high up behind the back seat. It was the only car that the fire engines followed.

The Cord was shaped like a gay casket on wheels. The headlights were in the fenders and a lid closed over them so that they winked in slow motion. The Twin Six Packard seemed to be a story and a half high and children had to step on the running board, then onto the tool box, to get in it.

Everyone who has a feeling for automobiles has his favorite. Mine was one nobody remembers. It was a Doble. It was a long tawny phaeton with spare tires on the fron' of the running boards. It had wire wheels and a luggage rack on the back and a big silvery gleaming radiator.

It was run by steam. It had no internal combustion engine. The radiator wasn't a radiator at all. It was a steam condenser. Behind it, lying flat like a cookie tray, was the boiler. The chassis cost $6,800. To put a body on it cost a few more thousands.

As I recall, it burned kerosene to heat the water that made the steam. The boiler was quick-acting, so that, within a few minutes, the whole family was off and flying down the road in the most intense silence. There was no sound at all, except for pebbles flung against the fenders.

Driving was a cinch. There was a steering wheel and an inner steering wheel. Both were made of hand-carved polished ebony. The outer wheel was for steering. The inner wheel, when turned, poured more steam into the four cylinders. It weighed close to 6,000 pounds loaded, but it would go 110 or 125 miles per hour with ease if the driver could find a road to hold the car.

The headlights were made by Karl Zeiss. The wiring was done by the famous Robert Bosch. The brake linings were by Ferodo. The seats were of black studded leather and racing in it was like riding a Baldwin locomotive down a coal chute.

The cars today are, in spite of price advances, cheaper than the good cars of yesterday. In my time, I've owned Fords and Grahams and Packards and Oldsmobiles and Cadillacs. All of them were good. The 1938 straight-eight Packard and the 1949 Olds Series 98 were two of the best.

The new one is a nice car. It's a white Caddy Series 60 with power windows and power steering and power brakes and powerless driver. It's a 1958 and I wish that the engineers would—just once—build an ashtray for a left-handed driver. The mileage reads 4371, so I will keep this car.

The new ones, in a way, are like women. Some are bright and some are dull; some have a classy chassis and some look like a truck; the brighter the paint job, the more suspicious I get; some are noisy; some are silent. A man can get into trouble with the best of them. . .

Dust That Dries Insects To Death Being Studied

Dust that dries insects to death is the latest weapon in man's long struggle for the perfect insecticide.

Some dessicants, or drying agents, are already being sold on a limited scale for experimental pest control, according to Chemical Week.

Notable among the dessicants is silical erogel. It is nontoxic but kills by absorbing the waxy protective layer off the insect's body.

The insect needs the coating to retain body moisture. Without it, the insect will dry up and die.

Silica erogel, the magazine reports, is not dangerout if it gets on food and will not cause silicosis.

Insects are not expected to develop an immunity to dessicants, since they are physical insecticides and do not cause death by biochemical action, the magazine says.

Silica dessicants are readily available, the magazine reports, but there are still some problems to be solved before they find their way into farms and homes.

Application is one hurdle. The erogels are so light they tend to "float," which limits the use of spray techniques.

Other problems involve attracting insects to the dessicants, difficulty of removing the particles from objects such as clothing, ineffectiveness against heavily waxed insects and water insects and the dessicants' loss of ability to adhere to an insect under moist conditions.

The lure of a slice of the $275,000,000 insecticide market, the magazine reports, provides the incentive to whittle away at these obstacles—none of which is likely to prove insurmountable.

Dedication Of State Park To Honor Correspondents

The dedication of a 101-acre state park on the Washington-Frederick county line near Gapland to the memory of wartime correspondents will take place today at Gathland, former mountain home and retreat of George Alfred Townsend, noted Civil War correspondent.

It is located at the gap from which Townsend and his associates witnessed the Battle of South Mountain (Crampton's Gap) and some of the preparations for the battles of Antietam and Gettysburg.

Gathland State Park surrounds the site. Dedication ceremonies will be conducted by Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin and will mark one of the many recognized contributions of his administration to the Maryland State Park system.

Speaker of the day will be Jacob R. Ramsburg, mayor of Frederick and former state senator. Participating will be members of the Frederick County Historical Society and Washington County Historical Society.

They jointly urged inclusions of the Gathland estate in the state park system and have assisted in the subsequent restoration of the War Correspondents Monument and a portion of the great stone hall at Gathland where Townsend once entertained his fellow writers, domestic and foreign dignitaries and members of Europe's royal families.

The original dedication was a personal affair, made by Townsend himself in 1896. It was basically a mignificent stone arch which he built in their memory and inscribed with the names of his associates who reported the War Between the States, the subsequent Washington scene and European wars of the late 19th Century.

It is said to be the only outdoor monument dedicated to the men who have followed our country's wars and reported them to the people.

Biography, Travel Among Recent Books

Among books recently added to the Cumberland Free Public Library are these, reviewed by Miss Elizabeth Cain of the library staff:

Bernt Balchen's autobiography "Come North With Me" is a thrilling tale of aviation, exploration and adventure in the Artic and Antartic. To quote Lowell Thomas, "No more engrossing adventure-biography has been written in our time."

"Daughter of the Gold Rush" by Klondy Nelson with Corey Ford is both timely and authentic. Here is a vivid story of picturesque Alaska of prospecting days, now only a memory, overshadowed by statehood with its subsequent changes and developments.

"The Underground City" by H. L. Humes is a clear version of the complex story of the French underground movement. Events of the celebrated Dujardin affair and its effects are carefully covered together with events of the late 1940s.

Mable Squires has written an excellent reference book for those interested in the fascinating hobby of drying plants and flowers. The author reminds us this decorative hobby requires neither expert skill nor elaborate equipment. The appendix—"Where Buy Dried Plants"—is most helpful.

"Victory: The Life of Lord Nelson" by Oliver Warner is a well blocked and balanced account of Horatio Nelson. Dividing his subject matter into three categories, the author's pleasing and interesting style has produced a fascinating book, "a full portrait of the man."

"The Tree Identification Book" by George W. D. Symonds provides a "new method for the practical identification and recognition of trees." Divided into two parts for genus and species indentification, this book is excellent for reference.

Mable Squires has written an excellent reference book for those interested in the fascinating hobby of drying plants and flowers. The author reminds us this decorative hobby requires neither expert skill nor elaborate equipment. The appendix—"Where Buy Dried Plants"—is most helpful.

"Victory: The Life of Lord Nelson" by Oliver Warner is a well blocked and balanced account of Horatio Nelson. Dividing his subject matter into three categories, the author's pleasing and interesting style has produced a fascinating book, "a full portrait of the man."

"The Tree Identification Book" by George W. D. Symonds provides a "new method for the practical identification and recognition of trees." Divided into two parts for genus and species indentification, this book is excellent for reference.

Hundreds of other examples could be cited concerning the benefits which have resulted from the unique bank of plants. However, these few should serve as definite proof of its priceless gifts to American agriculture.

Market's Surge To New Record Peaks Interrupted

NEW YORK (UPI)—Industrial stocks ran into mild profit taking Thursday and closed lower despite a late show of strength in the main list and run-ups in many special issues.

The decline meant that traders were taking some of the $7 billion in profits run up since Election Day. It occurred on volume that ran 220,000 shares below the 4,440,000 shares traded Wednesday.

Rails also closed lower, but utilities managed to set a high since Sept. 18, 1930.

Several strong features developed just before the closing bell. These included Chas. Pfizer, up 8¾ on disclosure that directors "probably" will consider a stock split at their meeting, and American Motors, up 1⅞, after its president said the resumption of dividends is a "distinct possibility".

The latter stock reversed its trend and rose more than 3 points from the day's low.

Among the other specialties that chalked up gains of a point or more were Johnson & Johnson, up 2½; J. I. Case, up 1⅝; Haveg up 2⅛; American - Hawaiian, up 4½ and International Telephone, up 1¼.

American Motors topped the list in volume with sales of 224,100 shares, more than twice the next highest — Sperry Rand. With volume at 105,900 shares Sperry Rand added ⅝. The stock has been active and higher in recent sessions reflecting expected new government contracts.

In the main body of the list steels, oils and the "Big Three" motors all eased.

Market's Surge To New Record Peaks Interrupted

NEW YORK (UPI)—Industrial stocks ran into mild profit taking Thursday and closed lower despite a late show of strength in the main list and run-ups in many special issues.

The decline meant that traders were taking some of the $7 billion in profits run up since Election Day. It occurred on volume that ran 220,000 shares below the 4,440,000 shares traded Wednesday.

Rails also closed lower, but utilities managed to set a high since Sept. 18, 1930.

Several strong features developed just before the closing bell. These included Chas. Pfizer, up 8¾ on disclosure that directors "probably" will consider a stock split at their meeting, and American Motors, up 1⅞, after its president said the resumption of dividends is a "distinct possibility".

The latter stock reversed its trend and rose more than 3 points from the day's low.

Among the other specialties that chalked up gains of a point or more were Johnson & Johnson, up 2½; J. I. Case, up 1⅝; Haveg up 2⅛; American - Hawaiian, up 4½ and International Telephone, up 1¼.

American Motors topped the list in volume with sales of 224,100 shares, more than twice the next highest — Sperry Rand. With volume at 105,900 shares Sperry Rand added ⅝. The stock has been active and higher in recent sessions reflecting expected new government contracts.

In the main body of the list steels, oils and the "Big Three" motors all eased.

Moon-Faced Mel Blanc, 'Man Of A Thousand Voices,' In Filmland Over 20 Years

By JOE FINNIGAN
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Mel Blanc, who started out in Hollywood as a drunken bull, has graduated to roles that now pay the veteran voice mimic as much as $1,400 per word.

The moon-faced Blanc has been dubbing voices for many of Filmland's top animated cartoons for over 20 years and there's nobody in sight who will take over his chores.

"My first job, after coming here in 1937, was a drunken bull with a hiccough voice," he laughed.

Since then, Blanc has been in almost 1,000 pictures.

What's Up Doc?

Blanc has been under contract to Warner Brothers Studio for years and has done the majority of the voices for such cartoons as Bugs Bunny, Daffy Duck and Porky Pig.

"While at Warners, we won four or five Oscars for cartoons in which I've performed," he said.

"Many companies have quit making cartoons," he pointed out.

"At Warners we still make 30 a year, but we used to do 50."

While Hollywood has been cutting down on animated cartoons, "the man with a thousand voices" has been finding plenty of work on television.

An especially lucrative field for Blanc is commercials.

Blanc's fee for a fountain pen commercial was only $55 for the original recording, but after the plug played throughout the nation for one year, he picked up $7,000 in residual payments.

Only Five Words

And his task consisted of saying only five words!

The San Francisco-born Blanc, who was raised in Portland, Ore., credits his knack with voices to his ability to comprehend sounds.

"I attribute it all to having a good ear and hearing myself reproduce," he explained. "I don't like to copy a voice, I'd rather improvise."

One of Blanc's many voices will be heard on CBS' "Perry Mason" show when he does the voice of a Parrot Dec. 20.

Even though his meal ticket is his voice, Blanc doesn't worry too much about it.

"A doctor told me I have tremendous neck muscles," he said. "But I don't exercise them or take any special medicines."

Gelatin Molds Help Cook To Show Skill

Gelatin molds, light-as-a-cloud and glamourous to look at, offer the cook a special opportunity to show off her artistry and skill. They're surprisingly easy to prepare, yet they always make family or guests think she's spent hours in the kitchen.

One example is this fix-ahead Fruit Fluff, dressed up at serving time with a generous spoonful of frothy whipped cream. Refreshing after a hearty meal, it's also perfect for late evening refreshments.

Whether you make individual molds or one large one, the recipe goes together fast with three ingredients: fruit-flavored gelatin, instant powdered cream, and boiling water. The topping's also made with instant powdered cream so it's as handy as your cupboard shelf — and thrifty, too.

If you prepare one large mold, serve it right at the table so everyone can see how attractive it looks. Center the mold on a pretty glass plate and ring the bottom with a wreath of glistening mint leaves. (Rinse the plate with cold water first so you can slide the mold around, if necessary, to center it.)

Fruit Fluff

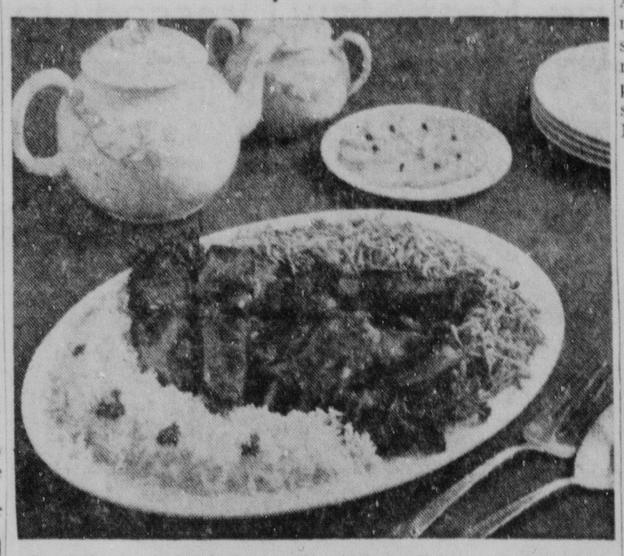
½ cup powdered cream
1 package fruit-flavored gelatin
2 cups boiling water

Combine powdered cream and gelatin; add boiling water and stir until dissolved. Chill until mixture begins to set; then beat until thick and fluffy. Turn into six individual molds (or one large mold) and chill until set. Serve with whipped powdered cream. Makes 6 servings.

Variation: Substitute 1 cup of fruit juice for 1 cup of water as called for in above recipe.

For topping, combine ½ cup powdered cream, 2 teaspoons vanilla, ⅔ cup warm water, and 4 teaspoons confectioners' sugar in a jar; shake to mix. Pour into refrigerator tray and freeze firm (about 20 minutes). Scrape mixture into chilled bowl; beat until peaks form (about 5 minutes). Serve immediately, or return to refrigerator and reheat before serving.

Mandarin Spareribs



Come the fresh, brisk days and once again we welcome food that's comfortably hearty, bold of flavor. So let's serve Mandarin Spareribs, a dish that's all solid satisfaction and virile taste.

Savory, browned spareribs are simmered in apple juice until the meat has taken up apple tang, and is so tender it parts from rib at the touch of a fork. Add a dash of the oriental with soy sauce. Then serve hot, pungent and apple-sweet . . . with crunchy fried noodles and boiled rice for company. For the rest of the meal . . . perhaps a light tossed salad and a fruit dessert as pleasing balance to the richness of the meat. Serve with tea as the beverage, to carry out the oriental theme.

Mandarin Spareribs is a particularly happy choice for a day when family members come in full of bounce, eager for "real" food. They'll settle down to it with vast pleasure, rising at meal end in a nice warm glow.

And you'll have pleasure serving Mandarin spareribs because for all its robust character, it's an easy dish to prepare as well as a truly appetizing one.

Mandarin Spareribs

2 lbs. lean spareribs, cut in serving size pieces
Seasoned flour
1 tablespoon shortening
cups apple juice
1 teaspoon soy sauce
Fried noodles
Boiled rice

Roll spareribs in seasoned flour, brown in shortening. Remove spareribs to kettle. Add apple juice; cover and simmer until spareribs are tender, about 1½-2 hours. Skim off excess fat. Add soy sauce. Remove spareribs and thicken stock with a smooth paste in cold water. Arrange spareribs and gravy on platter. Place boiled rice on one side and fried noodles on other. Makes 4 servings.

The most important thing about BAKING

It's the balance of ingredients in baking powder that governs its leavening action. Only when these are scientifically balanced can you be sure of uniform action in the mixing bowl plus that final rise to light and fluffy texture in the oven . . . That's the story of Clabber Girl's balanced double action.

Gelatin Molds Help Cook To Show Skill

Gelatin molds, light-as-a-cloud and glamourous to look at, offer the cook a special opportunity to show off her artistry and skill. They're surprisingly easy to prepare, yet they always make family or guests think she's spent hours in the kitchen.

One example is this fix-ahead Fruit Fluff, dressed up at serving time with a generous spoonful of frothy whipped cream. Refreshing after a hearty meal, it's also perfect for late evening refreshments.

Whether you make individual molds or one large one, the recipe goes together fast with three ingredients: fruit-flavored gelatin, instant powdered cream, and boiling water. The topping's also made with instant powdered cream so it's as handy as your cupboard shelf — and thrifty, too.

If you prepare one large mold, serve it right at the table so everyone can see how attractive it looks. Center the mold on a pretty glass plate and ring the bottom with a wreath of glistening mint leaves. (Rinse the plate with cold water first so you can slide the mold around, if necessary, to center it.)

Fruit Fluff

½ cup powdered cream
1 package fruit-flavored gelatin
2 cups boiling water

Combine powdered cream and gelatin; add boiling water and stir until dissolved. Chill until mixture begins to set; then beat until thick and fluffy. Turn into six individual molds (or one large mold) and chill until set. Serve with whipped powdered cream. Makes 6 servings.

Variation: Substitute 1 cup of fruit juice for 1 cup of water as called for in above recipe.

For topping, combine ½ cup powdered cream, 2 teaspoons vanilla, ⅔ cup warm water, and 4 teaspoons confectioners' sugar in a jar; shake to mix. Pour into refrigerator tray and freeze firm (about 20 minutes). Scrape mixture into chilled bowl; heat until peaks form (about 5 minutes). Serve immediately, or return to refrigerator and reheat before serving.

Mandarin Spareribs

Come the fresh, brisk days and once again we welcome food that's comfortably hearty, bold of flavor. So let's serve Mandarin Spareribs, a dish that's all solid satisfaction and virile taste.

Savory, browned spareribs are simmered in apple juice until the meat has taken up apple tang, and is so tender it parts from rib at the touch of a fork. Add a dash of the oriental with soy sauce. Then serve hot, pungent and apple-sweet . . . with crunchy fried noodles and boiled rice for company. For the rest of the meal . . . perhaps a light tossed salad and a fruit dessert as pleasing balance to the richness of the meat. Serve with tea as the beverage, to carry out the oriental theme.

Mandarin Spareribs is a particularly happy choice for a day when family members come in full of bounce, eager for "real" food. They'll settle down to it with vast pleasure, rising at meal end in a nice warm glow.

And you'll have pleasure serving Mandarin spareribs because for all its robust character, it's an easy dish to prepare as well as a truly appetizing one.

Mandarin Spareribs

2 lbs. lean spareribs, cut in serving size pieces
Seasoned flour
1 tablespoon shortening
2 cups apple juice
1 teaspoon soy sauce
Fried noodles
Boiled rice

Roll spareribs in seasoned flour, brown in shortening. Remove spareribs to kettle. Add apple juice; cover and simmer until spareribs are tender, about 1½-2 hours. Skim off excess fat. Add soy sauce. Remove spareribs and thicken stock with a smooth paste in cold water. Arrange spareribs and gravy on platter. Place boiled rice on one side and fried noodles on other. Makes 4 servings.

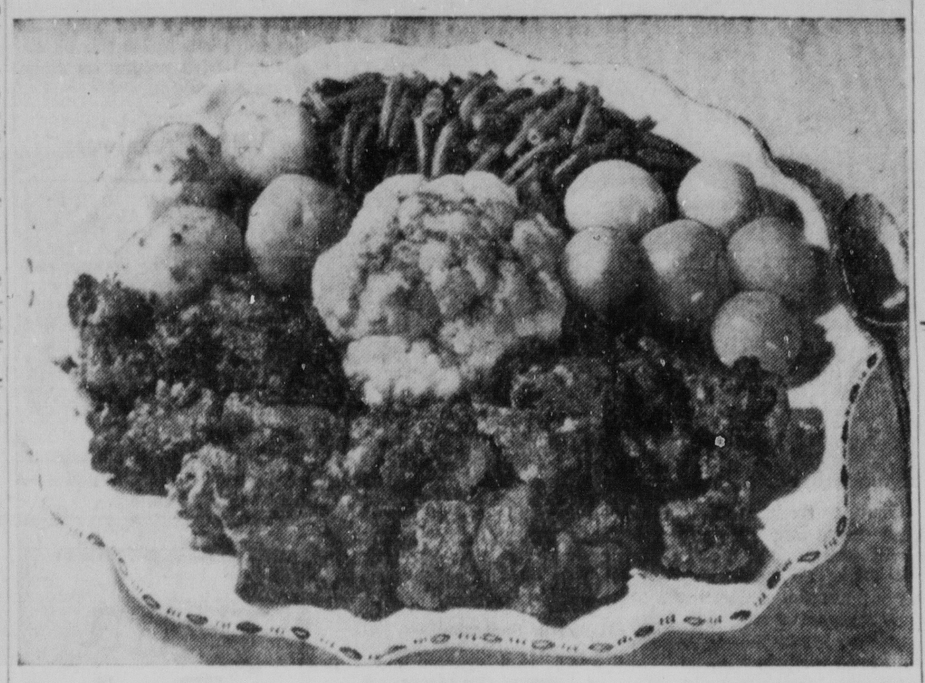
'Foods With A Flair'

Taste-Tempting Beef Stew Dressed Up



Most homemakers take great pride in serving their families a wide variety of nutritious, tempting meals.

However, in the search for something new and different, the savory and satisfying dishes that graced yesterday's tables are sometimes bypassed or forgotten.

But, one such dish that has never gone out of style or lost its popularity is beef stew. Because stews are "meals-in-one" and require little attention, they're tailor-made for busy days. They can also be glamourized for company meals, for spices and herbs as well as other flavor ingredients such as onions, garlic, parsley or prepared sauces do their share in giving the dish a distinctive accent.

Further variation can be accomplished with attractive biscuit, pastry, potato or cornbread toppings.

When selecting vegetables for the stew, it pays to give some thought to their appearance on the serving platter. A variety of shapes, colors and flavors is important in creating interest in the finished dish.

This special beef stew is attractively arranged around a snowy head of cauliflower. The gravy is served separately. Here's how you can prepare it for your family.

Dredge 1½ pounds of boneless beef for stew in ¼ cup of flour which has been seasoned with 1 teaspoon salt and ⅛ teaspoon pepper. Brown the meat slowly in 3 tablespoons of lard or drippings. Pour off the drippings and add only enough water to cover. Cover tightly and cook slowly for 1½ hours. Add 6 medium potatoes and 6 medium onions and continue cooking for 25 minutes. Add 1 can (1 pound) of cut green beans and cook until the meat is tender and the vegetables are done. Arrange the meat, potatoes, onions and green beans around 1 small head of cooked cauliflower on a hot platter. Thicken the liquid with flour if gravy is desired. This recipe will serve 6 persons.

Banana Stuffed Turkey For Thanksgiving Variety

Everyone expects a traditional turkey dinner at Thanksgiving, and there is no point in tampering with tradition. But an element of surprise can still be a feature of the meal by providing new variations on some of the old traditional dishes.

Instead of your usual stuffing for the bird, for instance, you might prepare a delicate Banana Stuffing. The light, refreshing fruit flavor goes well with the roast bird and is sure to please everyone at the table. Besides lending a fine flavor to the recipe, the bananas also help assure that the stuffing will be sufficiently moist, which is important both for the taste of the stuffing and for the bird.

Banana Stuffing is also excellent with chicken, duckling, or pork chops on other occasions.

Banana Stuffing

¼ cup finely chopped onion
2¼ cups soft bread crumbs, firmly packed
¾ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon poultry seasoning
1½ cups diced, ripe bananas (3 large or 6 medium bananas)
½ cup butter or margarine, melted

Mix together lightly: onion, bread crumbs, salt, poultry seasoning and diced bananas. Add melted butter or margarine. Mix thoroughly. Makes about 3 cups stuffing.

Zesty Steak Sauce

Just before broiling steak or lamb chops, brush over the meat a paste made of 1 or 2 crushed garlic cloves, a teaspoon of prepared mustard and enough olive oil to give the mixture the consistency of thick cream. It's the kind of flavoring men go for.

Taste-Tempting Beef Stew Dressed Up

Most homemakers take great pride in serving their families a wide variety of nutritious, tempting meals.

However, in the search for something new and different, the savory and satisfying dishes that graced yesterday's tables are sometimes bypassed or forgotten.

But, one such dish that has never gone out of style or lost its popularity is beef stew. Because stews are "meals-in-one" and require little attention, they're tailor-made for busy days. They can also be glamourized for company meals, for spices and herbs as well as other flavor ingredients such as onions, garlic, parsley or prepared sauces do their share in giving the dish a distinctive accent.

Further variation can be accomplished with attractive biscuit, pastry, potato or cornbread toppings.

When selecting vegetables for the stew, it pays to give some thought to their appearance on the serving platter. A variety of shapes, colors and flavors is important in creating interest in the finished dish.

This special beef stew is attractively arranged around a snowy head of cauliflower. The gravy is served separately. Here's how you can prepare it for your family.

Add 1 can (1 pound) of cut green beans and cook until the meat is tender and the vegetables are done. Arrange the meat, potatoes, onions and green beans around 1 small head of cooked cauliflower on a hot platter. Thicken the liquid with flour if gravy is desired. This recipe will serve 6 persons.

Curried Lamb-Prune Platter Burgers

These are not casual burgers to slap between buns. No, indeed. Curried Lamb-Prune Burgers are platter burgers . . . important enough to serve as the main dish for dinner . . . even when you have guests.

They're made of ground lamb sparked with curry, onion and seasonings. But the new touch, the inspired touch is prunes, chopped and mixed through the meat. The prunes lend their own sunny fruitiness and rich, tart-sweetness to the lamb.

Give each plump burger a wrap-around with bacon, and broil. When done, lift to a warm platter and serve while they're at their hot and sizzling freshest, brown on the outside, juicy pink inside.

You can oven-ready the burgers early in the day, if you wish. Then at dinner time, it's in and out of the broiler, all in less than 10 minutes . . . a real blessing on a day when dinner must be ready in a hurry, but good.

Curried Lamb-Prune Burgers

1¼ pounds ground lamb
2 tablespoons minced onion
¼ cup minced parsley
½ cup ketchup
¾ teaspoon salt
Few grains pepper
1 teaspoon curry powder
⅔ cup chopped pitted dried prunes
1 cup soft bread crumbs
8 bacon strips
Cooked cauliflower for garnish
Whole plumped prunes for garnish

Combine lamb, onion, parsley, ketchup, salt, pepper, curry powder, prunes, and bread crumbs; mix well. Form into 8 patties; fasten strip of bacon around each patty. Broil 5-6 minutes on each side, being careful not to overbrown them. Garnish with cooked cauliflower and whole plumped prunes. Makes 8.

Spiced Pickled Prunes

½ cup sugar
½ cup cider vinegar
1 cup water
2 teaspoons whole cloves
3 3-inch stick cinnamon, broken into small pieces
1 teaspoon allspice
1 pound prunes

Combine sugar, vinegar, water, cloves, cinnamon and allspice. Place prunes from package in a rather wide-bottom pan; add sugar mixture. Bring to boiling point. Cover; cook slowly, about 20 minutes. Stir several times so prunes will be thoroughly covered with syrup. Makes 1 pound.

Olives For Appetizers

Green olives take on quite a different flavor if they are drained, then covered with olive oil which has been flavored with a dash of hickory-smoked salt and about a quarter-teaspoon of crushed dill seed. To serve as cocktail appetizers, remove olives from the olive oil, drain on paper towel.

Kolachky—Polish Bread

(Pronounced Ko-LAHCH-kee)

Bake at 400 degrees for 12 to 15 minutes.

Makes 2 dozen rolls.

Soften 1 cake compressed yeast in ¼ cup lukewarm water. (Or substitute 1 package dry yeast softened in ¼ cup very warm, not hot, water.)

Melt ¼ cup butter or margarine in 1 cup scalded milk. Add 1 unbeaten egg, ⅓ cup sugar and 1 tablespoon salt; cool to lukewarm. Add the softened yeast. Blend well.

Gradually add 4 to 4½ cups sifted All Purpose Flour to form a stiff dough. Cover.

Let rise in warm place (85 degrees to 90 degrees F.) until light and doubled in size, 1½ to 2 hours.

Prepare 24 apricot halves, prunes or dates. (Cook dried apricots or prunes in water until tender, drain. Pit prunes and dates.)

Combine ¼ cup sugar and 2 teaspoons cinnamon.*

Roll out dough on well-floured surface to an 18x12-inch rectangle. Cut into 24 pieces, each 3 inches square. In the center of each place an apricot, pitted prune or pitted date. Top apricots or prunes with ½ teaspoon sugar-cinnamon mixture.

Bring corners of each dough-square to center; seal to enclose fruit. Place 2 inches apart on greased baking sheets. Cover.

Let rise in warm place until light and doubled in size, 30 to 45 minutes.

Bake in moderately hot oven (400 degrees) 12 to 15 minutes.

*Omit if using pitted dates for the filling.

Articles put into storage wrapped in transparent household wrap will be ready for use when wrap is removed.

Avocado Sauce For Fish

From Caracas comes a recipe for a smooth, zesty sauce good with almost any fried or broiled fish. In a blender, beat together 1 large avocado, which has been peeled and cubed, 1 tablespoon vinegar, 3 tablespoons Spanish olive oil, ½ tablespoon lemon juice, ½ teaspoon salt and ¼ teaspoon black pepper. Beat until very smooth, the consistency of mayonnaise. Makes about 1½ cups sauce.

Curried Lamb-Prune Platter Burgers

These are not casual burgers to slap between buns. No, indeed. Curried Lamb-Prune Burgers are platter burgers . . . important enough to serve as the main dish for dinner . . . even when you have guests.

They're made of ground lamb sparked with curry, onion and seasonings. But the new touch, the inspired touch is prunes, chopped and mixed through the meat. The prunes lend their own sunny fruitiness and rich, tart-sweetness to the lamb.

Give each plump burger a wrap-around with bacon, and broil. When done, lift to a warm platter and serve while they're at their hot and sizzling freshest, brown on the outside, juicy pink inside.

You can oven-ready the burgers early in the day, if you wish. Then at dinner time, it's in and out of the broiler, all in less than 10 minutes . . . a real blessing on a day when dinner must be ready in a hurry, but good.

Curried Lamb-Prune Burgers

1¼ pounds ground lamb
2 tablespoons minced onion
¼ cup minced parsley
½ cup ketchup
¾ teaspoon salt
Few grains pepper
1 teaspoon curry powder
⅔ cup chopped pitted dried prunes
1 cup soft bread crumbs
8 bacon strips
Cooked cauliflower for garnish
Whole plumped prunes for garnish

Combine lamb, onion, parsley, ketchup, salt, pepper, curry powder, prunes, and bread crumbs; mix well. Form into 8 patties; fasten strip of bacon around each patty. Broil 5-6 minutes on each side, being careful not to overbrown them. Garnish with cooked cauliflower and whole plumped prunes. Makes 8.

Spiced Pickled Prunes

½ cup sugar
½ cup cider vinegar
1 cup water
2 teaspoons whole cloves
3 3-inch stick cinnamon, broken into small pieces
1 teaspoon allspice
1 pound prunes

Combine sugar, vinegar, water, cloves, cinnamon and allspice. Place prunes from package in a rather wide-bottom pan; add sugar mixture. Bring to boiling point. Cover; cook slowly, about 20 minutes. Stir several times so prunes will be thoroughly covered with syrup. Makes 1 pound.

Olives For Appetizers

Green olives take on quite a different flavor if they are drained, then covered with olive oil which has been flavored with a dash of hickory-smoked salt and about a quarter-teaspoon of crushed dill seed. To serve as cocktail appetizers, remove olives from the olive oil, drain on paper towel.

Kolachky—Polish Bread

(Pronounced Ko-LAHCH-kee)

Bake at 400 degrees for 12 to 15 minutes.

Makes 2 dozen rolls.

Soften 1 cake compressed yeast in ¼ cup lukewarm water. (Or substitute 1 package dry yeast softened in ¼ cup very warm, not hot, water.)

Melt ¼ cup butter or margarine in 1 cup scalded milk. Add 1 unbeaten egg, ⅓ cup sugar and 1 tablespoon salt; cool to lukewarm. Add the softened yeast. Blend well.

Gradually add 4 to 4½ cups sifted All Purpose Flour to form a stiff dough. Cover.

Let rise in warm place (85 degrees to 90 degrees F.) until light and doubled in size, 1½ to 2 hours.

Prepare 24 apricot halves, prunes or dates. (Cook dried apricots or prunes in water until tender, drain. Pit prunes and dates.)

Combine ¼ cup sugar and 2 teaspoons cinnamon.*

Roll out dough on well-floured surface to an 18x12-inch rectangle. Cut into 24 pieces, each 3 inches square. In the center of each place an apricot, pitted prune or pitted date. Top apricots or prunes with ½ teaspoon sugar-cinnamon mixture.

Bring corners of each dough square to center; seal to enclose fruit. Place 2 inches apart on greased baking sheets. Cover.

Let rise in warm place until light and doubled in size, 30 to 45 minutes.

Bake in moderately hot oven (400 degrees) 12 to 15 minutes.

*Omit if using pitted dates for the filling.

Articles put into storage wrapped in transparent household wrap will be ready for use when wrap is removed.

Avocado Sauce For Fish

From Caracas comes a recipe for a smooth, zesty sauce good with almost any fried or broiled fish. In a blender, beat together 1 large avocado, which has been peeled and cubed, 1 tablespoon vinegar, 3 tablespoons Spanish olive oil, ½ tablespoon lemon juice, ½ teaspoon salt and ¼ teaspoon black pepper. Beat until very smooth, the consistency of mayonnaise. Makes about 1½ cups sauce.

World Community Day Is Marked In Duling Church

KEYSER—Women of several religious denominations filled Duling Church recently in observance of World Community Day. Mrs. John R. Blue, Romney, chairman of Christian World Relations of United Church Women of West Virginia, gave a plea for personal participation in a program of sharing with and learning to know and be known by those to whom we extend Christian service.

A quintet from Burlington comprised of Mrs. Pete Homan, Mrs. Charles Wilson, Mrs. George Oates, Mrs. Allen Parrish and Mrs. Pauline Thrush, furnished music with Miss Lucy Woodworth at the piano.

The response to the request for yarn and material was gratifying. The desire of the women of the community to become more active World Neighbors was indicated by the generous offering which will be used this year to establish training centers for women of the South Sea Islands and Pakistan.

Mrs. Rosalie Vandiver was chairman of the meeting. Mrs. Fred Belt, president of the Burlington Rural United Church Women, who sponsored the observance, announced a business meeting at Lone Star Church, on December 8 at 7:30 p.m. Benediction was pronounced by Rev. World Community Day Is Marked In Duling Church

KEYSER—Women of several religious denominations filled Duling Church recently in observance of World Community Day. Mrs. John R. Blue, Romney, chairman of Christian World Relations of United Church Women of West Virginia, gave a plea for personal participation in a program of sharing with and learning to know and be known by those to whom we extend Christian service.

The speaker said that through understanding will come tolerance and through tolerance, perhaps peace. She urged all to have faith in the U.N. and pray for its guidance.

Miss Mernie Judy, principal of Burlington School, showed a film of present conditions in the Middle East.

A quintet from Burlington comprised of Mrs. Pete Homan, Mrs Charles Wilson, Mrs. George Oates, Mrs. Allen Parrish and Mrs. Pauline Thrush, furnished music with Miss Lucy Woodworth at the piano.

The response to the request for yarn and material was gratifying. The desire of the women of the community to become more active World Neighbors was indicated by the generous offering which will be used this year to establish training centers for women of the South Sea Islands and Pakistan.

Mrs. Rosalie Vandiver was chairman of the meeting. Mrs. Fred Belt, president of the Burlington Rural United Church Women, who sponsored the observance, announced a business meeting at Lone Star Church, on December 8 at 7:30 p.m. Benediction was pronounced by Rev. J. M. Hypes, pastor of Duling Methodist Church.

St. Michael's PTA Arranges Dance Nov. 26

FROSTBURG — St. Michael's PTA will celebrate the Thanksgiving season with a dance Wednesday, November 26, at the Knights of Columbus Home, Chairman Edward Boyle announced. Mr. and Mrs. William Colgan, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Quinn, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kenney, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Whetstone will assist Boyle.

New blackboards for classrooms in the old part of the school will be installed soon, George Aldom, president, said. Committees were named to make improvements to the windows in the library and install new bulletin boards in the school.

A revision in the charter of the association now reads that new officers will be installed at the last meeting in June, and will have the summer months to plan activities. This revision came after a committee headed by Leo Grim gave recommendations on the matter.

Among projects under consideration is improvements to the floors in Grades 6 and 7. Men of the PTA plan to sand and refinish the floors during the Thanksgiving holidays, Aldom said.

The next meeting will be in the form of a social with the men preparing and serving food Sunday, December 14.

Rev. Hannan Gets Post In Roanoke

KEYSER — Rev. John Hannan, assistant pastor at Catholic Church of the Assumption here for the past three years, has been transferred to St. Andrew's Church, Roanoke, Va.

Announcement was made by Most Rev. John J. Russell, bishop of Richmond, who said Father Hannon's successor will be Rev. John O'Connell, who has been assistant at St. Andrew's the past two years.

Father Hannan came to Keyser September 22, 1955, as an assistant to Rev. Kenneth Rizer and, after the latter's transfer, remained as an asistant to Rev. Joseph Hirsch. He was moderator for the Newman Club at Potomac State College, and the Catholic Youth Organization and was in charge of the religious activities at Petersburg Catholic Chapel, a mission of the local church.

A native of Poughkeepsie, N.Y., he was located in Richmond for eight years, serving parishioners at both St. Peter's and St. Paul's churches in that city before coming to Keyser.

Father O'Connell, also a native of New York State, was ordained in 1946. He was first stationed at Fort Monroe, Va., and then in Fredericksburg, Va. He has been in Roanoke the past two years. The transfer, the first made by Bishop Russell since assuming his new duties in Richmond, will formally take place Saturday.

Father Hirsch said a farewell party for Father Hannan will take place in St. Mary's Hall today at 8 p.m. All parishioners and friends of Father Hannan throughout the city are invited to be present.

Clothing Drive Slated In Tri-Towns

PIEDMONT — A house - to - house pick-up of old clothing and non-perishable foodstuff will be held Saturday, November 22.

The drive will be conducted by the Boy and Girl Scouts of the Tri-Towns. In Piedmont, Westernport and Luke the scouts will begin collecting at 10 a.m. while in Beryl and Bloomington it will be held in the afternoon.

Salvation Army kettles will be manned here this year. This was decided at the meeting of the United Oragnizations held in the business office of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company. Elmer J. Shaver, president, was in charge of the meeting.

They will be manned four days before Christmas beginning Saturday, December 20, by representatives of civic clubs and churches of the Tri-Towns.

This practice has been followed for several years and the citizens of the community have enjoyed the opportunity of contributing to the Salvation Army for their worthy cause.

Mrs. Margaret Thomas, in charge of the UO storeroom in the Union Buiding, gave an interesting report.

Area Boy Accidentally Shoots Self In Leg

KEYSER—A 12-year-old boy is a patient in Potomac Valley Hospital for treatment of a gunshot wound of his leg.

Claude E. Rice, Mineral County conservation officer, said the boy, Granville Davis Jr., accidentally shot himself near the shinbone of his left leg with a .22 calibre rifle while hunting near his home in the Stoney Run section.

He was admitted to the hospital Tuesday. The wound is said to be not serious.

Patient In Hospital

BLOOMINGTON—Mrs. Roberta Beard is a surgical patient in Sacred Heart Hospital, Cumberland.

Garrett County Enrollment Up

OAKLAND—Garrett School enrollment moves up slightly from year to year. The present enrollment of 4,788 shows an increase of 270, or six per cent over the enrollment of 1953. This is the smallest school population growth in the state other than Allegany County, where the growth over the last five years shows an increase of only 0.8 per cent. However, the 2.1 per cent increase over last year is as large or larger than that shown in six other counties of the state.

Factors contributing to school population trends in the county as listed by Willard L. Hawkins, county superintendent of schools, are:

1. Persistence to graduation of a larger percentage of pupils.
2. Better educational facilities and program for all.
3. Some improvement in the economic stability of the county—recreational development, home and road building being important factors.
4. Greater uncertainty of job placement in other localities.

The most noticeable school population growth in the county is found in the Red House, Oakland, Grantsville, Route 40 School areas. A slight decline is found in the Friendsville, Kitzmiller, Bittinger, North Glade areas, Hawkins said.

St. Michael's PTA Arranges Dance Nov. 26

FROSTBURG — St. Michael's PTA will celebrate the Thanksgiving season with a dance Wednesday, November 26, at the Knights of Columbus Home, Chairman Edward Boyle announced. Mr. and Mrs. William Colgan, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Quinn, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kenney, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Whetstone will assist Boyle.

New blackboards for classrooms in the old part of the school will be installed soon, George Aldom, president, said. Committees were named to make improvements to the windows in the library and install new bulletin boards in the school.

A revision in the charter of the association now reads that new officers will be installed at the last meeting in June, and will have the summer months to plan activities. This revision came after a committee headed by Leo Grim gave recommendations on the matter.

Among projects under consideration is improvements to the floors in Grades 6 and 7. Men of the PTA plan to sand and refinish the floors during the Thanksgiving holidays, Aldom said.

The next meeting will be in the form of a social with the men preparing and serving food Sunday, December 14.

Young Child Passes First Hurdle On Road To Health

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The parents of five-month old Vickie Diane Pomp have passed one hurdle on the infant's road to health, but they must face another sometime in the future.

Vickie was brought from her Belington, Barbour County, home early this week to undergo surgery for removal of an obstruction in the aorta, the main artery leading from the heart.

This was only one of several heart defects detected shortly after her birth and an additional operation will be necessary. The child has a hole in the wall separating the upper chambers of her heart and, when she is strong enough, this too, will be repaired.

When a Charleston heart specialist informed Mrs. William H. Pomp that Vickie's operation had been a success, the only words that she could utter were, "Thank God, my baby is all right."

Vickie will be leaving the hospital, probably in another 10 days to return to Belington where she will be greeted by her father, a lumber company employe, and five brothers and sisters.

YFC Will Hold 1959 Convention In Washington

Plans for the Youth For Christ's Capitol Teen Convention, to be held December 28-30, 1959 in Washington, D. C., were announced yesterday by Dwight I. Evans, area director.

Some 15,000 youths from the United States and Canada are expected to attend the three-day meeting.

Theme of the convention will be "The Christian Answer to Juvenile Delinquency." Dr. Billy Graham, noted evangelist, will speak on the last day of the convention.

The plans were revealed at a Maryland Area Youth for Christ meeting Monday in Westminster attended by Mr. Evans, John Troutman, Miss Jean Evans and Thomas Troutman.

Jack Hamilton, National YFC Club director, presented the international program of Youth for Christ for 1959—"The Year of Miracles."

Highpoints will be the 10th World Congress for Youth in Madras, India; Hotel Convention in Boca Raton, Fla.; International Convention at Winona Lake, Indiana; 11th World Congress for Youth in Mexico; and the "Capitol Teen Convention" in Washington.

held up remarkably well. Mrs. Max Bastian referred to his ideas on government as idealistic but highly applicable today. He felt the necessity for dignity in government and stressed the need for justice, truth, temperance, and fortitude in all governmental acts. As emperor he was a loyal Roman, but, he said, "as a man I belong to the world." Marcus Aurelius wrote these philosophical precepts in order to try to understand how to live with himself and others. Because of their universality they have become a part of classical literature.

Mrs. Webster, chairman of the group, introduced Mrs. Harry Beneman and Mrs. G. M. Tukey who were guests. Others present were Mrs. George Hazelwood Sr., Mrs. George Griffith, Mrs. W. Royce Hodges, Mrs. A. J. Feigus, Mrs. Milton Bernstein, Mrs. Gordon Bowie, Mrs. Milton Granet, Mrs. A. J. Mirkin, Mrs. Paul Castelle, Mrs. W. A. Van Ormer, Mrs. W. Earle Cobey, and Mrs. G. Morgan Smith.

The next meeting will be held December 9 at the home of Mrs. Bernstein, 731 Washington Street, when the group will discuss the poetry of Robert and Elizabeth Barrett Browning. It is requested that each member choose a favorite selection from both poets for this program.

What's behind the big switch to FORD?

The most sensible News of all!...

WITH ALL THESE EXCLUSIVES, AND WITH THE USUAL OPTIONAL EQUIPMENT, FORD PRICES ARE STILL UP TO MORE THAN $100 LOWER* THAN THE NEAREST MAJOR COMPETITOR
*Based on comparison of manufacturers' suggested list prices

These specific common sense features are the big reasons why Ford is the best seller:

1 Six passengers, not just four, ride in comfort. Yes, even the man in the middle. Because Ford's full-depth seats are extra thick all the way across—there's no hard spot in the center as in some cars.

2 The doors are wider for easier entry. Compared with Ford's major competitor, they open wider . . . and have convenient two-stage front door checks.

3 Ford's styling is sensible. It's clean and simple like the Thunderbird. No useless frills or wings that are easy to dent and cause parking problems.

4 Ford's frame surrounds you with safety. In its field, only Ford has a wide-base frame that seats all passengers within the protection of its husky side rails.

5 Ford's spacious luggage compartment is easier to load and unload. High rear trunk wall on Ford's nearest competitor makes loading difficult.

6 Ford's got the most sound and weather insulation—everywhere. No other low-priced car compares.

7 Ford is economical. You save up to a dollar a tankful with Ford's standard Six or Thunderbird V-8 engines—for they thrive on regular gas. You need change oil only each 4000 miles. The muffler is aluminized to last twice as long as ever. And Ford's new Diamond Lustre Finish never—ever—needs waxing.

Compare and you'll agree you never had it so beautiful so sensible : : : and yet so Thrifty!

Campers Host Moorefield, Handley At Beall Tonight

LaSalle Will Play Altoona Eleven Away

Berkeley, Romney End PVC Campaign; Cadets Meet Hubs

Allegany High School will be shooting for its winningest season since 1955 when it tackles the Moorefield High School's Yellow Jackets tonight at 8 o'clock at the local stadium.

The Campers, playing their first season under Coach Ed Schwarz, have won six out of eight games played to date and another victory would enable them to better the records of the 1957 and 1956 Allegany teams. The 1955 team posted a 7-1 mark but the following year the Campers flopped to 3-5-1 and last year's eleven wound up with four wins and six losses.

Moorefield, making its second appearance here in a week, will be playing AHS for the first time since 1947 when the schools wound up a two-game series splitting even. Last Saturday the West Virginians dropped a 14-13 decision to LaSalle and will be the underdogs in tonight's game, Allegany's last before the city championship battle with Fort Hill on Thanksgiving Day.

LaSalle At Altoona

LaSalle High School's Explorers will face a tough assignment tonight when they do battle with Coach Paul Bradley's Altoona Catholic High School Marauders at Altoona, Pa.

The Pennsylvanians, sparked by Joe Tomlinson, 5-11, 192-pound junior fullback, who gained 146 yards in 22 plays in last Saturday's 14-7 victory over Claysburg, are having one of their best seasons and show a 6-2 record as they go into their final of the campaign.

LaSalle (2-6) will be meeting Altoona for the 14th time. The Marauders hold a 7-4 edge in wins while two games ended in ties. The Explorers close their 10-game schedule with Beall on Thanksgiving Day at Frostburg.

Beall Hosts Handley

Beall High School's Mountaineers (4-3-1) face one of their toughest tests of the season tonight when they host the Handley High School Judges of Winchester in the Mountain City at 8 o'clock.

The Virginians come to Frostburg with a 6-2 record and a winning streak of three games. Their only losses came at the hands of Westminster, 13-6, and Fort Hill 38-6. Records of the teams:

Coach Mel Henry's North Hagerstown Hubs lower the curtain on their season tonight by playing the Frederick High Cadets in an important Cumberland Valley Athletic League game at Hagerstown. North High and Fort Hill are now deadlocked for first place with 4-1 records and a victory tonight would put the Hubs in front which means that the Sentinels must defeat Allegany on Thanksgiving Day for the championship race to end in a tie.

North High figures to whip the Cadets who are 3-6 for the season and 2-3 in the league.

PVC Season To End

New York Starts Drive For Third Major League

Threats To Raid Existing Leagues Viewed As Serious

NEW YORK (AP)—A surprise drive for the organization of a third major baseball league, accompanied by threats to raid the National and American leagues for players, was touched off Thursday by Mayor Robert Wagner of New York.

And shortly afterwards Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick called the threat to raid the existing majors a serious issue.

Wagner's go-ahead signal was announced by William Shea, chairman of the mayor's committee assigned to bring another major league club to New York after the Giants and Dodgers moved to the West Coast. The World Champion Yankees now are the only major league club in New York.

10 Cities Interested

Shea said the mayor advised him to continue negotiations with parties in at least 10 cities reportedly interested in joining the move. He listed Houston, Dallas, Ft. Worth, Atlanta, Denver, Torotono, Miami, Minneapolis-St. Paul, Detroit and several undesignated West Coast cities.

"As everybody knows I favor keeping New York open for a National League club," said Frick. "But baseball is not going to be sledge-hammered into putting a team into New York because of the threat of a third major league.

"I don't know much about the mayor's plan as yet but the threat to raid the National and American Leagues for players is a serious issue. Actually, I can't conceive players joining a third league and risking losing their pension benefits."

Reaction Discouraging

Shea said the idea for a new major league followed discouraging reaction to the committee's requests that the National League establish a new franchise in New York either through the transfer of another club or by expansion to 10 clubs.

He said the committee was told there is "not sufficient sentiment" among the National League club owners for a team in New York.

Shea described the people they had spoken to as "responsible citizens," and said that in each of the cities adequate assurances had been given that the $3,500,000 to $5,000,000 necessary to start a new team was available.

Shea also disclosed that he and the other members of the committee had been in touch with one of the owners of an existing major league team with regard to the new move.

He said that the man, whom he declined to identify, expressed willingness to take part in the effort.

Rosburg Paces Havana Tourney

Californian Posts 69, Three Trail By Stroke

HAVANA, Cuba (AP)—Bob Rosburg of Palo Alto, Calif., carved out a one-under-par 69 in gusty 30 miles per hour winds Thursday for a one stroke lead in the $45,000 Havana International Golf Tournament.

The paunchy, bespectacled Californian, who looks more like a bank clerk than a golfer, was the only player in the selected field of 43 to crack the par of 70 for the 7,009 yards Villa Real course.

Favorite Sammy Snead dubbed a simple five foot putt on the 18th green and finished with a 70. This put him in a three-way tie for second place with Doug Ford, 1957 Masters champion and Marty Furgol.

Snead missed eight putts of six feet and under.

The four leaders all broke the competitive course record held by Snead and Ben Hogan.

Three players were tied at 71. They were Billy Maxwell of Dallas, Don January of Eastland, Tex., and Wes Ellis of Richwood, N.J., all young, relative newcomers to the golf tour.

Knicks And Pistons Win In Pro League

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Knickerbockers, with six men scoring in double figures, trounced the St. Louis Hawks, 119-102, in the second game of a National Basketball Association doubleheader Thursday night before a crowd of 13,815 at Madison Square Garden.

Gene Shue scored half of his 32 points in the fourth period to lead the Detroit Pistons to a 119-110 victory over the Minneapolis Lakers in the first game.

The Hawks were in the game until the four-minute mark of the second period when they narrowed the score to 36-34. But Frank Selvy plunked in five straight points to put the game out of reach.

Mountaineers Leave Today For Virginia

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) —Coach Art Lewis said Thursday he would take a 36-man squad to Willliamsburg, Va., Friday for the Saturday afternoon Southern Conference encounter with William & Mary.

Lewis said guard J. D. Miller, who suffered leg injuries in the 14-14 tie with Penn State last week, would be left at home.

The squad departs at 10 a. m. Friday by chartered plane for Williamsburg where a light workout will be held in the afternoon.

Terp Defeat Would Equal All-Time Low

Maryland To Play At Miami Tonight

By The Associated Press

The 1958 University of Maryland football team can take a place in history Friday night at Miami. But it won't be one they'll want to remember.

Unless it can pull itself together and win, the seventh loss will equal the most ever suffered by a Maryland football team. Six other teams have done it since Maryland began playing intercollegiate football as the Aggies in 1892.

The last time was the first for Tommy Mont as head coach in 1956. That year, the season record was 2-7-1. Maryland has won only two games this year and will have one more to play with Virginia after Miami.

Maryland fans, already upset over the poor showing to date and exceptionally so after last week's 40-14 rout by Navy, are going to be in a mean frame of mind if Miami wins. Going by no more than the record, they are going to wonder just who Maryland may expect to beat.

Miami has won only one of its six games, by a 14-8 score over Baylor.

Navy followers are sitting back relaxed. Saturday's opponent is George Washington, winner of two of its five games.

Navy is rated in a class far above George Washington and has taken five of its seven games.

Joining Navy and Maryland in away games is Western Maryland at Drexel. Although it has won only three of its seven contests, Western Maryland is feeling complacent too. Drexel hasn't been able to win any of its seven.

Holding forth at home will be Johns Hopkins with Dickinson, Maryland State with Elizabeth City, N. C., and Morgan with Hampton.

As approach the end of the long trail, Johns Hopkins has a 4-2 record, Morgan 3-3 and Maryland State 2-3.

IBC Says Court Rule Endangers Televised Bouts

Ask Supreme Court To Soften Decree

By WHITNEY SHOEMAKER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The International Boxing Club told the Supreme Court Thursday it was socked to hard by an antimonopoly decree that even its twice-a-week national televised fight series is in jeopardy.

Kenneth C. Royall, IBC attorney, said Federal Judge Sylvester J. Ryan in New York hit the club, Madison Square Garden and their officers with punitive, oppressive and unnecessary penalties after finding they had violated the Sherman Antitrust Act.

Using a question by Justice Felix Frankfurter, Royall said it might now be possible for the courts to decide whether customers of New York's Garden are to see "boxing or Billy Graham" on any given night.

Defends Judgment

Philip Elman, Justice Department lawyer, defended Ryan's judgment. He said it was intended to restore conditions as they were before James D. Norris and Arthur M. Wirtz constructed their boxing empire in 1949. Another purpose, he said, was to encourage independent promoters to compete with Norris and Wirtz, who control the International Boxing clubs of New York and Chicago as well as the Garden and Chicago Stadium.

Ryan last year ruled that Norris, Wirtz and their companies monopolized championship fights from 1949 to 1953.

Ordered To Dissolve

The judge ordered the clubs to dissolve and directed Norris and Wirtz to sell their stock in the Garden and resign as officers. He prohibited them from signing exclusive contracts with fighters or arenas. He also confined them personally and the Garden to promotion of two title bouts each for the next five years.

Elmer said the lower court concluded the hookup of Norris, Wirtz and the Garden was the "basic evil" and had to be broken up.

He agreed with Royall that nothing in the decree would prevent the formation of new IBC's but said these would be bound by the same restrictions.

Royall, a former secretary of the Army, denied the IBC setup had excluded "a single boxer, promoter or any other stadium or television or radio or motion picture company."

Wants Decree Softened

He asked the high court to absolve the defendants of monopoly charges or, at least, to soften the decree.

Royall said the present terms "effectively interfere with and render most difficult the presentation" of the Wednesday and Friday night TV fight shows. These are made up mostly of nontitle bouts. Royall said they are threatened by outlawing normal and recognized contract procedures.

Louisville Keeps Name Colonels

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The Louisville Baseball Club of the American Association will keep the name Colonels under the new Milwaukee Braves ownership.

"We wouldn't think of calling the team anything but Colonels," said Birdie Tebbetts, Braves' executive vice president. The name Colonels started in 1876.

Milwaukee will move its Wichita, Kan., franchise to Louisville.

Bump Elliott Will Take Over Michigan Post

Slated To Succeed Oosterbaan Jan. 1

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Michigan's athletic board has passed a resolution recommending that the university's regents appoint backfield coach Bump Elliott as head football coach replacing Bennie Oosterbaan, it was learned Thursday night.

The Associated Press learned that Elliott will take over Jan. 1 at a salary of $16,000.

Regents are scheduled to hold their monthly meeting Friday. But the Wolverine coaching situation, long up in the air, is not on the schedule.

A university spokesman said it could be added, however.

It also was learned that no one but Elliott was considered for the head coaching berth.

He is a former Wolverine back and came to Michigan two years ago as backfield coach after serving in a similar capacity at Iowa.

Oosterbaan, 52, was a two-time All America end in his playing days at Michigan. He has been head coach for 11 seasons and is serving his 31st year on the coaching staff.

West Virginia Title Battles Set Saturday

Two Championships Will Be Settled

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Two of the choicest plums in West Virginia high school sports activity will be awarded Saturday — football championships in classes Triple-A and Double-A.

Parkersburg plays East Bank at Charleston for the Triple - A crown while Sissonville meets Clarksburg Roosevelt - Wilson at Buckhannon for the AA title.

Both games are expected to be spirited, but Parkersburg and Sissonville have been given a slight edge based on season performances. The Big Reds are undefeated in 10 games. Sissonville owns a 6-3 record, but its defeats came at the hands of Triple - A teams while its victories include wins over two teams of higher classification.

East Bank also is undefeated in 10 games. The Pioneers hold wins over nine Triple-A teams and one Double-A eleven, but Parkersburg's overall competition was probably stronger.

Sissonville posted a 13-7 win over South Charleston and a 24-7 victory over Seth in the defeats administered to "big schools." The Indians lost to St. Albans, Dunbar and Nitro. R-W dropped games to Elkins and backyard rival Clarksburg Victory.

LaSalle High School's Explorers will face a tough assignment tonight when they do battle with Coach Paul Bradley's Altoona Catholic High School Marauders at Altoona, Pa.

The Pennsylvanians, sparked by Joe Tomlinson, 5-11, 192-pound junior fullback, who gained 146 yards in 22 plays in last Saturday's 14-7 victory over Claysburg, are having one of their best seasons and show a 6-2 record as they go into their final of the campaign.

LaSalle (2-6) will be meeting Altoona for the 14th time. The Marauders hold a 7-4 edge in wins while two games ended in ties. The Explorers close their 10-game schedule with Beall on Thanksgiving Day at Frostburg.

North High figures to whip the Cadets who are 3-6 for the season and 2-3 in the league.

New York Starts Drive For Third Major League

Threats To Raid Existing Leagues Viewed As Serious

NEW YORK (AP)—A surprise drive for the organization of a third major baseball league, accompanied by threats to raid the National and American leagues for players, was touched off Thursday by Mayor Robert Wagner of New York.

And shortly afterwards Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick called the threat to raid the existing majors a serious issue.

Wagner's go-ahead signal was announced by William Shea, chairman of the mayor's committee assigned to bring another major league club to New York after the Giants and Dodgers moved to the West Coast. The World Champion Yankees now are the only major league club in New York.

10 Cities Interested

Shea said the mayor advised him to continue negotiations with parties in at least 10 cities reportedly interested in joining the move. He listed Houston, Dallas, Ft. Worth, Atlanta, Denver, Torotono, Miami, Minneapolis-St. Paul, Detroit and several undesignated West Coast cities.

"As everybody knows I favor keeping New York open for a National League club," said Frick. "But baseball is not going to be sledge-hammered into putting a team into New York because of the threat of a third major league.

"I don't know much about the mayor's plan as yet but the threat to raid the National and American Leagues for players is a serious issue. Actually, I can't conceive players joining a third league and risking losing their pension benefits."

Reaction Discouraging

Shea said the idea for a new major league followed discouraging reaction to the committee's requests that the National League establish a new franchise in New York either through the transfer of another club or by expansion to 10 clubs.

He said the committee was told there is "not sufficient sentiment" among the National League club owners for a team in New York.

Shea described the people they had spoken to as "responsible citizens," and said that in each of the cities adequate assurances had been given that the $3,500,000 to $5,000,000 necessary to start a new team was available.

Shea also disclosed that he and the other members of the committee had been in touch with one of the owners of an existing major league team with regard to the new move.

He said that the man, whom he declined to identify, expressed willingness to take part in the effort.

Rosburg Paces Havana Tourney

Californian Posts 69, Three Trail By Stroke

HAVANA, Cuba (AP)—Bob Rosburg of Palo Alto, Calif., carved out a one-under-par 69 in gusty 30 miles per hour winds Thursday for a one stroke lead in the $45,000 Havana International Golf Tournament.

The paunchy, bespectacled Californian, who looks more like a bank clerk than a golfer, was the only player in the selected field of 43 to crack the par of 70 for the 7,009 yards Villa Real course.

Favorite Sammy Snead dubbed a simple five foot putt on the 18th green and finished with a 70. This put him in a three-way tie for second place with Doug Ford, 1957 Masters champion and Marty Furgol.

Snead missed eight putts of six feet and under.

The four leaders all broke the competitive course record held by Snead and Ben Hogan.

Three players were tied at 71. They were Billy Maxwell of Dallas, Don January of Eastland, Tex., and Wes Ellis of Richwood, N.J., all young, relative newcomers to the golf tour.

Knicks And Pistons Win In Pro League

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Knickerbockers, with six men scoring in double figures, trounced the St. Louis Hawks, 119-102, in the second game of a National Basketball Association doubleheader Thursday night before a crowd of 13,815 at Madison Square Garden.

Gene Shue scored half of his 32 points in the fourth period to lead the Detroit Pistons to a 119-110 victory over the Minneapolis Lakers in the first game.

The Hawks were in the game until the four-minute mark of the second period when they narrowed the score to 36-34. But Frank Selvy plunked in five straight points to put the game out of reach.

Mountaineers Leave Today For Virginia

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) —Coach Art Lewis said Thursday he would take a 36-man squad to Willliamsburg, Va., Friday for the Saturday afternoon Southern Conference encounter with William & Mary.

Lewis said guard J. D. Miller, who suffered leg injuries in the 14-14 tie with Penn State last week, would be left at home.

The squad departs at 10 a. m. Friday by chartered plane for Williamsburg where a light workout will be held in the afternoon.

White Sox Place Hurler Jim Wilson On Retired List

CHICAGO (AP) — Jim Wilson, who overcame a fractured skull and went on to a noteworthy major league pitching career, Thursday was placed on the Chicago White Sox voluntarily retired list.

Wilson, 36, last Sept. 29 requested his release to spend more time with his family in San Diego, Calif. The Sox tried to dissuade him, without success, and the baseball commissioner's office approved the retirement, effective Sept. 29. Wilson pitched for seven big league clubs.

Terp Defeat Would Equal All-Time Low

Maryland To Play At Miami Tonight

By The Associated Press

The 1958 University of Maryland football team can take a place in history Friday night at Miami. But it won't be one they'll want to remember.

Unless it can pull itself together and win, the seventh loss will equal the most ever suffered by a Maryland football team. Six other teams have done it since Maryland began playing intercollegiate football as the Aggies in 1892.

The last time was the first for Tommy Mont as head coach in 1956. That year, the season record was 2-7-1. Maryland has won only two games this year and will have one more to play with Virginia after Miami.

Maryland fans, already upset over the poor showing to date and exceptionally so after last week's 40-14 rout by Navy, are going to be in a mean frame of mind if Miami wins. Going by no more than the record, they are going to wonder just who Maryland may expect to beat.

Miami has won only one of its six games, by a 14-8 score over Baylor.

Navy followers are sitting back relaxed. Saturday's opponent is George Washington, winner of two of its five games.

Navy is rated in a class far above George Washington and has taken five of its seven games.

Joining Navy and Maryland in away games is Western Maryland at Drexel. Although it has won only three of its seven contests, Western Maryland is feeling complacent too. Drexel hasn't been able to win any of its seven.

Holding forth at home will be Johns Hopkins with Dickinson, Maryland State with Elizabeth City, N. C., and Morgan with Hampton.

As approach the end of the long trail, Johns Hopkins has a 4-2 record, Morgan 3-3 and Maryland State 2-3.

IBC Says Court Rule Endangers Televised Bouts

Ask Supreme Court To Soften Decree

By WHITNEY SHOEMAKER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The International Boxing Club told the Supreme Court Thursday it was socked to hard by an antimonopoly decree that even its twice-a-week national televised fight series is in jeopardy.

Kenneth C. Royall, IBC attorney, said Federal Judge Sylvester J. Ryan in New York hit the club, Madison Square Garden and their officers with punitive, oppressive and unnecessary penalties after finding they had violated the Sherman Antitrust Act.

Using a question by Justice Felix Frankfurter, Royall said it might now be possible for the courts to decide whether customers of New York's Garden are to see "boxing or Billy Graham" on any given night.

Defends Judgment

Philip Elman, Justice Department lawyer, defended Ryan's judgment. He said it was intended to restore conditions as they were before James D. Norris and Arthur M. Wirtz constructed their boxing empire in 1949. Another purpose, he said, was to encourage independent promoters to compete with Norris and Wirtz, who control the International Boxing clubs of New York and Chicago as well as the Garden and Chicago Stadium.

Ryan last year ruled that Norris, Wirtz and their companies monopolized championship fights from 1949 to 1953.

Ordered To Dissolve

The judge ordered the clubs to dissolve and directed Norris and Wirtz to sell their stock in the Garden and resign as officers. He prohibited them from signing exclusive contracts with fighters or arenas. He also confined them personally and the Garden to promotion of two title bouts each for the next five years.

Elmer said the lower court concluded the hookup of Norris, Wirtz and the Garden was the "basic evil" and had to be broken up.

He agreed with Royall that nothing in the decree would prevent the formation of new IBC's but said these would be bound by the same restrictions.

Royall, a former secretary of the Army, denied the IBC setup had excluded "a single boxer, promoter or any other stadium or television or radio or motion picture company."

Wants Decree Softened

He asked the high court to absolve the defendants of monopoly charges or, at least, to soften the decree.

Royall said the present terms "effectively interfere with and render most difficult the presentation" of the Wednesday and Friday night TV fight shows. These are made up mostly of nontitle bouts. Royall said they are threatened by outlawing normal and recognized contract procedures.

Louisville Keeps Name Colonels

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The Louisville Baseball Club of the American Association will keep the name Colonels under the new Milwaukee Braves ownership.

"We wouldn't think of calling the team anything but Colonels," said Birdie Tebbetts, Braves' executive vice president. The name Colonels started in 1876.

Milwaukee will move its Wichita, Kan., franchise to Louisville.

Bump Elliott Will Take Over Michigan Post

Slated To Succeed Oosterbaan Jan. 1

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Michigan's athletic board has passed a resolution recommending that the university's regents appoint backfield coach Bump Elliott as head football coach replacing Bennie Oosterbaan, it was learned Thursday night.

The Associated Press learned that Elliott will take over Jan. 1 at a salary of $16,000.

Regents are scheduled to hold their monthly meeting Friday. But the Wolverine coaching situation, long up in the air, is not on the schedule.

A university spokesman said it could be added, however.

It also was learned that no one but Elliott was considered for the head coaching berth.

He is a former Wolverine back and came to Michigan two years ago as backfield coach after serving in a similar capacity at Iowa.

Oosterbaan, 52, was a two-time All America end in his playing days at Michigan. He has been head coach for 11 seasons and is serving his 31st year on the coaching staff.

West Virginia Title Battles Set Saturday

Two Championships Will Be Settled

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Two of the choicest plums in West Virginia high school sports activity will be awarded Saturday — football championships in classes Triple-A and Double-A.

Parkersburg plays East Bank at Charleston for the Triple - A crown while Sissonville meets Clarksburg Roosevelt - Wilson at Buckhannon for the AA title.

Both games are expected to be spirited, but Parkersburg and Sissonville have been given a slight edge based on season performances. The Big Reds are undefeated in 10 games. Sissonville owns a 6-3 record, but its defeats came at the hands of Triple - A teams while its victories include wins over two teams of higher classification.

East Bank also is undefeated in 10 games. The Pioneers hold wins over nine Triple-A teams and one Double-A eleven, but Parkersburg's overall competition was probably stronger.

Sissonville posted a 13-7 win over South Charleston and a 24-7 victory over Seth in the defeats administered to "big schools." The Indians lost to St. Albans, Dunbar and Nitro. R-W dropped games to Elkins and backyard rival Clarksburg Victory.

NFL Will Hold Draft On Dec. 1

48 Top Collegians Will Be Selected

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — National Football League clubs will select what amounts to the pro's All-America college players Dec. 1 at their annual preliminary draft meeting here.

Commissioner Bert Bell announced Thursday that the 12 NFL teams will make their first four choices of the annual 30-round draft. In effect, those chosen are rated by the pro league as the 48 top college players in the nation.

The teams will select in the order of the standings after games of Nov. 30, from last to first place. Bell reminded that the annual bonus choice has been dispensed with since Congress felt it bordered on a lottery. Club owners, at their 1958 winter meeting, voted out the bonus, an out-of-hat draw giving the lucky winner rights to any one player of its choice.

The balance of the draft will be concluded at the NFL's annual winter meeting running for four days from the last Thursday in January.

Australians Reach Finals In Tourney

A list of nominees for officers of the Western Maryland Sports Car Club will be submitted at the meeting at 8 o'clock tonight at the Sports Car Motor Sales on McMullen Highway, according to Dr. William S. Firey, president.

Nominees for 1959 are Herman J. Melotti, for president; Raymond E. Twaites Jr., for vice president; Mrs. Irene Weaver and David Smith, for secretary; Allan D. Macy, for treasurer, and Mark Weaver and Dr. Robert K. Poling, for activities co-chairmen.

To Handle Big Game Turkey Bag Is 204

Submarine Hurlers Del In Big Dough

By C. V. BURNS

JOHN R. SHELTON and John Fox of Keyser are among the four officials named to handle the West Virginia Class AA football championship game tomorrow at Buckhannon between Roosevelt-Wilson of Clarksburg and Sissonville.

Shelton and Fox, of the Potomac Valley Board, were notified yesterday of their appointment by William R. Fugitt, secretary of the West Virginia High School Athletic Association.

The two other officials will come from the Wheeling Board.

CHESTER KERNS, in charge of wildlife management for the Maryland Game and Inland Fish Commission, reports that more turkeys were killed in Allegany county by hunters during the Oct. 5-31 season than any of the five counties open in the state during that period.

Allegany's reported kill was 204 followed by Washington with 130, Garrett 99, Worcester 66 and Somerset 12.

The 511 total for the five counties was far ahead of the 1957 bag of 275.

Kerns figures another 25 per cent were killed and not reported.

DICK HYDE'S success as a submarine ball pitcher for the Washington Senators should bring back memories of the days in Allegany county when Johnny Stafford was baffling teams in the Cumberland and Georges Creek League with his underhand offerings.

We saw Hyde on television several times this year and he really had some of the best hitters in the league looking bad. He seemed to have perfect control of the pitch, won ten games and saved 19 in relief roles and that represents 48 per cent of the games won by Washington. Dick had a nifty earned run average of 1.75 for 103 innings.

Many years ago Carl Mays was one of the best submarine pitchers in the business. Another successful hurler was Eldon Auker of the Tigers.

Stafford pitched Col. Nelson Russler's Colts to the league title in 1914, winning 13 and losing 3. The local teams's record that season was 27-8 so you can realize the important part played by this submarine ball artist. Johnny, who now resides in Somerset county, Pa., also won a lot of games for Lonaconing and was a basketball star with the Lonaconing Champs of that era.

Lanky Charley Duckworth, who pitched sandlot ball here in the 1920s, also was a successful submarine ball twirler.

DELVIN "Del" Miller, the noted owner, breeder and driver of harness race horses, who operates the Meadowlands Farms near Canonsburg, Pa., last week sold 24 yearlings for more than $145,000—an average of $6,100 a head for colts and fillies that never have even run a race.

Miller, who was one of the honored guests at this year's Dapper Dan Club dinner, has the world famous sire, Adios, whose get stole the show during the recent standard-bred sales at Harrisburg, Pa.

Dancing Hanover, an Adios colt, out of The Old Maid, drew the biggest bid in the history of public horse auctions when he brought $105,000 from a New Jersey syndicate headed by Stanley Dancer, one of the nation's top sulky drivers. Dancing Hanover was foaled at Meadowlands.

This year, the winnings of colts and fillies sired by the fabulous Adios will soar over the $1,500,000 mark.

JOCKEY Robert E. Corle will do no more riding this year.

The 23-year-old saddlesmith, who had such a big year on the major tracks in the east, is recuperating at his home at Imler, near Bedford, Pa., from a broken fibula bone in his left leg, suffered when he was unseated during a race at Garden State Park, New Jersey, last week.

Doctors at Cooper Memorial Hospital, Camden, N. J., advised Corle the leg will be in a cast from six to eight weeks.

Corle hopes to rejoin the stable of his contract owner, John S. Kelly, this winter in Florida and resume riding at the Hialeah meeting.

Corle was thrown twice the afternoon he was injured. He was aboard Busher's Beam in the first race when the animal went down and broke both front legs. race to win with Major Watson Bobby came back in the third and in the fourth he suffered the broken leg when he fell from Shannondale.

SPEAKING of jockeys, Francisco Saumell, one of the top-notchers now performing at Wheeling Downs, ranks fourth nationally in total wins with 210, as of Nov. 1, according to the TRA Service Board.

Willie Shoemaker was tops with 275 followed by Howard Grant with 232 and Bill Hartack with 221.

MOST football fans have heard the old chant—"Send in the band"—when fortunes aren't so good for their team but how many actually have ever seen the band go into action?

Well, 6,500 fans saw just that recently in Pittsburgh when with 40 seconds remaining in the first half, the North Hills High School band marched to the middle of the field with their team trailing Penn Hills, 27-0, before the high strutting lead majorette was flagged down by frantic officials.

The band, however, couldn't aid the cause. The final score was 48-13.

Anthony And Ray Fight At Garden

NEW YORK (AP) — Tony Anthony risks his No. 1 ranking among the light heavyweight contenders Friday night when he faces fast-rising Sonny Ray of Chicago in a 10-round television contest at Madison Square Garden.

Winner of six straight fights this year, the lean, 6-1 New Yorker is a 3-1 favorite over the 5-11 Ray who has swept nine in a row. The bout will be aired nationally (NBC) starting at 10 p.m. EST.

Scoring will be by rounds. The winner of each round gets from one to four points, the loser none.

Cardinals Cop 11th In Japan

Moon Batting Star In 5 To 1 Triumph

MITO, Japan (UPI) — St. Louis Cardinal rightfielder Wally Moon drove home three runs Thursday to give the touring Americans a 5-1 victory over the Japanese All-Stars before 20,000 fans at Mito Stadium.

Moon brought home Ken Boyer from third with an infield out in the second inning and then made the score 3-0 for the Cards with a two-run homer in the fourth.

The win gave the Redbirds their 11th victory out of 13 decisions on their goodwill tour.

Gene Green of the Cards also hit a solo home run in the sixth inning and each club tallied in the ninth. Takao Katsuragi of the Daimai Orions doubled home the lone run for the All-Stars.

Bob Blaylock, Card righthander, worked the entire game for the winners and scattered eight hits. It gave him a record of two wins and one defeat on the tour.

The linescore:

Cardinals	010 201 001—5	10 0
All-Stars	000 000 001—1	8 1

Blaylock and Green; Dobashi, Nishida (5), Suzuki (9) and Fujio, Doi (9). Loser—Dobashi. HR—Moon, Green.

Larry Dixon Ties Record

N.C. State Star Has 10 PATs In 11 Tries

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) —Although extra-point kicking has been somewhat obscured this season by the new rule for post-touchdown attempts, N. C. State's Larry Dixon has produced an outstanding record which could see him wind up with a record-breaking PAT-kicking percentage.

In eight games, according to ACC Service Bureau figures, Dixon has kicked 10 in 11 tries for an accuracy percentage of .909. This is equal to the best percentage in ACC history, set by Duke's Bernie Blaney on 10 of 11 in 1956.

Nell MacLean of Wake Forest is second in the extra point kicking department with nine for 11.

In punting, Don Coker of North Carolina is still No. 1 with an average of 42.4 yards on 25 kicks. Doug Hatcher of South Carolina is second at 41.2 yards per boot and Wayne Wolff of Wake Forest is third at 39.5 yards per kick.

Mrs. Johnson, Golf Champ Of 1905, Dies

NANTUCKET, Mass. (AP) — Mrs. Pauline MacKay Johnson, 80, national woman golf champion in 1905, died Thursday after a brief illness.

She was a direct descendant of Joseph Starbuck who made a great fortune as a whale oil merchant when this island was a famous whaling center.

Mrs. Johnson won the national title with a 1-up victory over Margaret Curtis at the Morris County Golf Club, Convent, N. J.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—All those little tidbits coming out of England that have Kay Kendall and Rex Harrison battling over their careers must be exaggerated. Sexy Rexy will direct Kay in "The Bright One," a new play scheduled to open in London the same week that their movie, "The Reluctant Debutante," makes its bow there.

"The Bright One" is a giddy comedy about a school teacher who goes on a tour of Greece and becomes transformed into a Greek goddess. The fun begins when she tries to return to her job.

Gladys Cooper and Huge McDermott will appear with her and the role sounds as if it were made for the gay Kay.

Carl Laemmle Jr.'s very interesting houseguest is George Langelaan, well-known newspaperman and author of "The Fly," the horror picture cleaning up at the box office. And I can tell you that Langelaan's visit is not entirely social.

After 20 years away from the movie production field, Junior has an idea which he's writing and will produce—and it, too, is a chiller. Langelaan is collaborating with him.

"After all, I produced 'Invisible Man', 'Dracula' and 'Frankenstein', the granddaddies of the parade of horror movies," Carl Jr., told me with pardonable pride. "I'll feel right at home guiding a new suspense-thriller to the screen."

Now that Glenn Ford and Columbia have settled their difficulties, I am sure I will be forgiven if I print this news.

Glenn has formed his own company, the Glenn Ford Productions. His first is an original, untitled story by Bill Bowers, and wrote "The Sheepman" and "Imitation General," which starred Glenn. Red Buttons will again be Ford's co-star.

And that reminds me, attorney Martin Gang denied that Columbia received any money from Glenn in the settlement. "The case never reached court, so there was no money involved," said Gang.

Tommy Sands is bedded with a bad cold in Honolulu, where he went on his vacation and is forbidden to fly. His mother sends word that the doctor fears ear trouble if Tommy doesn't get completely cured before he travels by air.

So that means that Tommy has to miss the premiere of "Mardi Gras" in New Orleans Friday night. That is too bad, because there never was a city as hospitable as New Orleans. I wish I could make it, because it will really be an occasion to remember with the mayor, the governor, and all the dignitaries on hand to greet the visitors.

With all the guessing and wondering how young Mrs. Bing Crosby was getting along with her mother-in-law, Mrs. Kate Crosby who ran Bing's household until he was married, Dr. John Lordan answered it. He operated on the elder Mrs. Crosby and told me that she is very, very fond of Kathryn, and Kathy stayed right with her even to scrubbing up and assisting in the operating room.

I remember when I first interviewed the young Mrs. Crosby right after her marriage, and she told me she learned so much about the culinary arts from Bing's mother. As I have always said, Kathy is a very sensible and well-adjusted young woman.

CONTRACT TO BE LET

MARTINSBURG, W. Va. (UPI) —A contract for a $123,000 air traffic control tower for the West Virginia Air National Guard base at Martinsburg Municipal Airport will be let soon, it was announced Wednesday. The money was appropriated recently by Congress.

An estimated 63 million cords of wood are used annually in the United States for fuel or about one-eighth of all the wood used in the nation.

Opening lead: heart 3.

Today's hand features a spirited bidding duel in which everyone took part. The issue was not ultimately decided until trick 11.

East chose to open with one club on a hand which barely measures up to textbook requirements. South overcalled with one diamond and West decided upon a free bid of one heart.

North jumped in diamonds to demonstrate an interest in game, but East did not have the values for his free heart raise. South competed with four diamonds; West bid four hearts and North decided to double.

South now reconsidered and decided his chances to make five diamonds were good, for the bidding seemed to mark North's major values in spades and diamonds and there was a good chance he was short in clubs. South therefore bid five diamonds, which West doubled.

The three of hearts was opened and East won with the jack. The shift was to his trump. Declarer won and led a club. West held the trick with the 10 and led another trump.

Declarer won in dummy and ruffed a heart. He ruffed a club in dummy and another heart in his own hand, clearing East's hand of that suit.

Now a club ruff brought down West's ace and cleared his hand of that suit. Declarer returned to his hand with the king of spades, and led out his last two trumps.

West could let go one heart and then had to part with a spade. East could let go one spade and came down to the lone king of clubs. But on the last diamond he could not discard.

In the forlorn hope that partner had the 9 of clubs, he discarded the king, and declarer's 9 was established.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—All those little tidbits coming out of England that have Kay Kendall and Rex Harrison battling over their careers must be exaggerated. Sexy Rexy will direct Kay in "The Bright One," a new play scheduled to open in London the same week that their movie, "The Reluctant Debutante," makes its bow there.

"The Bright One" is a giddy comedy about a school teacher who goes on a tour of Greece and becomes transformed into a Greek goddess. The fun begins when she tries to return to her job.

Gladys Cooper and Huge McDermott will appear with her and the role sounds as if it were made for the gay Kay.

Carl Laemmle Jr.'s very interesting houseguest is George Langelaan, well-known newspaperman and author of "The Fly," the horror picture cleaning up at the box office. And I can tell you that Langelaan's visit is not entirely social.

After 20 years away from the movie production field, Junior has an idea which he's writing and will produce—and it, too, is a chiller. Langelaan is collaborating with him.

"After all, I produced 'Invisible Man', 'Dracula' and 'Frankenstein', the granddaddies of the parade of horror movies," Carl Jr., told me with pardonable pride. "I'll feel right at home guiding a new suspense-thriller to the screen."

Now that Glenn Ford and Columbia have settled their difficulties, I am sure I will be forgiven if I print this news.

Glenn has formed his own company, the Glenn Ford Productions. His first is an original, untitled story by Bill Bowers, and wrote "The Sheepman" and "Imitation General," which starred Glenn. Red Buttons will again be Ford's co-star.

And that reminds me, attorney Martin Gang denied that Columbia received any money from Glenn in the settlement. "The case never reached court, so there was no money involved," said Gang.

Tommy Sands is bedded with a bad cold in Honolulu, where he went on his vacation and is forbidden to fly. His mother sends word that the doctor fears ear trouble if Tommy doesn't get completely cured before he travels by air.

So that means that Tommy has to miss the premiere of "Mardi Gras" in New Orleans Friday night. That is too bad, because there never was a city as hospitable as New Orleans. I wish I could make it, because it will really be an occasion to remember with the mayor, the governor, and all the dignitaries on hand to greet the visitors.

With all the guessing and wondering how young Mrs. Bing Crosby was getting along with her mother-in-law, Mrs. Kate Crosby who ran Bing's household until he was married, Dr. John Lordan answered it. He operated on the elder Mrs. Crosby and told me that she is very, very fond of Kathryn, and Kathy stayed right with her even to scrubbing up and assisting in the operating room.

I remember when I first interviewed the young Mrs. Crosby right after her marriage, and she told me she learned so much about the culinary arts from Bing's mother. As I have always said, Kathy is a very sensible and well-adjusted young woman.

Bronco Charlie Miller, 105, was the last surviving Pony Express rider. He died two years ago.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 club	1 diamond	1 heart	3 diamds
3 spds	4 diamonds	4 hearts	Double
Pass	5 diamonds	Double	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: heart 3.

Today's hand features a spirited bidding duel in which everyone took part. The issue was not ultimately decided until trick 11.

East chose to open with one club on a hand which barely measures up to textbook requirements. South overcalled with one diamond and West decided upon a free bid of one heart.

North jumped in diamonds to demonstrate an interest in game, but East did not have the values for his free heart raise. South competed with four diamonds; West bid four hearts and North decided to double.

South now reconsidered and decided his chances to make five diamonds were good, for the bidding seemed to mark North's major values in spades and diamonds and there was a good chance he was short in clubs. South therefore bid five diamonds, which West doubled.

The three of hearts was opened and East won with the jack. The shift was to his trump. Declarer won and led a club. West held the trick with the 10 and led another trump.

Declarer won in dummy and ruffed a heart. He ruffed a club in dummy and another heart in his own hand, clearing East's hand of that suit.

Now a club ruff brought down West's ace and cleared his hand of that suit. Declarer returned to his hand with the king of spades, and led out his last two trumps.

West could let go one heart and then had to part with a spade. East could let go one spade and came down to the lone king of clubs. But on the last diamond he could not discard.

In the forlorn hope that partner had the 9 of clubs, he discarded the king, and declarer's 9 was established.

WHEREAS, the City of Cumberland is now expending the sum of approximately Seventy-two Thousand Dollars ($72,000.00) per year in connection with its program of garbage collection and the maintenance and operation of the City Dump; and

WHEREAS, the City Dump has not only been used for the benefit and advantage of the residents of the City of Cumberland but has also been used by approximately twenty-five hundred families not living within the City Limits; and

WHEREAS, the City of Cumberland has paid the entire cost of the operation and maintenance of the City Dump as well as the cost of the land upon which the same is located; and

WHEREAS, the area now used as a Dump is almost completely filled and it is within the foreseeable future that the City will be required, at a large cost and expense, to acquire another location to be used as a Dump, or construct an incinerator and;

WHEREAS, it is felt to be within the best interests of the residents of the City of Cumberland to enact these regulations and provisions, all of which deal with the operation, maintenance and control of the City Dump, and charges to be made therefor, for the use of the same by non-residents of the City of Cumberland and a penalty for the violation of the terms and provisions of this Ordinance.

NOW, THEREFORE:

SECTION 1. BE IT ORDAINED BY THE MAYOR AND CITY COUNCIL OF CUMBERLAND, That Sections 7 through 14, inclusive, are hereby enacted and added to Chapter 24 of the Ordinances of the City of Cumberland (Everstine's 1950 Edition), titled "Street Cleaning and Garbage Removal," which new sections shall read as follows:

"7. HOURS. The City Dump will be open for use between the hours of 9 a. m., to 4:30 p. m., Mondays through Friday, and from 9 a. m., to 12 noon on Saturdays. The Dump will be closed on Sundays and may be closed at any time upon Order of the Commissioner of Streets and Public Property.

"8. USE OF DUMP BY RESIDENTS. (a) No resident of the City of Cumberland shall use said Dump except during the hours in which the same is open. (b) Residents desiring to use said Dump on a regular basis for a period not to exceed one (1) year shall obtain a Permit from the City Engineer's office. (c) Residents desirous of using said Dump on an intermittent basis shall obtain a Permit from the attendant employee of the City at said Dump. (d) Residents shall pay such fees for permits to use the City Dump as hereinafter provided.

"9. COMMERCIAL HAULERS—RESIDENT CUSTOMERS. No commercial hauler or contractor engaged in the removal of garbage or other materials, provided in Section 1 of this Chapter, from residences, business establishments or factories located within the City Limits of Cumberland shall use said Dump until he has first obtained a Permit from the City Engineer's office and paid the fee therefor, as hereinafter provided, and has executed an affidavit to the effect that he will not haul any garbage or other materials to said Dump for any person, firm or corporation located outside of the City Limits of Cumberland.

"10. COMMERCIAL HAULERS — NON-RESIDENT CUSTOMERS. No commercial hauler or contractor engaged in the removal of garbage or other materials, provided in Section 1 of this Chapter, from residences, business establishments or factories located outside the City Limits of Cumberland shall use said Dump until he has first obtained a Permit from the City Engineer's office and paid the fee therefor, as hereinafter provided, and has executed an affidavit, to which there is attached a list of all of the customers served by such commercial hauler, which affidavit shall be to the effect that said list is true and correct and that he will not haul any garbage or other material to said Dump for any other person, firm or corporation located outside the City Limits of Cumberland until he has notified the City Engineer's office as to the name of such customer and paid the fee therefor as hereinafter provided. The list of customers to be submitted to the City Engineer shall not only contain the name of each customer but the street address of the same, if any, and if no street address, some description of the address of the customer so that the City will have a means of contacting each such customer at their respective addresses, residences, businesses or factories.

"11. FEES. (a) Residents. One Dollar ($1.00) per year for all licenses issued in pursuance of subsection (b) of Section 8 of this Chapter. There shall be no fees charged for permits issued in accordance with subsection (c) of Section 8 of this Chapter.

(b) Commercial Haulers — Resident Customers. One Dollar ($1.00) per year.

(c) Commercial Haulers — Non-Resident Customers. Ten Dollars ($10.00) per year per customer, except as hereinafter set forth.

(d) The City Engineer, upon approval of the Commissioner of Streets and Public Property, shall have the right to raise any fees for any non-resident person, firm or corporation when, in the opinion of said City Engineer and Commissioner of Streets and Public Property the amount of garbage or other materials to be placed on said Dump justifies an increased fee.

(e) For the purposes of fees, the term "Year" shall mean calendar year, with the exception that the first year shall be for a period from November 15, 1958, to December 31, 1959. There shall be no apportionment for fractional periods and no refunds of any fees paid shall be made, unless the same are paid through error.

(f) All fees provided for herein shall be paid yearly in advance.

"12. SALVAGE AND TRESPASSING. No person shall enter upon the premises of said City Dump other than the employee or employees of the City of Cumberland assigned to operate said Dump, or other City Employees authorized to be on said premises or other persons lawfully authorized to use said Dump, unless they are the holders of a Permit issued by the City of Cumberland; and no person shall remove any material from said Dump unless duly authorized by the City Engineer and upon the approval of the Commissioner of Streets and Public Property, unless such person is an employee of the person, firm or corporation having the salvage rights at said Dump under and by virtue of a contract with the Mayor and City Council.

"13. RULES AND REGULATIONS. The Commissioner of Streets and Public Property may make any rule or regulations that may be desirable for the maintenance, operation and control of said City Dump. However, none of the same shall conflict with any of the terms and provisions of this Chapter.

"14. FINES. (a) Any person, firm or corporation violating any of the provisions of Sections 7 to 14, inclusive of this Chapter, shall, upon arrest and conviction thereof, be fined not less than Twenty-five Dollars ($25.00) nor more than One Hundred Dollars ($100.00) and, in default thereof, shall be committed to the City Jail or County Jail for not less than one (1) day nor more than thirty (30) days.

(b) The City Police Magistrate, upon any conviction for any violation of this Chapter, shall not have the power to suspend or reduce the fine provided for."

SECTION 2 AND BE IT FURTHER ORDAINED, That if any part or parts of this Ordinance are for any reason held invalid or unconstitutional by any court of competent jurisdiction in the premises, such decision shall not affect in any manner whatsoever the validity of the remaining portions of this Ordinance.

SECTION 3. AND BE IT FURTHER ORDAINED, That this Ordinance shall take effect November 15, 1958.

Two States Tax Soft Drinks

Only two American states still have a special penny-a-bottle tax on soft drinks and the effect in both states has been a depressing influence on the industry, Roy C. Lottig, manager of the local Coca-Cola plant, told members of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club.

His remarks were in the form of a rebuttal to a statement made at the club's October 2 meeting by Dr. Kenneth Randolph, dean of the West Virginia University dental school. Dr. Randolph was explaining that the $30 million West Virginia Medical Center at Morgantown is being financed by a "painless" penny-a-bottle soft drink tax.

Mr. Lottig said that before the soft drink tax became effective, West Virginian's were drinking 24 bottles of soft drinks a year over the national average. By 1956, the average was 43 bottles under the national average and the industry was operating at only about 50 per cent of its potential.

The speaker said that South Carolina is the only other state with a similar tax and there about 50 per cent of the bottling plants were forced out of business. Soft drink consumption was 30 per cent less than in the neighboring states of North Carolina and Georgia.

Man To Face Auto Charge

A Mt. Savage man wanted here in connection with a breaking and entering has been transferred from the Bedford jail to Johnstown, where he will be charged with auto larceny, police said.

Trooper Joseph Helmsteter of the State Police said Robert H. Witt, about 25, has been locked up in Bedford. The man is wanted in Allegany County in connection with a breaking and entering Sunday at a gasoline station near Corriganville.

Next week Sgt. William F. Baker, criminal investigator for the state police, and Edwin R. Lilya, county investigator, plan to go to Johnstown to question the man.

Sergeant Baker said last night that Witt has been involved in breaking and enterings and auto larcenies over the past 10 years.

Trooper Helmstetter said five auto tires and several cans of oil were stolen from the service station. Police said Witt has admitted stealing a truck in Hagerstown and the breaking and entering here.

The man was nabbed in Bedford on a stolen car charge from Johnstown. Sergeant Baker said Witt is also being sought by authorities of Hagerstown.

which would provide for a six-man commission to administer law enforcement on the Potomac. It would be made up of present fisheries commissions of Maryland and Virginia. (Story on page 11.)

Much of the morning session was taken up with Baltimore attorney Hyman Pressman's request that the council investigate practices on the State Police force. It decided to pass the matter back to Gov. McKeldin as a "direct, administrative responsibility."

Improprieties Hinted

He said there are indications it may be standard practice for State Police headquarters to instruct arresting officers to reduce collateral and dispose of traffic cases before court; indications of violations of state police regulations relating to firearms, the unofficial use of police cars and the possession or drinking of alcoholic beverages on State Police property.

The council adopted recommendations for two changes in the law growing out of the commission's report. One would prohibit acceptance of cash collateral by any State Police employe in a traffic violation case, and the other would require trial magistrates to maintain a complete warrants docket showing full information on arrests and service of warrants.

AN ORDINANCE OF THE MAYOR AND CITY COUNCIL OF CUMBERLAND, MARYLAND, ENTITLED "AN ORDINANCE TO ADD SECTIONS 7 THROUGH 14 TO CHAPTER 24 OF THE ORDINANCES OF THE CITY OF CUMBERLAND (EVERSTINE'S 1950 EDITION), TITLED 'STREET CLEANING AND GARBAGE REMOVAL,' ALL OF WHICH NEW SECTIONS DEAL WITH THE OPERATION, CONTROL AND MAINTENANCE OF THE CITY DUMP AND PROVIDE FOR A PENALTY FOR THE VIOLATION OF THE SAME."

WHEREAS, the City of Cumberland is now expending the sum of approximately Seventy-two Thousand Dollars ($72,000.00) per year in connection with its program of garbage collection and the maintenance and operation of the City Dump; and

WHEREAS, the City Dump has not only been used for the benefit and advantage of the residents of the City of Cumberland but has also been used by approximately twenty-five hundred families not living within the City Limits; and

WHEREAS, the City of Cumberland has paid the entire cost of the operation and maintenance of the City Dump as well as the cost of the land upon which the same is located; and

WHEREAS, the area now used as a Dump is almost completely filled and it is within the foreseeable future that the City will be required, at a large cost and expense, to acquire another location to be used as a Dump, or construct an incinerator and;

WHEREAS, it is felt to be within the best interests of the residents of the City of Cumberland to enact these regulations and provisions, all of which deal with the operation, maintenance and control of the City Dump, and charges to be made therefor, for the use of the same by non-residents of the City of Cumberland and a penalty for the violation of the terms and provisions of this Ordinance.

NOW, THEREFORE:

SECTION 1. BE IT ORDAINED BY THE MAYOR AND CITY COUNCIL OF CUMBERLAND, That Sections 7 through 14, inclusive, are hereby enacted and added to Chapter 24 of the Ordinances of the City of Cumberland (Everstine's 1950 Edition), titled "Street Cleaning and Garbage Removal," which new sections shall read as follows:

"7. HOURS. The City Dump will be open for use between the hours of 9 a. m., to 4:30 p. m., Mondays through Friday, and from 9 a. m., to 12 noon on Saturdays. The Dump will be closed on Sundays and may be closed at any time upon Order of the Commissioner of Streets and Public Property.

"8. USE OF DUMP BY RESIDENTS. (a) No resident of the City of Cumberland shall use said Dump except during the hours in which the same is open. (b) Residents desiring to use said Dump on a regular basis for a period not to exceed one (1) year shall obtain a Permit from the City Engineer's office. (c) Residents desirous of using said Dump on an intermittent basis shall obtain a Permit from the attendant employee of the City at said Dump. (d) Residents shall pay such fees for permits to use the City Dump as hereinafter provided.

"9. COMMERCIAL HAULERS—RESIDENT CUSTOMERS. No commercial hauler or contractor engaged in the removal of garbage or other materials, provided in Section 1 of this Chapter, from residences, business establishments or factories located within the City Limits of Cumberland shall use said Dump until he has first obtained a Permit from the City Engineer's office and paid the fee therefor, as hereinafter provided, and has executed an affidavit, to which there is attached a list of all of the customers served by such commercial hauler, which affidavit shall be to the effect that said list is true and correct and that he will not haul any garbage or other material to said Dump for any other person, firm or corporation located outside the City Limits of Cumberland until he has notified the City Engineer's office as to the name of such customer and paid the fee therefor as hereinafter provided. The list of customers to be submitted to the City Engineer shall not only contain the name of each customer but the street address of the same, if any, and if no street address, some description of the address of the customer so that the City will have a means of contacting each such customer at their respective addresses, residences, businesses or factories.

"11. FEES. (a) Residents. One Dollar ($1.00) per year for all licenses issued in pursuance of subsection (b) of Section 8 of this Chapter. There shall be no fees charged for permits issued in accordance with subsection (c) of Section 8 of this Chapter.

(b) Commercial Haulers — Resident Customers. One Dollar ($1.00) per year.

(c) Commercial Haulers — Non-Resident Customers. Ten Dollars ($10.00) per year per customer, except as hereinafter set forth.

(d) The City Engineer, upon approval of the Commissioner of Streets and Public Property, shall have the right to raise any fees for any non-resident person, firm or corporation when, in the opinion of said City Engineer and Commissioner of Streets and Public Property the amount of garbage or other materials to be placed on said Dump justifies an increased fee.

(e) For the purposes of fees, the term "Year" shall mean calendar year, with the exception that the first year shall be for a period from November 15, 1958, to December 31, 1959. There shall be no apportionment for fractional periods and no refunds of any fees paid shall be made, unless the same are paid through error.

(f) All fees provided for herein shall be paid yearly in advance.

"12. SALVAGE AND TRESPASSING. No person shall enter upon the premises of said City Dump other than the employee or employees of the City of Cumberland assigned to operate said Dump, or other City Employees authorized to be on said premises or other persons lawfully authorized to use said Dump, unless they are the holders of a Permit issued by the City of Cumberland; and no person shall remove any material from said Dump unless duly authorized by the City Engineer and upon the approval of the Commissioner of Streets and Public Property, unless such person is an employee of the person, firm or corporation having the salvage rights at said Dump under and by virtue of a contract with the Mayor and City Council.

"13. RULES AND REGULATIONS. The Commissioner of Streets and Public Property may make any rule or regulations that may be desirable for the maintenance, operation and control of said City Dump. However, none of the same shall conflict with any of the terms and provisions of this Chapter.

"14. FINES. (a) Any person, firm or corporation violating any of the provisions of Sections 7 to 14, inclusive of this Chapter, shall, upon arrest and conviction thereof, be fined not less than Twenty-five Dollars ($25.00) nor more than One Hundred Dollars ($100.00) and, in default thereof, shall be committed to the City Jail or County Jail for not less than one (1) day nor more than thirty (30) days.

(b) The City Police Magistrate, upon any conviction for any violation of this Chapter, shall not have the power to suspend or reduce the fine provided for."

SECTION 2 AND BE IT FURTHER ORDAINED, That if any part or parts of this Ordinance are for any reason held invalid or unconstitutional by any court of competent jurisdiction in the premises, such decision shall not affect in any manner whatsoever the validity of the remaining portions of this Ordinance.

SECTION 3. AND BE IT FURTHER ORDAINED, That this Ordinance shall take effect November 15, 1958.

Two States Tax Soft Drinks

Only two American states still have a special penny-a-bottle tax on soft drinks and the effect in both states has been a depressing influence on the industry, Roy C. Lottig, manager of the local Coca-Cola plant, told members of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club.

His remarks were in the form of a rebuttal to a statement made at the club's October 2 meeting by Dr. Kenneth Randolph, dean of the West Virginia University dental school. Dr. Randolph was explaining that the $30 million West Virginia Medical Center at Morgantown is being financed by a "painless" penny-a-bottle soft drink tax.

Mr. Lottig said that before the soft drink tax became effective, West Virginian's were drinking 24 bottles of soft drinks a year over the national average. By 1956, the average was 43 bottles under the national average and the industry was operating at only about 50 per cent of its potential.

The speaker said that South Carolina is the only other state with a similar tax and there about 50 per cent of the bottling plants were forced out of business. Soft drink consumption was 30 per cent less than in the neighboring states of North Carolina and Georgia.

Man To Face Auto Charge

A Mt. Savage man wanted here in connection with a breaking and entering has been transferred from the Bedford jail to Johnstown, where he will be charged with auto larceny, police said.

Trooper Joseph Helmsteter of the State Police said Robert H. Witt, about 25, has been locked up in Bedford. The man is wanted in Allegany County in connection with a breaking and entering Sunday at a gasoline station near Corriganville.

Next week Sgt. William F. Baker, criminal investigator for the state police, and Edwin R. Lilya, county investigator, plan to go to Johnstown to question the man.

Sergeant Baker said last night that Witt has been involved in breaking and enterings and auto larcenies over the past 10 years.

Trooper Helmstetter said five auto tires and several cans of oil were stolen from the service station. Police said Witt has admitted stealing a truck in Hagerstown and the breaking and entering here.

The man was nabbed in Bedford on a stolen car charge from Johnstown. Sergeant Baker said Witt is also being sought by authorities of Hagerstown.

which would provide for a six-man commission to administer law enforcement on the Potomac. It would be made up of present fisheries commissions of Maryland and Virginia. (Story on page 11.)

Much of the morning session was taken up with Baltimore attorney Hyman Pressman's request that the council investigate practices on the State Police force. It decided to pass the matter back to Gov. McKeldin as a "direct, administrative responsibility."

Gordon M. Allen, chairman of the riminal Justice Commission, said neither the governor nor Col. Elmer F. Munshower had requested further information from his fact-finding group after it alleged improprieties on the force.

Improprieties Hinted

He said there are indications it may be standard practice for State Police headquarters to instruct arresting officers to reduce collateral and dispose of traffic cases before court; indications of violations of state police regulations relating to firearms, the unofficial use of police cars and the possession or drinking of alcoholic beverages on State Police property.

The council adopted recommendations for two changes in the law growing out of the commission's report. One would prohibit acceptance of cash collateral by any State Police employe in a traffic violation case, and the other would require trial magistrates to maintain a complete warrants docket showing full information on arrests and service of warrants.

A reception will be held in the church community hall, following the ceremony.

Pimlico Breeders Stake Is Captured By Snommis

Beats Nora Dares, Dr. Herb Is Third, 9,883 At Opening

BALTIMORE, Nov. 13 (AP) — Snommis won the $7,500-added Pimlico Breeders Stakes today as Pimlico Race Track opened its 30-day fall meeting.

Snommis was heavily favored in the mile and a sixteenth test and finished three and a half lengths ahead of Mrs. Walter A. Edgar's Nora Dares. The time over a fast track was 1.47 4/5.

The winner, who gets his name from the reverse spelling of the last name of his owner, Fred A. Simmons, posted a mutuel of $4.30, $3 and $2.40. Nora Dares paid $6.40 and $4.40, while the early pacesetter, Joseph Seriou Jr.'s Dr. Herb, finished a neck behind the runnerup and paid $5.80.

Rated well off the early lead by Charley Burr, Snommis moved from next to last position midway of the backstretch and had attained command before reaching the home stretch.

It was the second added money triumph for the juvenile son of The Rhymer, the colt having last month accounted for a division of the Marlboro Nursery.

After four favorites came home winners in the first six races, the crowd of 9,883 got a rude awakening in the seven-furlong seventh event when Brandywine Stable's Countermand scored by a length over Toque at odds of $114.40 for $2.

Countermand, a starter in the 1956 Kentucky Derby, has achieved his first 1958 victory out of eleven trips to the post. He came from far off the pace in the grass race to be going away at the finish.

Brown Paper and Cohansey teamed up for a $56.80 daily double. Winning double numbers were 2 and 1.

Pimlico Breeders Stake Is Captured By Snommis

Beats Nora Dares, Dr. Herb Is Third, 9,883 At Opening

BALTIMORE, Nov. 13 (AP) — Snommis won the $7,500-added Pimlico Breeders Stakes today as Pimlico Race Track opened its 30-day fall meeting.

Snommis was heavily favored in the mile and a sixteenth test and finished three and a half lengths ahead of Mrs. Walter A. Edgar's Nora Dares. The time over a fast track was 1.47 4/5.

The winner, who gets his name from the reverse spelling of the last name of his owner, Fred A. Simmons, posted a mutuel of $4.30, $3 and $2.40. Nora Dares paid $6.40 and $4.40, while the early pacesetter, Joseph Seriou Jr.'s Dr. Herb, finished a neck behind the runnerup and paid $5.80.

Rated well off the early lead by Charley Burr, Snommis moved from next to last position midway of the backstretch and had attained command before reaching the home stretch.

It was the second added money triumph for the juvenile son of The Rhymer, the colt having last month accounted for a division of the Marlboro Nursery.

After four favorites came home winners in the first six races, the crowd of 9,883 got a rude awakening in the seven-furlong seventh event when Brandywine Stable's Countermand scored by a length over Toque at odds of $114.40 for $2.

Countermand, a starter in the 1956 Kentucky Derby, has achieved his first 1958 victory out of eleven trips to the post. He came from far off the pace in the grass race to be going away at the finish.

Brown Paper and Cohansey teamed up for a $56.80 daily double. Winning double numbers were 2 and 1.

Movie Censor Bill Receives Cold Shoulder

Legislators Fail To Approve Ban

By HERB THOMPSON

BALTIMORE (AP)—Maryland's Legislative Council turned thumbs down Thursday on a bill to ban certain movies for viewing by teenagers as it completed work on legislation for the 1959 General Assembly.

The vote against the censorship bill was 7-5 despite a lively public hearing Wednesday night at which a crowd of some 150 people and the State Board of Motion Picture Censors had strongly urged its passage.

Before the vote was taken, council chairman Louis L. Goldstein (D-Calvert) read an opinion from the attorney general stating that the legislation would be constitutional.

The measure may still come before the 1959 legislature, but without council backing. A similar bill failed in the House of Delegates last year.

Restrictive Licensing

The revised bill would have permitted the state's three-man censor board to license only for persons 16 or older films which it determined to be obscene for youngsters.

Sen. Bertorelli (D - Balto 1st) tried to get his colleagues to back the legislation as an effective curb toward what he described as a trend by Hollywood to exploit sex among youths.

But the only council members who would join him were Sens. Goldstein and Phipps (D - Anne Arundel), Del. Boone (D - Balto County) and Del. Wilkinson (D-Prince Georges).

While rejecting the censorship measure, the council endorsed proposed amendments which would tighten a state law relating to sale of obscene matter on newsstands.

The amendments will permit a better court test of the legislation, which law enforcement officers have contended is too broad. One would specify that display of any such magazines where they could be seen by an 18-year-old would be presumption of intent to sell them to youths. Another provides that where an employe makes a sale, the employer would be held responsible.

Other Action

The between-sessions arm of the General Assembly ploughed through a heavy stack of reports and proposed legislation as it completed its work for 1958.

Among other items on its final agenda, the council:

1. Refused to launch an investigation of the Maryland State Police force and requested instead that the governor call on the Baltimore Criminal Justice Commission for information it claims to have on "improprieties" on the force. Legislators felt the matters were an executive, not legislative, responsibility.

2. Approved three motor vehicle bills providing for driver education in high schools, a tightening of the eyesight requirement for drivers' licenses (from 20-70 vision to 20-40), and making it a misdemeanor to disobey "walk" and "don't walk" control signs for pedestrians. The council rejected a fourth bill, to create an offense of negligent homicide in the motor vehicle code.

3. Adopted recommendations of its judiciary committee to kill bills which would expand the University of Maryland Board of Regents and provide for a permanent extension of unemployment benefits approved as an anti-recession temporary measure last spring. It also adopted the committee's favorable report on a bill to prevent witnesses from being held in jail for unusually long periods.

4. Approved a program for tighter control over oil pollution in Chesapeake Bay, including a requirement that ships seal their bilge pumps on entering the bay.

5. Heard progress reports from the Lerner Committee on Mental Hospitals, the Bar Assn.'s committee proposals to set up an intermediate court to cut down the workload of the Court of Appeals, and the Maryland Committee working with Virginia toward a solution of oyster and fishing problems on the Potomac River.

Mrs. Barbara Lawrence, well-known lecturer, will speak on the State of Israel during a dinner meeting Sunday at 6:30 p.m. at the Fort Cumberland Hotel on behalf of the United Jewish Appeal which will open here.

The campaign in the Cumberland area is under the direction of Mark Lazarus, who is being assisted by Richard Schwab and Robert Gerson, co-chairmen. Dr. Samuel Jacobson will be master of ceremonies for the dinner.

The program will be under the auspices of the Jewish Welfare Fund of Western Maryland. The officers of the area United Jewish Appeal who were recently elected are R. Sander Lewine, president, Robert Gerson, vice president, Robert Kaplon, secretary and George Ossip, treasurer.

Man Held Here In Theft Cases

A 19-year-old Mill Run man who reportedly admitted to city police he took a .38 calibre pistol from a local resident is being held for questioning by county authorities in connection with other theft cases.

Robert M. McKee admitted in a statement to City Police Detective Lieutenant James E. Van that he stole an old U.S. Army .38 calibre pistol from the home of Frank Foster, 460 Walnut Street.

The complaint of the larceny was received from Mr. Foster on November 4. The man said someone entered his bedroom after 6:30 p. m. and took the pistol, eight cartridges and a pair of tan shoes. McKee said he did not take the cartridges or shoes.

The Mill Run man was arrested earlier this week by Tfc. Milton Hart and lodged in the Allegany County Jail.

Fairchild Reports $4,390,000 Loss

HAGERSTOWN—Fairchild Engine and Airplane Corporation reported a loss of $4,390,000 after federal tax credits for the nine months ended September 30. Sales totaled $106,896,000.

Richard S. Boutelle, president, said operating losses for the nine months amounted to $9,211,000, offset in part by tax credits of $4,821,000. The net loss of $5,003,000 reported for the six months ended June 30, has been reduced to $4,390,000 at September 30, as a result of recent changes in the tax law permitting carry back of operating losses for three years instead of two.

Mr. Boutelle indicated that continuing write-off of F-27 starting load costs are responsible for the corporation losses but that other operations of the company have been conducted on a profitable basis.

Vacancy Allowance Calls Must Be Prompt

Property owners who wish vacancy allowances for water and sewage treatment charges mus. report promptly to the Water Department both at the time of vacancy and on rental.

The Water Department will remit charges when an apartment or home is vacant for at least a month.

The department said yesterday that citizens must notify the city both times to be sure of getting the allowance.

Pennsylvanians Seek Title To Airplane

Court Decree Is Requested

An equity suit was filed in Allegany County Circuit Court this week seeking clarification of the ownership of an airplane.

Paul M. Yeneral and James V. Cavalier II, 303 Hamilton Avenue, Greensburg, Pa., through Attorney George R. Hughes Jr., brought the equity action against C. E. Burgess, 813 Mt. Royal Avenue, and the Endless Tread Tractor Corporation, 120 South Liberty Street.

Specifically, the legal action was brought for the purpose of getting a court decree ordering the respondents to deliver to the Pennsylvanians a bill of sale transferring ownership of the Consolidated Vultee V-77 aircraft.

The bill of complaint states that on or about March 15, the Pennsylvanians agreed to purchase the aircraft for $1,250 from Mr. Burgess and the corporation.

On June 11, Mr. Yeneral and Mr. Cavalier were notified by the Civil Aeronautics Administration in Washington, D.C., that the certificate of registration could not be issued to them because the bill of sale was signed only by Mr. Burgess.

Representatives of the corporation refused to execute a bill of sale until Mr. Burgess gave them a portion of the proceeds from the sale of the aircraft. The Pennsylvanians say they have done all they can to get a proper bill of sale and now request to intervene and order the parties to take action.

Back on May 15, in a damage suit in Circuit Court, the Endless Tread Tractor Corporation won a $4,290.64 judgment from Mr. Burgess, former president of the corporation.

Water Line Half Done

Water Department crews have completed more than half of a city water main which will run along the Cumberland Thruway in South Cumberland.

Installed to date are some 3,700 feet of 12-inch line from Virginia Avenue to near Vancouver Street.

Officials plan to have all 7,100 feet of the line in to Oldtown Road at White Oaks Avenue by late spring.

When completed, the new line will run from Virginia Avenue to Oldtown Road along the Industrial Highway segment of the Thruway.

It will boost water volume in South Cumberland by connecting main supply lines and will provide additional water service for anticipated expansion along the new highway.

Five Arrested For Loitering On Centre St.

Three local persons and a resident of the Oldtown area, arrested last night on a charge of loitering on North Centre Street, will be given hearings this morning in Police Court.

Arresting officer was City Police Detective Kenneth Morrissey. A 16-year-old boy, being held for action of Juvenile Court, was taken to the detention quarters of the Allegany County Infirmary.

Two posted $20 bond and were released. They are Jimmie Matthews, 22, of 140 North Centre Street, and Jimmie Dahl, 25, of 312 Jefferson Street. Jailed in default of bond were Charles Jenkins, 19, of 45 Greene Street, and Thomas E. Edmonson, 20, of RFD 4, Oldtown. Police said that on previous occasions they had been warned about loitering and last night they were taken into custody.

Union Raises Strike Threat; Westvaco Sees Settlement

WASHINGTON (AP) — A union negotiator said Thursday night there is a "strong possibility" of a strike against West Virginia Pulp and Paper Co. because of bogged-down contract talks.

Harry Scott, who heads the negotiating team for the United Paperworkers Union, said the company has refused to agree to certain non-monetary items in discussions that began Oct. 28.

He said he wasn't optimistic at this stage about the chances of an early settlement.

But D. C. Valentine, co-ordinator of labor relations for West Virginia took an opposite view and said he was reasonably optimistic the two sides would be able to agree without too much difficulty.

The firm operates paper-making plants at Luke, Md., Covington, Va., and Williamsburg, Pa. Some 3,700 hourly employes are members of the union.

Federal Mediator Gilbert McCutcheon will take a hand in the negotiations for the first time Friday. Scott said he was entering at a time when it appeared the talks might break off.

New Church Of Christ Being Built

Work on the new Church of Christ edifice is now nearing completion at 211 South Lee Street. Men are shown on the roof finishing that section of the structure which is expected to be ready for services the first part of next year. The new church was started in September. The present church (on the right) will be used as temporary classrooms. Paul M. Catherman Jr., who preaches at the church, said proposed plans call for a new L-shaped classroom building within about three or four years.

Iser Remains At Large; No New Clues

No new clues have turned up in the continued search for Howard M. Iser, 37, one of two prisoners who escaped last week from the Allegany County jail, police said.

A 13-state search for the man is still in effect. Early Tuesday morning city police received a call that Iser was at a North Mechanic Street address, but a search of the building proved the call was a false alarm. No further calls have been reported.

State Police at LaVale and West Virginia State Police at Romney said there were no new clues although the search for Iser is continuing.

An intensified search of the Romney area resulted after a Fort Ashby man informed police he picked up a hitchhiker late Saturday night who might have been Iser.

On Saturday morning Robert C. Bryant, 18, of 446 Lamont Street, gave himself up to local authorities. He told them he and Iser went to Wiley Ford where Iser picked up a .22 calibre rifle, some food and clothes hidden there.

The two escapees gained freedom by sawing bars of two windows and climbing down the rear wall of the jail last Wednesday night.

Boys Sentenced In Theft Series

Three Slabtown youths were sentenced yesterday in Juvenile Court in connection with a series of 11 breaking and enterings recently in Mt. Savage, Vale Summit and Morantown.

Albert Leroy Bridges, 18, was sentenced to 60 days in the County Jail by Magistrate Fred H. Anderson for contributing to the delinquency of three minor boys.

Magistrate Anderson ordered two 15-year-old youths involved in the case sent to the Maryland Training School. A fourth boy also was found guilty of being a delinquent minor but Magistrate Anderson withheld sentence pending an examination of the youth.

The youths were arrested last week by State Police for breaking into Shine's Restaurant in Mt. Savage and taking about $200 worth of foodstuffs and 30 cartons of cigarets.

Several restaurants and grocery stores in the area were broken into by the youths during the past year and a half.

Radio Information Sought In Survey

Information on the number of privately-owned passenger autos and households equipped with radios in working order will be available for the first time as the result of special questions to be asked in the November Current Population Survey.

This is the first time since 1950 that information on household ownership of radio sets has been collected by the Census Bureau. The radio questions to be asked this month will be in addition to the usual inquiries on employment and unemployment asked each month in the survey.

City Secures Supply Of Forms For Dump Permits

The City Engineering Department has secured a supply of permit forms for the use of the Cumberland dump.

The permits will be issued to commercial haulers who make use of the city dump beginning Saturday.

Contractors will be issued one permit but as many stickers as he has vehicles, and the stickers must be displayed on the windshields of the vehicles.

Residents of Cumberland who use the dump intermittently do not need permits and may use the dump without charge after identifying themselves to the city worker operating the dump.

Commercial haulers for resident customers will pay $1 a year for dumping permits. Haulers for non-resident customers will be required to pay $10 a year per customer and must present a list containing the names and addresses of all non-resident customers.

Dan's Mountain Blaze Burns Over 100 Acres

A persistent brush and grass fire on the west side of Dan's Mountain about two miles south of Lonaconing was still occupying the attention of fire fighters last night some 12 hours after the blaze was first reported.

An afternoon report estimated that about 100 acres of brush and grass had been burned up to that time, when the fire was supposed to have been brought under control. However, last night, Senior Forest Supervisor Brook Bodkin, who was in charge of the fire fighting operations, had informed his wife in McCoole that he planned to spend the night on the mountain to keep the blaze under control.

Boys from the forestry camp in Garrett County just west of Lonaconing were called into action to battle the flames.

Condemnation Jurors Return $3,500 Verdict

A $3,500 verdict was returned by an Allegany County Circuit Court jury yesterday afternoon in the first condemnation trial of the current term of court.

The State Roads Commission brought the action against Ruland T. Gilson and Myrtle E. Gilson over about four-tenths of an acre along old U.S. Route 40 between Flintstone and the new bridge across Town Creek.

Two witnesses were called by the SRC attorneys, Matthew J. Mullaney of this city and Earl I. Rosenthal, a special attorney for the State Roads Commission. They were Sterling Levi, a right-of-way agent for the SRC, and D. Clifford Goodfellow, local real estate agent. Mr. Goodfellow testified that the Gilsons should be entitled to $2,827.50.

Earl E. Manges, attorney for the Gilsons, called James A. Perrin, another real estate man, and Mr. Gilson to the stand. Mr. Perrin figured Mr. Gilson was entitled to $5,000.

Allan C. Fisher of LaVale was foreman of the jury of five men and seven women which deliberated about 50 minutes before returning a verdict. Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris presided at the trial.

Man Hurt In Crash Still 'Critical'

James Wilson Robinette, 24, of Johnson Road off Baltimore Pike, last night was reported still in "critical" condition at Sacred Heart Hospital, where he was admitted Wednesday night after an auto crash.

The hospital reported he sustained severe head injuries and was still unconscious last night.

Mr. Robinette was injured when his car left U.S. Route 40 about two and one-half miles east of Cumberland and rolled down an embankment.

Dwain E. Gable, 21, also of Johnson Road, a passenger in the car, sustained rib injuries in the accident and was reported in "fair" condition at Sacred Heart.

Higher Than Average:

County Students Go For Math, Science, Languages

A survey of subject enrollments in the Allegany County high schools prepared by Assistant Superintendent of Schools Richard T. Rizer shows that students in this county are slightly ahead of the state average in the number taking mathematics, science and foreign languages.

Mr. Rizer discussed this survey in some detail at the recent meeting of the high school principals.

English is a required subject in all four years from the ninth through the 12th grade. In the ninth grade or freshman year, there are 1,207 pupils enrolled. All of them take English, 1,064 are enrolled in social studies, slightly more than half or 619 take algebra I and nearly one-third or 385 are taking Latin.

In the sophomore class, where the total county enrollment is 1,344, all of them take both English and biology. World history is a subject of 1,250 while 540 are enrolled in plane geometry and 331 in Latin.

Many Courses Required

There are 1,182 juniors in the county schools and all of them take both English and U.S. history. The spread over the electives in the junior year is rather wide. Enrolled are 320 in algebra II, 464 in chemistry, 123 in French and 121 in Spanish.

Total senior enrollment is 970 and English is the only required subject. There are 553 taking problems of democracy, 123 in trigonometry and solid geometry, 221 in physics, 84 in French and only 55 taking Spanish.

Mr. Rizer's survey also includes vocational and general subjects.

There are no vocation courses until the sophomore year. Of the county's 1,344 sophomores, 251 are enrolled in business training, 559 in commercial arithmetic, 276 in home economics, 57 in industrial arts and 29 in agriculture.

In the junior year typing I is a popular vocational course as more than half of the 1,182 juniors take it. There are 600 in typing, 221 in shorthand I, 163 in home economics, 63 in industrial arts, and 18 taking agriculture.

Among the 970 seniors there is a wide variety in choice of vocational subjects. Nearly half or 439 take bookkeeping I. Other totals include 246 for typing II, 121 for shorthand II, 18 for bookkeeping II, 118 for home economics, 50 for industrial arts, 18 in agriculture and the same number taking distributive education.

"Fiz Ed" Not So Popular

On the general level, Mr. Rizer's survey shows that after the ninth grade, where physical education is required for all 1,207 members of the class, there is an abrupt decline in the senior high grades. Only 330 of the 1,344 sophomores, 263 of the 1,182 juniors and 187 of the 970 seniors take physical education.

Totals for other general courses among the 1,207 freshmen include 630 in general mathematics, 78 in core, 1,065 in music, 253 in band, 409 in art, 597 in home economics, 618 in industrial arts.

Among the 1,344 sophomores, there are 143 enrolled in general mathematics, 35 in music, 150 in band, 454 in chorus, 61 in art, 61 in home economics, 236 in industrial arts.

Economic geography is the most popular general subject among the 1,182 juniors as 336 are enrolled. Others include 278 in psychology, 135 in journalism, 66 in speech, 27 in music, 132 in band, 270 in chorus, 47 in art, 51 in home economics, 174 in industrial arts.

General subject selections by the 970 seniors include 106 in economics, 125 in senior mathematics, 307 in senior science, 12 in journalism, 20 in music, 82 in band, 193 in chorus, 30 in art, 45 in home economics, and 125 in industrial arts.

Firemen Check Car Fire Here

An overheated motor was blamed for a fire which did slight damage to an auto yesterday near the intersection of North Centre and Frederick streets.

Firemen from Central station received a call about 10:19 a.m. but the fire was out on arrival. The car, firemen said, belonged to Moore's Auto Sales.

Local Episcopal Minister Named Center Director

Rev. Robert M. Powell, son of William E. Powell, 119 South Lee Street, has been appointed director of the Lafayette Square Community Center in Baltimore.

The appointment was made by Rt. Rev. Noble C. Powell, Bishop of Maryland. The Center is a project of the Episcopal Women of the Diocese of Maryland.

There are approximately 100 children between the age of five and 17 using the facilities of the Center each day. Father Powell said their work is very challenging and will help curb juvenile delinquency in that particular section of Baltimore.

Father Powell was also recently appointed by the bishop as chaplain to the Episcopal students at Morgan State College and chaplain at Provident Hospital in Baltimore.

At the present time, Father Powell is serving as an assistant minister at St. James Church in that city and as consultant to the youth work in the parish. He is also conducting a special survey for the bishop.

City Gets Another Portion Of Flood Control Project

Section 2 of the Potomac River phase of the Cumberland-Ridgeley flood protection has been accepted by the Corps of Engineers.

A spokesman for the Corps said the contract has been turned over to the City of Cumberland for maintenance.

The firm will complete work on Sections 2 and 3 of the Wills Creek phase of the project by the end of the year.

Lee St. Church Building Nears Completion

Church Of Christ To Have New Quarters

In the near future, members of the Church of Christ, 213 South Lee Street, will be worshiping in a new edifice which is nearing completion next door to the present church.

Paul M. Catherman Jr., 118 Center Street, Frostburg, who preaches to the congregation, said yesterday it is hoped the new church will be ready for services by the first of next year.

Work on the church began in September. The new one-story brick structure will measure about 60 feet by 30 feet. This week, the carpenters are putting the building under roof.

Included in the building will be an auditorium and a partitioned section enclosed with glass in the front of the church where mothers may take their small children for Sunday worship. Provision will be made for them to be able to hear the sermons.

The construction of the church is one phase of a building program, Mr. Catherman said. Within the next three or four years, plans call for construction of an L-shaped building which will be used for classrooms.

The present church will be converted to temporary classrooms and eventually will probably be razed. The elders of the church, who are the governing body, also hope to be able to provide ample parking space for the worshippers.

Mr. Catherman, who is employed as a construction engineer for the State Roads Commission, maintains a large library of commentaries, history of religion and research books at his home.

He said the Church of Christ was organized here in about 1940, and members met at various locations prior to attending services at the present church.

Carolyn Cook, Beall High School, will preside and Bertha Duke, Allegany High School, will serve as vice president and program chairman. A movie on world service will be shown.

Representatives of all clubs of the county are urged to attend the meeting.

Final plans will be made for the Maryland Youth Conference to be held here next month. More than 300 delegates from YMCA's throughout Maryland are expected to attend.

The Council will aid in finding quarters for the delegates in the Cumberland area.

Plans will also be completed Sunday for the county-wide dance to be held November 22 in Central YMCA, sponsored by Tri-Hi-Y and Hi-Y clubs of the county.

Proceeds will be used for world service.

Shots Are Urged For 5-Year-Olds

Dr. Ton van Strien, county helath officer, yesterday said that parents of children who will enter school next year should discuss with their family doctors the need for polio and DPT shots and smallpox vaccination.

He said that if the program is started now, children will be able to complete the immunization program before school opens.

Winter, he said, is the ideal time to start the program.

Movie Censor Bill Receives Cold Shoulder

Legislators Fail To Approve Ban

By HERB THOMPSON

BALTIMORE (AP)—Maryland's Legislative Council turned thumbs down Thursday on a bill to ban certain movies for viewing by teenagers as it completed work on legislation for the 1959 General Assembly.

The vote against the censorship bill was 7-5 despite a lively public hearing Wednesday night at which a crowd of some 150 people and the State Board of Motion Picture Censors had strongly urged its passage.

Before the vote was taken, council chairman Louis L. Goldstein (D-Calvert) read an opinion from the attorney general stating that the legislation would be constitutional.

The measure may still come before the 1959 legislature, but without council backing. A similar bill failed in the House of Delegates last year.

Restrictive Licensing

The revised bill would have permitted the state's three-man censor board to license only for persons 16 or older films which it determined to be obscene for youngsters.

Sen. Bertorelli (D - Balto 1st) tried to get his colleagues to back the legislation as an effective curb toward what he described as a trend by Hollywood to exploit sex among youths.

But the only council members who would join him were Sens. Goldstein and Phipps (D - Anne Arundel), Del. Boone (D - Balto County) and Del. Wilkinson (D-Prince Georges).

While rejecting the censorship measure, the council endorsed proposed amendments which would tighten a state law relating to sale of obscene matter on newsstands.

The amendments will permit a better court test of the legislation, which law enforcement officers have contended is too broad. One would specify that display of any such magazines where they could be seen by an 18-year-old would be presumption of intent to sell them to youths. Another provides that where an employe makes a sale, the employer would be held responsible.

Other Action

The between-sessions arm of the General Assembly ploughed through a heavy stack of reports and proposed legislation as it completed its work for 1958.

Among other items on its final agenda, the council:

1. Refused to launch an investigation of the Maryland State Police force and requested instead that the governor call on the Baltimore Criminal Justice Commission for information it claims to have on "improprieties" on the force. Legislators felt the matters were an executive, not legislative, responsibility.

2. Approved three motor vehicle bills providing for driver education in high schools, a tightening of the eyesight requirement for drivers' licenses (from 20-70 vision to 20-40), and making it a misdemeanor to disobey "walk" and "don't walk" control signs for pedestrians. The council rejected a fourth bill, to create an offense of negligent homicide in the motor vehicle code.

3. Adopted recommendations of its judiciary committee to kill bills which would expand the University of Maryland Board of Regents and provide for a permanent extension of unemployment benefits approved as an anti-recession temporary measure last spring. It also adopted the committee's favorable report on a bill to prevent witnesses from being held in jail for unusually long periods.

4. Approved a program for tighter control over oil pollution in Chesapeake Bay, including a requirement that ships seal their bilge pumps on entering the bay.

5. Heard progress reports from the Lerner Committee on Mental Hospitals, the Bar Assn.'s committee proposals to set up an intermediate court to cut down the workload of the Court of Appeals, and the Maryland Committee working with Virginia toward a solution of oyster and fishing problems on the Potomac River.

Man Held Here In Theft Cases

A 19-year-old Mill Run man who reportedly admitted to city police he took a .38 calibre pistol from a local resident is being held for questioning by county authorities in connection with other theft cases.

Robert M. McKee admitted in a statement to City Police Detective Lieutenant James E. Van that he stole an old U.S. Army .38 calibre pistol from the home of Frank Foster, 460 Walnut Street.

The complaint of the larceny was received from Mr. Foster on November 4. The man said someone entered his bedroom after 6:30 p. m. and took the pistol, eight cartridges and a pair of tan shoes. McKee said he did not take the cartridges or shoes.

Following questioning by local police, McKee was turned over to the state's attorney's office for further investigation.

The Mill Run man was arrested earlier this week by Tfc. Milton Hart and lodged in the Allegany County Jail.

Fairchild Reports $4,390,000 Loss

HAGERSTOWN—Fairchild Engine and Airplane Corporation reported a loss of $4,390,000 after federal tax credits for the nine months ended September 30. Sales totaled $106,896,000.

Richard S. Boutelle, president, said operating losses for the nine months amounted to $9,211,000, offset in part by tax credits of $4,821,000. The net loss of $5,003,000 reported for the six months ended June 30, has been reduced to $4,390,000 at September 30, as a result of recent changes in the tax law permitting carry back of operating losses for three years instead of two.

Mr. Boutelle indicated that continuing write-off of F-27 starting load costs are responsible for the corporation losses but that other operations of the company have been conducted on a profitable basis.

Vacancy Allowance Calls Must Be Prompt

Property owners who wish vacancy allowances for water and sewage treatment charges mus report promptly to the Water Department both at the time of vacancy and on rental.

The Water Department will remit charges when an apartment or home is vacant for at least a month.

The department said yesterday that citizens must notify the city both times to be sure of getting the allowance.

Pennsylvanians Seek Title To Airplane

Court Decree Is Requested

An equity suit was filed in Allegany County Circuit Court this week seeking clarification of the ownership of an airplane.

Paul M. Yeneral and James V. Cavalier II, 303 Hamilton Avenue, Greensburg, Pa., through Attorney George R. Hughes Jr., brought the equity action against C. E. Burgess, 813 Mt. Royal Avenue, and the Endless Tread Tractor Corporation, 120 South Liberty Street.

Specifically, the legal action was brought for the purpose of getting a court decree ordering the respondents to deliver to the Pennsylvanians a bill of sale transferring ownership of the Consolidated Vultee V-77 aircraft.

The bill of complaint states that on or about March 15, the Pennsylvanians agreed to purchase the aircraft for $1,250 from Mr. Burgess and the corporation.

On June 11, Mr. Yeneral and Mr. Cavalier were notified by the Civil Aeronautics Administration in Washington, D.C., that the certificate of registration could not be issued to them because the bill of sale was signed only by Mr. Burgess.

Representatives of the corporation refused to execute a bill of sale until Mr. Burgess gave them a portion of the proceeds from the sale of the aircraft. The Pennsylvanians say they have done all they can to get a proper bill of sale and now request to intervene and order the parties to take action.

Back on May 15, in a damage suit in Circuit Court, the Endless Tread Tractor Corporation won a $4,290.64 judgment from Mr. Burgess, former president of the corporation.

Water Line Half Done

Water Department crews have completed more than half of a city water main which will run along the Cumberland Thruway in South Cumberland.

Installed to date are some 3,700 feet of 12-inch line from Virginia Avenue to near Vancouver Street.

The work is stopped until grading on Montreal Avenue is completed.

Officials plan to have all 7,100 feet of the line in to Oldtown Road at White Oaks Avenue by late spring.

When completed, the new line will run from Virginia Avenue to Oldtown Road along the Industrial Highway segment of the Thruway.

It will boost water volume in South Cumberland by connecting main supply lines and will provide additional water service for anticipated expansion along the new highway.

Five Arrested For Loitering On Centre St.

Three local persons and a resident of the Oldtown area, arrested last night on a charge of loitering on North Centre Street, will be given hearings this morning in Police Court.

Arresting officer was City Police Detective Kenneth Morrissey. A 16-year-old boy, being held for action of Juvenile Court, was taken to the detention quarters of the Allegany County Infirmary.

Two posted $20 bond and were released. They are Jimmie Matthews, 22, of 140 North Centre Street, and Jimmie Dahl, 25, of 312 Jefferson Street. Jailed in default of bond were Charles Jenkins, 19, of 45 Greene Street, and Thomas E. Edmonson, 20, of RFD 4, Oldtown. Police said that on previous occasions they had been warned about loitering and last night they were taken into custody.

Union Raises Strike Threat; Westvaco Sees Settlement

WASHINGTON (AP) — A union negotiator said Thursday night there is a "strong possibility" of a strike against West Virginia Pulp and Paper Co. because of bogged-down contract talks.

Harry Scott, who heads the negotiating team for the United Paperworkers Union, said the company has refused to agree to certain non-monetary items in discussions that began Oct. 28.

He said he wasn't optimistic at this stage about the chances of an early settlement.

But D. C. Valentine, co-ordinator of labor relations for West Virginia took an opposite view and said he was reasonably optimistic the two sides would be able to agree without too much difficulty.

The firm operates paper-making plants at Luke, Md., Covington, Va., and Williamsburg, Pa. Some 3,700 hourly employes are members of the union.

Federal Mediator Gilbert McCutcheon will take a hand in the negotiations for the first time Friday. Scott said he was entering at a time when it appeared the talks might break off.

New Church Of Christ Being Built

Work on the new Church of Christ edifice is now nearing completion at 211 South Lee Street. Men are shown on the roof finishing that section of the structure which is expected to be ready for services the first part of next year. The new church was started in September. The present church (on the right) will be used as temporary classrooms. Paul M. Catherman Jr., who preaches at the church, said proposed plans call for a new L-shaped classroom building within about three or four years.

Iser Remains At Large; No New Clues

No new clues have turned up in the continued search for Howard M. Iser, 37, one of two prisoners who escaped last week from the Allegany County jail, police said.

A 13-state search for the man is still in effect. Early Tuesday morning city police received a call that Iser was at a North Mechanic Street address, but a search of the building proved the call was a false alarm. No further calls have been reported.

State Police at LaVale and West Virginia State Police at Romney said there were no new clues although the search for Iser is continuing.

An intensified search of the Romney area resulted after a Fort Ashby man informed police he picked up a hitchhiker late Saturday night who might have been Iser.

On Saturday morning Robert C. Bryant, 18, of 446 Lamont Street, gave himself up to local authorities. He told them he and Iser went to Wiley Ford where Iser picked up a .22 calibre rifle, some food and clothes hidden there.

The two escapees gained freedom by sawing bars of two windows and climbing down the rear wall of the jail last Wednesday night.

Boys Sentenced In Theft Series

Three Slabtown youths were sentenced yesterday in Juvenile Court in connection with a series of 11 breaking and enterings recently in Mt. Savage, Vale Summit and Morantown.

Albert Leroy Bridges, 18, was sentenced to 60 days in the County Jail by Magistrate Fred H. Anderson for contributing to the delinquency of three minor boys.

Magistrate Anderson ordered two 15-year-old youths involved in the case sent to the Maryland Training School. A fourth boy also was found guilty of being a delinquent minor but Magistrate Anderson withheld sentence pending an examination of the youth.

The youths were arrested last week by State Police for breaking into Shine's Restaurant in Mt. Savage and taking about $200 worth of foodstuffs and 30 cartons of cigarets.

Several restaurants and grocery stores in the area were broken into by the youths during the past year and a half.

Radio Information Sought In Survey

Information on the number of privately-owned passenger autos and households equipped with radios in working order will be available for the first time as the result of special questions to be asked in the November Current Population Survey.

This is the first time since 1950 that information on household ownership of radio sets has been collected by the Census Bureau. The radio questions to be asked this month will be in addition to the usual inquiries on employment and unemployment asked each month in the survey.

City Secures Supply Of Forms For Dump Permits

The City Engineering Department has secured a supply of permit forms for the use of the Cumberland dump.

The permits will be issued to commercial haulers who make use of the city dump beginning Saturday.

Contractors will be issued one permit but as many stickers as he has vehicles, and the stickers must be displayed on the windshields of the vehicles.

Residents of Cumberland who use the dump intermittently do not need permits and may use the dump without charge after identifying themselves to the city worker operating the dump.

Commercial haulers for resident customers will pay $1 a year for dumping permits. Haulers for non-resident customers will be required to pay $10 a year per customer and must present a list containing the names and addresses of all non-resident customers.

Dan's Mountain Blaze Burns Over 100 Acres

A persistent brush and grass fire on the west side of Dan's Mountain about two miles south of Lonaconing was still occupying the attention of fire fighters last night some 12 hours after the blaze was first reported.

An afternoon report estimated that about 100 acres of brush and grass had been burned up to that time, when the fire was supposed to have been brought under control. However, last night, Senior Forest Supervisor Brook Bodkin, who was in charge of the fire fighting operations, had informed his wife in McCoole that he planned to spend the night on the mountain to keep the blaze under control.

Boys from the forestry camp in Garrett County just west of Lonaconing were called into action to battle the flames.

Condemnation Jurors Return $3,500 Verdict

A $3,500 verdict was returned by an Allegany County Circuit Court jury yesterday afternoon in the first condemnation trial of the current term of court.

The State Roads Commission brought the action against Ruland T. Gilson and Myrtle E. Gilson over about four-tenths of an acre along old U.S. Route 40 between Flintstone and the new bridge across Town Creek.

Two witnesses were called by the SRC attorneys, Matthew J. Mullaney of this city and Earl I. Rosenthal, a special attorney for the State Roads Commission. They were Sterling Levi, a right-of-way agent for the SRC, and D. Clifford Goodfellow, local real estate agent. Mr. Goodfellow testified that the Gilsons should be entitled to $2,827.50.

Earl E. Manges, attorney for the Gilsons, called James A. Perrin, another real estate man, and Mr. Gilson to the stand. Mr. Perrin figured Mr. Gilson was entitled to $5,000.

Allan C. Fisher of LaVale was foreman of the jury of five men and seven women which deliberated about 50 minutes before returning a verdict. Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris presided at the trial.

Man Hurt In Crash Still 'Critical'

James Wilson Robinette, 24, of Johnson Road off Baltimore Pike, last night was reported still in "critical" condition at Sacred Heart Hospital, where he was admitted Wednesday night after an auto crash.

The hospital reported he sustained severe head injuries and was still unconscious last night.

Mr. Robinette was injured when his car left U.S. Route 40 about two and one-half miles east of Cumberland and rolled down an embankment.

Dwain E. Gable, 21, also of Johnson Road, a passenger in the car, sustained rib injuries in the accident and was reported in "fair" condition at Sacred Heart.

Higher Than Average:

County Students Go For Math, Science, Languages

A survey of subject enrollments in the Allegany County high schools prepared by Assistant Superintendent of Schools Richard T. Rizer shows that students in this county are slightly ahead of the state average in the number taking mathematics, science and foreign languages.

Mr. Rizer discussed this survey in some detail at the recent meeting of the high school principals.

English is a required subject in all four years from the ninth through the 12th grade. In the ninth grade or freshman year, there are 1,207 pupils enrolled. All of them take English, 1,064 are enrolled in social studies, slightly more than half or 619 take algebra I and nearly one-third or 385 are taking Latin.

In the sophomore class, where the total county enrollment is 1,344, all of them take both English and biology. World history is a subject of 1,250 while 540 are enrolled in plane geometry and 331 in Latin.

Many Courses Required

There are 1,182 juniors in the county schools and all of them take both English and U.S. history. The spread over the electives in the junior year is rather wide. Enrolled are 320 in algebra II, 464 in chemistry, 123 in French and 121 in Spanish.

Total senior enrollment is 970 and English is the only required subject. There are 553 taking problems of democracy, 123 in trigonometry and solid geometry, 221 in physics, 84 in French and only 55 taking Spanish.

Mr. Rizer's survey also includes vocational and general subjects.

There are no vocation courses until the sophomore year. Of the county's 1,344 sophomores, 251 are enrolled in business training, 559 in commercial arithmetic, 276 in home economics, 57 in industrial arts and 29 in agriculture.

In the junior year typing I is a popular vocational course as more than half of the 1,182 juniors take it. There are 600 in typing, 221 in shorthand I, 163 in home economics, 63 in industrial arts, and 18 taking agriculture.

Among the 970 seniors there is a wide variety in choice of vocational subjects. Nearly half or 439 take bookkeeping I. Other totals include 246 for typing II, 121 for shorthand II, 18 for bookkeeping II, 118 for home economics, 50 for industrial arts, 18 in agriculture and the same number taking distributive education.

"Fiz Ed" Not So Popular

On the general level, Mr. Rizer's survey shows that after the ninth grade, where physical education is required for all 1,207 members of the class, there is an abrupt decline in the senior high grades. Only 330 of the 1,344 sophomores, 263 of the 1,182 juniors and 187 of the 970 seniors take physical education.

Totals for other general courses among the 1,207 freshmen include 630 in general mathematics, 78 in core, 1,065 in music, 253 in band, 409 in art, 597 in home economics, 618 in industrial arts.

Among the 1,344 sophomores, there are 143 enrolled in general mathematics, 35 in music, 150 in band, 454 in chorus, 61 in art, 61 in home economics, 236 in industrial arts.

Economic geography is the most popular general subject among the 1,182 juniors as 336 are enrolled. Others include 278 in psychology, 135 in journalism, 66 in speech, 27 in music, 132 in band, 270 in chorus, 47 in art, 51 in home economics, 174 in industrial arts.

General subject selections by the 970 seniors include 106 in economics, 125 in senior mathematics, 307 in senior science, 12 in journalism, 20 in music, 82 in band, 193 in chorus, 30 in art, 45 in home economics, and 125 in industrial arts.

Church Of Christ To Have New Quarters

In the near future, members of the Church of Christ, 213 South Lee Street, will be worshiping in a new edifice which is nearing completion next door to the present church.

Paul M. Catherman Jr., 118 Center Street, Frostburg, who preaches to the congregation, said yesterday it is hoped the new church will be ready for services by the first of next year.

Work on the church began in September. The new one-story brick structure will measure about 60 feet by 30 feet. This week, the carpenters are putting the building under roof.

Included in the building will be an auditorium and a partitioned section enclosed with glass in the front of the church where mothers may take their small children for Sunday worship. Provision will be made for them to be able to hear the sermons.

The construction of the church is one phase of a building program, Mr. Catherman said. Within the next three or four years, plans call for construction of an L-shaped building which will be used for classrooms.

The present church will be converted to temporary classrooms and eventually will probably be razed. The elders of the church, who are the governing body, also hope to be able to provide ample parking space for the worshippers.

Mr. Catherman, who is employed as a construction engineer for the State Roads Commission, maintains a large library of commentaries, history of religion and research books at his home.

He said the Church of Christ was organized here in about 1940, and members met at various locations prior to attending services at the present church.

Shots Are Urged For 5-Year-Olds

Dr. Ton van Strien, county helath officer, yesterday said that parents of children who will enter school next year should discuss with their family doctors the need for polio and DPT shots and smallpox vaccination.

He said that if the program is started now, children will be able to complete the immunization program before school opens.

Winter, he said, is the ideal time to start the program.
